OVER SIX HUNDRED POLL TAXES PAID IS SATURDAY RECORD

QUALIFIED VOTERS IN COUNTY TO DATE 6185, INCLUDING EXEMPTIONS—CITY OF WACO ONLY TWENTY-FIVE POLLS BEHIND SAME DATE IN 1913.

COUNTRY SHOWING UP STRONG

Those Desiring to Pay Polls May Do So Without Paying Property Tax or Vice Versa—Only About Half of Local Voting Strength Represented in Present Figures.

Waco citizens are evidently determined to "Keep Waco in the City Class," as urged by the Young Men's Business League, for when County Tax Collector Lee R. Davis closed his office last night, the records for the day showed that 610 poll tax receipts had been issued, by far the largest number of any day to date this year. Incidentally, the total was swelled to 5,401, just twenty-five under 5,426, the record on the same day in 1913, "the big year." The 1914 record on the same date was 3,585.

The question has been raised in some places as to whether poll taxes could be paid unless property taxes were paid at the same time. Mr. Davis stated yesterday that he would take poll taxes, even if the payer desired to allow his property tax to go delinquent. On the other hand, he will take property taxes without the payment of poll tax, although very few who pay on their property fail to also qualify as voters.

Up to last night, 6,185 voters of McLennan county had qualified as voters, 784 exemptions having been issued in additional to the poll tax receipts. Chairman W. T. Wheeler of the Y. M. B. L. committee in charge of the poll tax campaign was jubilant over the prospects for an even better showing than in 1913.

All comparisons with 1914 ceased when Mr. Davis and his deputies realized how many receipts had been issued during the day. Everybody had been busy. Everybody was tired. But nobody could realize that the total was so large. When additions showed 610 as the total, it was feared that there was some mistake. Careful rechecking showed the figures correct.

On the corresponding day last year 321 receipts were issued and for the same day in 1913, 367. The total registration for 1914 was 9,045, for 1913, 12,044. Judging from all indications this year will surpass even the 1913 figures. The polls and exemptions to date by boxes are as follows:

UNIVERSAL SERVICE FAVORED BY NATIONAL SECURITY LEAGUE

SECRETARY GARRISON'S EFFORTS TO ENLARGE FORCES ENDORSED WITH RESERVATION THAT MOBILE ARMY SHOULD BE GREATER THAN CONTEMPLATED.

PLAN TO UNIFY ORGANIZATIONS

Former Attorney General Wickersham Urges Repeal of Law Calling Out Guardsmen in Advance of Volunteers, Claiming States Have Not Done Duty in Manning Coast Defenses.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—An indorsement of Secretary Garrison's efforts toward enlargement of the nation's military forces was voted today at the National Security league with the reservations that the regular mobile army shall be even greater than that contemplated in the war department plan and that adequate national defense would depend ultimately upon "universal obligatory military training and service." A greater building program for the navy than has been outlined by the navy department was urged as essential in another resolution adopted.

Steps to co-ordinate the work of the various organizations seeking greater armament was indorsed and it was understood tonight that definite plans had been made for a general consolidation of such organizations in a defense league with Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, as its president. Besides the National Security League, societies expected to enter the new organization include the Navy league, the Army league, the American Defense society, the Aero club of America and the many others which have joined in the movement for preparedness.

Adoption of the resolutions followed indorsement of Secretary Garrison's program as a first sound step toward adequate preparedness by Elihu Root and Henry L. Stimson, both former secretaries of war in republican administrations. At a banquet tonight concluding the three-day meeting of the league, George W. Wickersham, former attorney general, advocated military service and immediate repeal of the law under which the national guard would be called into service in advance of volunteers.

Resolutions Adopted.

Other speakers at the banquet were Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, ranking republican member of the foreign relations committee, who discussed "America's Danger," and George Haven Putnam of New York.

Resolutions drafted by a committee of which Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war, was chairman were adopted almost unanimously. They follow:

"Be it resolved, That the defense of the United States depends upon an adequate navy and a national army founded upon a system of universal obligatory military training and service. This system must be wholly under the discipline and control of the national authorities. We deprecate all steps which tend to obstruct or postpone the adoption of such a universal system.

"That the National Security league indorses the efforts of Secretary Garrison to obtain an increase in the regular army, the correction of our faulty enlistment law, the establishment of an adequate regular army reserve and the accumulation of an adequate supply of ammunition, artillery and material, but we believe that in addition to the proposed quota of coast artillery and auxiliary troops the mobile regular army within the United States should comprise at least four complete infantry divisions as recommended by the war college report of 1915.

"That the National Security league recommends the authorization by congress of a council of national defense as set forth in house bill No. 1833 of the first session of the Sixty-third congress, commonly known as the Hobson bill, for the purpose of securing more harmonious co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government with respect to the national defenses.

Urge Increase in Navy.

"That the National Security league commends the establishment of a navy adequate to conserve the national interest in conformity with the following recommendations:

"That the personnel of the navy be increased in conformity with the requirements of the fleet as interpreted by the general board of the navy; that there shall be established for the navy a general staff similar to the general staff of the army, as is customary in all other navies of the world; and that

MEXICANS CHARGED WITH KILLING AKERS WILL BE EXECUTED

AMERICANS CROSSING INTO CHIHUAHUA AFTER MISSING COWS ATTACKED AND ONE SHOT TO DEATH—WENT UNARMED ON ADVICE OF CONSUL EDWARDS.

SURVIVOR RELATES HIS STORY

Declares Bernardo Duran, Said to Have Confessed, Is Not Man Who Fired Fatal Shots—Doubt Aroused as to Whether Real Slayers Have Yet Been Arrested.

By The Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 22.—Bernardo and Frederico Duran, the Mexican cattle thieves involved in the killing of Bert Akers, an American, yesterday at San Lorenzo, Chihuahua, just below the boundary line, will be executed tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock, according to an announcement made tonight by Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul here.

"The Durans confessed their crime and were sentenced to death today," said Mr. Garcia, "and a firing squad will execute the penalty."

The body of Akers was brought to El Paso today to await instructions from his relatives. An examination at the hospital in Juarez is said to have shown Akers had been shot through the heart and the brain as well as through the body. Juan Barrios, the police officer who was with the Americans, is held pending investigation.

A United States provost guard opened fire today upon a number of Mexican soldiers who, while rounding up horses for the Mexican government, crossed the international boundary near here. The guard, Private Harrison, company C, Sixteenth infantry, first ordered the Mexicans to return to their own side of the boundary line. When one refused Harrison fired several shots from his revolver over the head of the Mexican, who then fled.

Earlier in the day customs officers fired in the direction of several Mexicans who were attempting to smuggle rags from Juarez to El Paso in defiance of the ruling of the immigration department against such importations because of the fear of contagion from typhus.

General Gavira, commandant at Juarez, has issued an order providing for a further search of the civilian homes for arms and ammunition in order, he said, to prevent any outbreak against Americans. Ten thousand arms of various sorts already have been collected, it was said.

The cows which Akers and Douglas Downs were seeking when they were killed were brought to the American side late today and returned to the owner, Mrs. J. D. Murphy of Ysleta, Texas. The three horses which had been left in Mexico when Akers was killed also were returned today.

Downs repeated to an official stenographer this afternoon the story which he had told early today of the attack by the Durans. In this statement, which was telegraphed to Washington, Downs made the positive statement that at least five Mexicans fired on them from the roof of the Duran house near San Lorenzo. Downs' statement also sets out that he and Akers went into Mexican territory unarmed on the advice of Thomas D. Edwards, American consul at Juarez.

Zach L. Cobb, United States customs collector here, called the attention of the Juarez authorities to Downs' assertion that five Mexicans participated in the attack and asked that the three men believed to be still at large be arrested and punished also.

Bernardo Duran Not Slayer.

By the Associated Press.

Ysleta, Tex., Jan. 22.—Douglas Downs, survivor of the attack by Mexican cattle rustlers in which his companion, Bert Akers, was killed yesterday, declared tonight that he had gone to Juarez late today and had seen Bernardo Duran, the man who is said to have confessed the killing and that Duran was not the man who pursued him and Akers on the fatal chase after the first conversation at the Duran house.

"They let me see only Bernardo Duran, saying he was the man that confessed to having killed Bert," said Downs. "But I am convinced that he is not the man who pursued us and who rode on Bert's horse and shot at me and finally killed Akers."

Citizens met tonight and adopted a resolution directed to Congressman W. P. Smith of this district, asking that Carranza officials at Juarez be requested to exhibit the bodies of the Duran brothers after their execution set for tomorrow, so that it may be definitely determined whether either actually was the man who killed Akers.

The statement of Downs that Bernardo Duran was not the man who chased him and Akers on horseback, coupled with his declaration that five

SIX KILLED WHEN SNOWSLIDE SWEEPS CARS FROM TRACK

TAKE PASSENGERS TO SEATTLE

Father and Baby of Family of Five on Way to Funeral of Relative Among the Dead—Four Bodies Recovered and Identified—Railroad Engineers Thought Place Amply Protected.

By The Associated Press.

Seattle, Jan. 22.—Six persons were killed and fifteen injured in the dining car and day coach of a westbound Great Northern train when the two cars were caught by a snow avalanche early today and hurled 300 feet down the mountain side near Corea Station on the west slope of the Cascade mountains.

Tonight four bodies had been recovered and were identified as those of:

Bert Kirkman, Sheridan, Wyo.

W. F. Carter, East Vancouver, B. C.

Edward Batterman and baby, Wenatchee, Washn.

A ten-year-old son of Mr. Batterman is missing and it is feared he is dead. Still another passenger, name not known, has not been found.

Ernest Smith, a boy of Spokane, was the only one of the injured believed to be in a serious condition tonight. All passengers, including the injured, will be brought to Seattle tonight. None of the train crew or dining car employes was dangerously injured.

The ill-fated train which had been stopped by a small slide, was about ready to proceed following the clearing of the track ahead when an avalanche broke from the mountain side and caught the dining car and day coach. They were shot down the mountain side like chips. The dining caught fire and was destroyed. One dead man and three injured were extricated from it and a charred body remained while rescuers devoted their efforts to the other victims.

Concrete snow sheds were erected on the approaches to the Cascade tunnel following the tragedy of February 28, 1916, when two passenger trains were swept from the tracy by a snowslide near the scene of the present accident. Railroad engineers believed all points liable to be reached by a slide had been protected.

Peter Saver of Leavenworth, Washington, was in the smoking car when the avalanche struck the train. At first he thought there had been a collision. The car began to rise, he said, and all the passengers rushed to the front to get out. He looked out of the window and saw the chair car and dining car tumbled over. The car turned over once, slid and then burst into flames. The escaping injury rushed to extricate passengers buried in the snow.

Miss Fern Murdock, a young teacher of Cashmere, Washington, in the end of the chair car and thrown fifty feet down the mountain side into snow up to her neck. Mrs. Edward Batterman of Wenatchee, with her husband and three children, was on her way to Oregon to attend the funeral of her mother. She was warming a bottle of milk for her eight-months-old baby when the slide hit the chair car. The bottle broke, severely cutting her. She was pinned fast in the car by debris and it was forty minutes after an opening was cut into the car before she was extricated. Her husband and baby were found dead, the baby clasped in its father's arms. Her ten-year-old son is missing. The third child escaped unhurt.

M. J. Costello, assistant traffic manager of the Great Northern was shaving in the parlor car but escaped unhurt.

Several passengers in the sleeping car were slightly hurt when the front end of the car was thrown around and hung suspended over the canyon. In their hurry to escape many passengers fled partly dressed and huddled together wrapped in blankets until relief arrived.

Another snowslide east of Corea today tore out several hundred feet of snow sheds.

WILL NOT RE-OPEN PANAMA CANAL FOR SOME TIME TO COME

By the Associated Press.

Panama, Jan. 22.—Owing to uncertainty regarding the movement of slides in Gaillard cut, the Panama canal is not ready to be reopened nor can a prediction as to its prospective reopening be made, according to a statement issued today by Major General Goethals, governor of the canal zone, which follows:

"It is not intended to reopen the canal until a safe and practically permanent channel is reasonably assured. This cannot be assured at present, although operations of the dredges during the past four months have shown that they are able, when not interrupted in the work by the passage of ships or the clearing of the channel for navigation, to gain on the slides, and it is desired to have a reasonable assurance that they can maintain this gain even with such delay.

"It is hoped that before long better information on the two main controlling features will be available. The large mass of rock at the base of Gold hill, on the east bank, is being carefully observed. If the materials behind it move northwardly, as is not unlikely, one danger of interruption to navigation will be removed.

"The other feature is the rate of motion that will result in the west slide when the dredges attack its face, as will be shortly done. It is believed that the dredges can keep ahead of any possible motion in this mass, providing the east bank is quiescent or nearly so.

"As soon as this office feels that sufficient information on these points is at hand to justify it, a prediction will be made. In the meantime, it is recommended that the canal be not considered in the routing of shipping. The work of restoration of the canal is proceeding most favorably. The office has in mind the desire of commerce to resume navigation through the canal, and as long notice as possible will be given to shippers in order that preparations for such routing may be adequate."

This statement is the result of exhaustive investigations and stoudy by a special board composed of Lieut.-Col. J. J. Morrow, Commander Cone and Resident Engineer W. D. Comber.

Arkansas Streams Rising.

It was his first visit to the jail where his sons are held awaiting action on an indictment. He was accompanied by the Rev. Wm. E. Barton.

"I love you and your mother loves you," he is reported to have said to his sons. "It hurts us both to have you here. We would rather die than see you suffer harm, but you had better remain here until public attention is directed elsewhere. I have no resentment toward either of you."

"We may have to remain here for six months," said Herbert.

"Well, the discipline will do you both good," the father replied. "It is a hard thing to say, but it will be a good lesson to you."

U. S. Abandons Hope of Learning What Sank Persia

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22—The state department has virtually abandoned hope of determining what destroyed the British steamship Persia, sunk in the Mediterranean, with a loss of at least two American lives.

Austria-Hungary and German have disclaimed responsibility for the disaster and affidavits of surviving passengers being inconclusive but one source of information remains open. This is through the British government, which has in its possession affidavits from members of the crew. The affidavits were turned over to a British consular representative in Alexandria, Egypt, and were forwarded to London. The state department has not yet been advised that the documents have reached their destination.

The opinion prevails, however, that if conclusive proof that the Persia was torpedoed was contained in the affidavits, mention of the fact would have been made before this time by the British government.

A rejoinder to Austria's latest reply regarding the Ancona case has been held up pending the possible receipts of more information regarding the Persia.

The state department tonight had heard only through press dispatches of the disclaimer regarding the Persia delivered to Ambassador Penfield by the Vienna foreign office. A dispatch from the ambassador momentarily was expected, however.

Yuma Valley Inundated by Waters of Colorado River

By the Associated Press.

Yuma, Ariz., Jan. 22.—JYuma valley was covered to a depth of from one to four feet of flood water from the Colorado river tonight as a result of the breaking of the government levees near here today. The city of Yuma was in darkness and without a supply of water. A citizens' committee was maintaining order here. Mayor Charles C. Moore having died of heart failure during the excitement that prevailed shortly after the levees gave way.

Business houses in the main street were flooded to a depth of four feet by the water and many of the older buildings were washed away or badly damaged. Residents were sent to the hills back from the river.

Thousands of acres of agricultural land bot hon the Arizona and the California sides of the Colorado were inundated and it was feared that serious damage would result to the gigantic irrigation project that supplies the Imperial Valley of California.

Many of the oldest building sin Yuma have disappeared beneath flood waters. It is estimated early tonight that at least a hundred houses had been destroyed.

All reports from the upper Colorado river tonight stated that the water was falling, but the flood here showed no indications of receding.

The water at 6 o'clock tonight was lapping against the girders of the Southern Pacific railroad bridge, but the structure at that hour was withstanding the pressure.

This system must be wholly under the discipline and control of the national authorities. We deprecate all steps which tend to obstruct or postpone the adoption of such a universal system.

"That the National Security league indorses the efforts of Secretary Garrison to obtain an increase in the regular army, the correction of our faulty enlistment law, the establishment of an adequate regular army reserve and the accumulation of an adequate supply of ammunition, artillery and material, but we believe that in addition to the proposed quota of coast artillery and auxiliary troops the mobile regular army within the United States should comprise at least four complete infantry divisions as recommended by the war college report of 1915.

"That the National Security league recommends the authorization by congress of a council of national defense as set forth in house bill No. 1833 of the first session of the Sixty-third congress, commonly known as the Hobson bill, for the purpose of securing more harmonious co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government with respect to the national defenses.

WILL NOT RE-OPEN PANAMA CANAL FOR SOME TIME TO COME

By the Associated Press.

Panama, Jan. 22.—Owing to uncertainty regarding the movement of slides in Gaillard cut, the Panama canal is not ready to be reopened nor can a prediction as to its prospective reopening be made, according to a statement issued today by Major General Goethals, governor of the canal zone, which follows:

"It is not intended to reopen the canal until a safe and practically permanent channel is reasonably assured. This cannot be assured at present, although operations of the dredges during the past four months have shown that they are able, when not interrupted in the work by the passage of ships or the clearing of the channel for navigation, to gain on the slides, and it is desired to have a reasonable assurance that they can maintain this gain even with such delay.

"It is hoped that before long better information on the two main controlling features will be available. The large mass of rock at the base of Gold hill, on the east bank, is being carefully observed. If the materials behind it move northwardly, as is not unlikely, one danger of interruption to navigation will be removed.

"The other feature is the rate of motion that will result in the west slide when the dredges attack its face, as will be shortly done. It is believed that the dredges can keep ahead of any possible motion in this mass, providing the east bank is quiescent or nearly so.

"As soon as this office feels that sufficient information on these points is at hand to justify it, a prediction will be made. In the meantime, it is recommended that the canal be not considered in the routing of shipping. The work of restoration of the canal is proceeding most favorably. The office has in mind the desire of commerce to resume navigation through the canal, and as long notice as possible will be given to shippers in order that preparations for such routing may be adequate."

This statement is the result of exhaustive investigations and stoudy by a special board composed of Lieut.-Col. J. J. Morrow, Commander Cone and Resident Engineer W. D. Comber.

Villa was near El Rucio, in the vicinity of Pearson, Chihuahua, when Prieto left him, the messenger said.

Updike Forgives Sons for Plotting to Take His Life

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Furman S. Updike, whose sons Irving and Herbert confessed to plotting to murder him last week, today visited them in jail, teld the young men he had forgiven them and authorized a lawyer to take their case.

It was his first visit to the jail where his sons are held awaiting action on an indictment. He was accompanied by the Rev. Wm. E. Barton.

"I love you and your mother loves you," he is reported to have said to his sons. "It hurts us both to have you here. We would rather die than see you suffer harm, but you had better remain here until public attention is directed elsewhere. I have no resentment toward either of you."

"We may have to remain here for six months," said Herbert.

"Well, the discipline will do you both good," the father replied. "It is a hard thing to say, but it will be a good lesson to you."

MEXICANS CHARGED WITH KILLING AKERS WILL BE EXECUTED

AMERICANS CROSSING INTO CHIHUAHUA AFTER MISSING COWS ATTACKED AND ONE SHOT TO DEATH—WENT UNARMED ON ADVICE OF CONSUL EDWARDS.

SURVIVOR RELATES HIS STORY

Declares Bernardo Duran, Said to Have Confessed, Is Not Man Who Fired Fatal Shots—Doubt Aroused as to Whether Real Slayers Have Yet Been Arrested.

By The Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 22.—Bernardo and Frederico Duran, the Mexican cattle thieves involved in the killing of Bert Akers, an American, yesterday at San Lorenzo, Chihuahua, just below the boundary line, will be executed tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock, according to an announcement made tonight by Andreas Garcia, Mexican consul here.

"The Durans confessed their crime and were sentenced to death today," said Mr. Garcia, "and a firing squad will execute the penalty."

The body of Akers was brought to El Paso today to await instructions from his relatives. An examination at the hospital in Juarez is said to have shown Akers had been shot through the heart and the brain as well as through the body. Juan Barrios, the police officer who was with the Americans, is held pending investigation.

A United States provost guard opened fire today upon a number of Mexican soldiers who, while rounding up horses for the Mexican government, crossed the international boundary near here. The guard, Private Harrison, company C, Sixteenth infantry, first ordered the Mexicans to return to their own side of the boundary line. When one refused Harrison fired several shots from his revolver over the head of the Mexican, who then fled.

Earlier in the day customs officers fired in the direction of several Mexicans who were attempting to smuggle rags from Juarez to El Paso in defiance of the ruling of the immigration department against such importations because of the fear of contagion from typhus.

General Gavira, commandant at Juarez, has issued an order providing for a further search of the civilian homes for arms and ammunition in order, he said, to prevent any outbreak against Americans. Ten thousand arms of various sorts already have been collected, it was said.

The cows which Akers and Douglas Downs were seeking when they were killed were brought to the American side late today and returned to the owner, Mrs. J. D. Murphy of Ysleta, Texas. The three horses which had been left in Mexico when Akers was killed also were returned today.

Downs repeated to an official stenographer this afternoon the story which he had told early today of the attack by the Durans. In this statement, which was telegraphed to Washington, Downs made the positive statement that at least five Mexicans fired on them from the roof of the Duran house near San Lorenzo. Downs' statement also sets out that he and Akers went into Mexican territory unarmed on the advice of Thomas D. Edwards, American consul at Juarez.

Zach L. Cobb, United States customs collector here, called the attention of the Juarez authorities to Downs' assertion that five Mexicans participated in the attack and asked that the three men believed to be still at large be arrested and punished also.

Bernardo Duran Not Slayer.

By the Associated Press.

Ysleta, Tex., Jan. 22.—Douglas Downs, survivor of the attack by Mexican cattle rustlers in which his companion, Bert Akers, was killed yesterday, declared tonight that he had gone to Juarez late today and had seen Bernardo Duran, the man who is said Bernardo Duran, the man who is said to have confessed the killing and that Duran was not the man who pursued him and Akers on the fatal chase after the first conversation at the Duran house.

"They let me see only Bernardo Duran, saying he was the man that confessed to having killed Bert," said Downs. "But I am convinced that he is not the man who pursued us and who rode on Bert's horse and shot at me and finally killed Akers."

Citizens met tonight and adopted a resolution directed to Congressman W. P. Smith of this district, asking that Carranza officials at Juarez be requested to exhibit the bodies of the Duran brothers after their execution set for tomorrow, so that it may be definitely determined whether either actually was the man who killed Akers. The statement of Downs that Bernardo Duran was not the man who chased him and Akers on horseback, coupled with his declaration that five

Father and Baby of Family of Five on Way to Funeral of Relative Among the Dead—Four Bodies Recovered and Identified—Railroad Engineers Thought Place Amply Protected.

By The Associated Press.

Seattle, Jan. 22.—Six persons were killed and fifteen injured in the dining car and day coach of a westbound Great Northern train when the two cars were caught by a snow avalanche early today and hurled 200 feet down the mountain side near Corea Station on the west slope of the Cascade mountains.

Tonight four bodies had been recovered and were identified as those of:

Bert Kirkman, Sheridan, Wyo.

W. F. Carter, East Vancouver, B. C.

Edward Batterman and baby, Wenatchee, Washn.

A ten-year-old son of Mr. Batterman is missing and it is feared he is dead. Still another passenger, name not known, has not been found.

Ernest Smith, a boy of Spokane, was the only one of the injured believed to be in a serious condition tonight.

All passengers, including the injured, will be brought to Seattle tonight. None of the train crew or dining car employes was dangerously injured.

The ill-fated train which had been stopped by a small slide, was about ready to proceed following the clearing of the track ahead when an avalanche broke from the mountain side and caught the dining car and day coach. They were shot down the mountain side like chips. The dining caught fire and was destroyed. One dead man and three injured were extricated from it and a charred body remained while rescuers devoted their efforts to the other victims.

Concrete snow sheds were erected on the approachees to the Cascade tunnel following the tragedy of February 28, 1910, when two passenger trains were swept from the tracy by a snow slide near the scene of the present accident. Railroad engineers believed all points liable to be reached by a slide had been protected.

Peter Saver of Leavenworth, Washington, was in the smoking car when the avalanche struck the train. At first he thought there had been a collision. The car began to rise, he said, and all the passengers rushed to the front to get out. He looked out of the window and saw the chair car and dining car tumbled over. The chair car turned over once, slid a short distance and then burst into flames. Despite the escaping injury rushed to extricate the passengers buried in the snow.

Miss Fern Murdock, a young school teacher of Cashmere, Washington, was in the end of the chair car and was thrown fifty feet down the mountain side into snow up to her neck. Mrs. Edward Batterman of Wenatchee, with her husband and three children, was on her way to Oregon to attend the funeral of her mother. She was warming a bottle of milk for her eight-months-old baby when the slide hit the chair car. The bottle broke, severely cutting her. She was pinned fast in the car by debris and it was forty minutes after an opening was cut into the car before she was extricated. Her husband and baby were found dead, the baby clasped in its father's arms. Her ten-year-old son is missing. The third child escaped unhurt.

M. J. Costello, assistant traffic manager of the Great Northern was shaving in the parlor car but escaped unhurt.

Several passengers in the sleeping car were slightly hurt when the front end of the car was thrown around and hung suspended over the canyon. In their hurry to escape many passengers fled partly dressed and huddled together wrapped in blankets until relief arrived.

Another snowslide east of Corea today tore out several hundred feet of snow sheds.

Alleged Cow Thieves Taken to El Paso for Safe Keeping

By the Associated Press.

Ysleta, Jan. 22.—Felipe Cruz, Tomas and Salvator Gramillo, arrested several days ago and held in jail here in connection with the theft of cows from Mrs. J. D. Murphy, were taken tonight to El Paso for safe keeping when Texas rangers heard of a plot to lynch the trio.

U. S. Abandons Hope of Learning What Sank Persia

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22—The state department has virtually abandoned hope of determining what destroyed the British steamship Persia, sunk in the Mediterranean, with a loss of at least two American lives.

Austria-Hungary and German have disclaimed responsibility for the disaster and affidavits of surviving passengers being inconclusive but one source of information remains open. This is through the British government, which has in its possession affidavits from members of the crew. The affidavits were turned over to a British consular representative in Alexandria, Egypt, and were forwarded to London. The state department has not yet been advised that the documents have reached their destination.

The opinion prevails, however, that if conclusive proof that the Persia was torpedoed was contained in the affidavits, mention of the fact would have been made before this time by the British government.

A rejoinder to Austria's latest reply regarding the Ancona case has been held up pending the possible receipts of more information regarding the Persia.

The state department tonight had heard only through press dispatches of the disclaimer regarding the Persia delivered to Ambassador Penfield by the Vienna foreign office. A dispatch from the ambassador momentarily was expected, however.

Yuma Valley Inundated by Waters of Colorado River

By the Associated Press.

Yuma, Ariz., Jan. 22.—JYuma valley was covered to a depth of from one to four feet of flood water from the Colorado river tonight as a result of the breaking of the government levees near here today. The city of Yuma was in darkness and without a supply of water. A citizens' committee was maintaining order here, Mayor Charles C. Moore having died of heart failure during the excitement that prevailed shortly after the levees gave way.

Business houses in the main street were flooded to a depth of four feet by the water and many of the older buildings were washed away or badly damaged. Residents were sent to the hills back from the river.

Thousands of acres of agricultural land but hon the Arizona and the California sides of the Colorado were inundated and it was feared that serious damage would result to the gigantic irrigation project that supplies the Imperial Valley of California.

Many of the oldest building sin Yuma have disappeared beneath flood waters. It is estimated early tonight that at least a hundred houses had been destroyed.

All reports from the upper Colorado river tonight stated that the water was falling, but the flood here showed no indications of feceding.

The water at 6 o'clock tonight was lapping against the girders of the Southern Pacific railroad bridge, but the structure at that hour was withstanding the pressure.

Lever bill for license and inspection of warehouses for agricultural products favorably reported by agricultural committee.

Adjourned at 4:38 p. m. until noon Monday.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Drastic restrictions would be thrown about the immigration of Japanese into the United States and both Hindus and Chinese virtually would be barred from the country by a provision that has been written into the immigration bill to be reported to the house next week by the immigration committee.

The new features relating to immigrants from Japan would have their most far-reaching effect, in the expectation of committee members, in shutting off effectually the influx of Japanese laborers whose competition with American labor on the pacific coast has aroused a pronounced anti-Asiatic sentiment.

As agreed upon tentatively by the committee, the exclusion section of the bill includes a paragraph barring "Hindus and all persons of the Mongolian or yellow race and the Malay or brown race." Before a report is made to the house, however, a proposed qualification probably will be added providing that there shall be such exemptions as may be set forth in any existing agreements as to passports or by treaties, conventions or agreements that may hereafter be entered into.

For several years representatives from the Pacific states have been fighting for legislation to exclude Japanese, Chinese and Hindu laborers.

Exclusion of Chinese and Japanese students, business men, travelers and certain other excepted classes is not anticipated by members of the committee, but the bill is expected to put into legal form and amplify an informal agreement entered into eight years ago by Secretary of State Root and the Japanese laborers emigrating to the United States. Other provisions of the bill would raise the head tax on immigrants to $8 and would increase the penalties. Both fines and imprisonment would be authorized for offenders and any steamboat company bringing an alien later deported would be required to refund the cost of his trip.

Both the Asiatic exclusion section and the literacy test provision of the bill are expected to precipitate a vigorous debate when the measure comes up in the house. The requirement of a literacy test has caused the failure of the last three immigration bills through the president's veto.

Gen. McComb Urges Preparedness.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—National policies of the United States, particularly maintenance of the Monroe doctrine; an open door in the Orient; supremacy in the Pacific, and Asiatic exclusion can be upheld only if backed by force, Brig.-Gen. Montgomery M. McComb, president of the army war college, told the senate military committee today.

The tradition that entangling alliances should be avoided, he believed further emphasized the necessity that the United States be prepared to fight alone for its ideals.

General McComb, who appeared at a hearing on the army increase measures, suggested that the Monroe doctrine was tending toward development of a Pan-American entente which "might or might not be a good thing," but did not alter in his opinion the urgent necessity of military preparedness.

General McComb said the war college had taken the policies he mentioned as a basis of its study to formulate a definite military policy. With these obligations in mind, he said the college had produced the plan already made public for a regular army of 500,000 men with the colors or reserve within eight years and a continental army of a million men in the same time.

Brig.-Gen. Albert L. Mills, chief of the war department division of military affairs, preceded General McCombs and endorsed the plans proposed by Secretary Garrison, which are a modification of the war college proposals. He said inherent difficulties in the way of using the organized militia in place of a continental army seemed insurmountable and outlined many faults of the national guard system from a national point of view. Among these were lack of proper reserves to supply war wastage; lack of auxiliary arms; inadequate training; constantly changing personnel and the lack of uniformity of state military codes.

"These conditions produce," General Mills said, "forty-eight little state armies organized without reference to national needs, and each clinging jealously to certain 'state rights.'"

General McComb differed with a recent statement of the adjutant general that 140,000 men was the largest force that could be maintained under present enlistment regulations.

"He states that it is impossible to recruit more men than that," General McComb said, "but that is only his opinion. He doesn't know what he can do beyond that, for he has not tried."

Judging from his experience as a military observer in the Russo-Japanese war, General McComb said most people miscalculate the amount of training necessary for an infantry soldier. On the infantry, he said, depended the final outcome of any fight. He estimated it would take two years of five hours intensive work a day "to make what we call a good soldier."

Speeches on Good Roads Bill.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Fifty five-minute speeches on the Schakleford $25,000,000 good roads bill, evenly divided between the city congressmen who oppose it and those from the rural district who support it were delivered today in the house. More will be heard Monday. The money would be apportioned to all states, conditional upon local co-operation.

"We don't want to appropriate a lot of money for roads that probably will run from country depots to farmers' houses, was the way Representative Magee of New York epitomized the opposition.

"The greatest objection of the opponents of this bill is that it would not provide peacock highways running from ocean to ocean for automobilists," Representative Thompson of Oklahoma replied.

Opponents of the measure who argued the appropriation should be applied to the preparedness expenditure were told that good highways are necessary for transportation of troops.

Suggest Exclusion of Hindus.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A provision to exclude Hindus as well as Chinese and restrict Japanese immigration has been included in the Burnett immigration bill, which is to be reported to the house next week by the immigration committee.

Mayors' Conference Called to Consider National Defense

By the Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 22.—A conference of mayors, representative of all parts of the country will be held in St. Louis on March 3 and 4 to consider the question of national defense, according to announcement made by Cornelius Vanderbilt at the annual dinner of the Genesee society here tonight.

Mr. Vanderbilt, who, with Dr. David Jayne Hill, former United States ambassador to Germany, was a speaker at the dinner, said Mayor Mitchel had advised him, as chairman of New York City's committee that the St. Louis conference had been decided upon by delegates to the National Security League meeting in Washington.

President Wilson had been invited to attend the meeting here tonight, held in the interest of preparedness. A telegram from the president said:

"I wish I might be present to speak of the imperative necessity of pressing forward in this matter. I think that the whole country realizes that necessity and my only hope is that with the greatest sobriety of thought but with very clear purpose the influence of all forward-looking men will be exerted in behalf of the temperate and reasonable project now before congress."

Both Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Hill in their addresses sounded notes of warning against preparedness.

"It is highly probable," declared Dr. Hill, "that if Europe were at peace today we should have a European question in Mexico tomorrow."

Large Land Owners Must Pay More Taxes in Sonora Hereafter

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The state department today received a copy of a decree by Governor Calles of Sonora designed to place the burden of direct taxation upon the large land owners and the holders of uncultivated tillable lands. Te decree is in line with the Carranza government's program of land reform, which is calculated to force the owners of great estates either to cultivate their property or to sell it for taxes.

The decree promulgates a graduated tax scale under which the old rate of eight pesos on the thousand for various classes of property is appraised only to small estates, while unimproved lands fit for cultivation are taxed at a flat rate of twenty pesos per thousand.

Mining operations and ore treating outfits are exempt from taxation.

Factory for Bombs Believed Uncovered

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Discovery of a box containing twenty sticks of dynamite and about one hundred feet of fuse in the home of Madolini Cisare here today led the police to believe they had uncovered a "bomb factory" for the use of the so-called "Black Hand."

When Cisare was seen running on the street, his face covered with blood, he was pursued by policemen and his home visited. Search of the place revealed the dynamite. What appeared to be the sawed off muzzle of a shotgun also was found.

Cisare explained his wounds by saying he was hammering a "small round ball" which he had found, when it exploded. He claimed he did not know what it was.

During the last few months a number of bombs have been exploded in the Italian district. "Sawed off shotgun murders" also have baffled the police.

Little Rock, Jan. 22.—Two of the twenty-four convicts who escaped from the state convict farm at Cummins, Ark., Wednesday night have been surrounded in the woods a few miles from the farm, according to reports received tonight. A party of guards pursued the fugitives into the woods and then surrounded the woods. As it is not known whether the convicts are armed, it was decided to maintain the watch all night and to postpone the search of the woods until daylight. Ten of the fugitives have been recaptured thus far.

Chicago Policemen Still Hunt Bandit

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The bandit who held up the office of Thomas Cook & Son here yesterday was the object of widespread but fruitless search today. Detectives uncovered no definite clews as to his whereabouts nor as to his woman companion.

Chief of Detectives Hunt interviewed additional witnesses today and was confirmed in his opinion that the man wanted is William La Trasse, a robber who broke out of the Kansas penitentiary a few months ago.

Ernest L. Walsh, cashier, and Edward Stone, manager of the office from which the bandit escaped with $900, identified a photograph of La Trasse as that of the robber. Their identification confirmed that of others who saw the robber when in escaping he shot and killed Policeman B. A. Johnson.

Mr. Hunt did not abandon hope that something might come of the clue pointing to Toledo as the hiding place of the fugitives. He received a telegram tonight stating that a man and woman answering the description of the pair wanted were seen to leave a train there last night and that they were both being traced.

Steamship Brazos Victim of Collision

By The Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 22.—The New York and Porto Rico Steamship company steamer Brazos with 171 passengers and a crew of 130 aboard arrived at her pier in Brooklyn at 9 o'clock tonight with a jagged hole in her starboard side above the water line after a collision late today twenty-three miles southeast of Scotland Light with the coasting steamer Suffolk of the Coastwise Transportation company of Boston.

The Suffolk also returned to port and anchored off quarantine.

The Brazos came to port under her own steam and officials of the company said tonight that repairs probably would be completed so she could sail again for San Juan, Porto Rico, on Monday.

Steaming along slowly in a dense fog at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon, persons aboard the Brazos were startled by the shriek of a whistle nearby. Five minutes later the black hulk of the Suffolk loomed up and she crashed head-on into the Brazos side. The coasting vessel, virtually undamaged, stood by until informed that the Brazos needed no assistance. There was no panic on the Brazos.

Immigration committee decided to incorporate in pending immigration bill a provision barring Hindu as well as Chinese immigrants and restricting Japanese immigration.

Lever bill for license and inspection of warehouses for agricultural products favorably reported by agricultural committee.

Adjourned at 4:38 p. m. until noon Monday.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Drastic restrictions would be thrown about the immigration of Japanese into the United States and both Hindus and Chinese virtually would be barred from the country by a provision that has been written into the immigration bill to be reported to the house next week by the immigration committee.

The new features relating to immigrants from Japan would have their most far-reaching effect, in the expectation of committee members, in shutting off effectually the influx of Japanese laborers whose competition with American labor on the pacific coast has aroused a pronounced anti-Asiatic sentiment.

As agreed upon tentatively by the committee, the exclusion section of the bill includes a paragraph barring "Hindus and all persons of the Mongolian or yellow race and the Malay or brown race." Before a report is made to the house, however, a proposed qualification probably will be added providing that there shall be such exemptions as may be set forth in any existing agreements as to passports or by treaties, conventions or agreements that may hereafter be entered into.

For several years representatives from the Pacific states have been fighting for legislation to exclude Japanese, Chinese and Hindu laborers.

Exclusion of Chinese and Japanese students, business men, travelers and certain other excepted classes is not anticipated by members of the committee, but the bill is expected to put into legal form and amplify an informal agreement entered into eight years ago by Secretary of State Root and the Japanese laborers emigrating to the United States. Other provisions of the bill would raise the head tax on immigrants to $8 and would increase the penalties. Both fines and imprisonment would be authorized for offenders and any steamboat company bringing an alien later deported would be required to refund the cost of his trip.

Both the Asiatic exclusion section and the literacy test provision of the bill are expected to precipitate a vigorous debate when the measure comes up in the house. The requirement of a literacy test has caused the failure of the last three immigration bills through the president's veto.

Gen. McComb Urges Preparedness.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—National policies of the United States, particularly maintenance of the Monroe doctrine; an open door in the Orient; supremacy in the Pacific, and Asiatic exclusion can be upheld only if backed by force, Brig.-Gen. Montgomery M. McComb, president of the army war college, told the senate military committee today.

The tradition that entangling alliances should be avoided, he believed further emphasized the necessity that the United States be prepared to fight alone for its ideals.

General McComb, who appeared at a hearing on the army increase measures, suggested that the Monroe doctrine was tending toward development of a Pan-American entente which "might or might not be a good thing," but did not alter in his opinion the urgent necessity of military preparedness.

General McComb said the war college had taken the policies he mentioned as a basis of its study to formulate a definite military policy. With these obligations in mind, he said the college had produced the plan already made public for a regular army of 500,000 men with the colors or reserve within eight years and a continental army of a million men in the same time.

Brig.-Gen. Albert L. Mills, chief of the war department division of military affairs, preceded General McCombs and endorsed the plans proposed by Secretary Garrison, which are a modification of the war college proposals. He said inherent difficulties in the way of using the organized militia in place of a continental army seemed insurmountable and outlined many faults of the national guard system from a national point of view. Among these were lack of proper reserves to supply war wastage; lack of auxiliary arms; inadequate training; constantly changing personnel and the lack of uniformity of state military codes.

"These conditions produce," General Mills said, "forty-eight little state armies organized without reference to national needs, and each clinging jealously to certain 'state rights.'"

General McComb differed with a recent statement of the adjutant general that 140,000 men was the largest force that could be maintained under present enlistment regulations.

"He states that it is impossible to recruit more men than that," General McComb said, "but that is only his opinion. He doesn't know what he can do beyond that, for he has not tried."

Judging from his experience as a military observer in the Russo-Japanese war, General McComb said most people miscalculate the amount of training necessary for an infantry soldier. On the infantry, he said, depended the final outcome of any fight. He estimated it would take two years of five hours intensive work a day "to make what we call a good soldier."

Mayors' Conference Called to Consider National Defense

By the Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 22.—A conference of mayors, representative of all parts of the country will be held in St. Louis on March 3 and 4 to consider the question of national defense, according to announcement made by Cornelius Vanderbilt at the annual dinner of the Genesee society here tonight.

Mr. Vanderbilt, who, with Dr. David Jayne Hill, former United States ambassador to Germany, was a speaker at the dinner, said Mayor Mitchel had advised him, as chairman of New York City's committee that the St. Louis conference had been decided upon by delegates to the National Security League meeting in Washington.

President Wilson had been invited to attend the meeting here tonight, held in the interest of preparedness. A telegram from the president said:

"I wish I might be present to speak of the imperative necessity of pressing forward in this matter. I think that the whole country realizes that necessity and my only hope is that with the greatest sobriety of thought but with very clear purpose the influence of all forward-looking men will be exerted in behalf of the temperate and reasonable project now before congress."

Both Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Hill in their addresses sounded notes of warning against preparedness.

"It is highly probable," declared Dr. Hill, "that if Europe were at peace today we should have a European question in Mexico tomorrow."

Large Land Owners Must Pay More Taxes in Sonora Hereafter

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The state department today received a copy of a decree by Governor Calles of Sonora designed to place the burden of direct taxation upon the large land owners and the holders of uncultivated tillable lands. Te decree is in line with the Carranza government's program of land reform, which is calculated to force the owners of great estates either to cultivate their property or to sell it for taxes.

The decree promulgates a graduated tax scale under which the old rate of eight pesos on the thousand for various classes of property is appraised only to small estates, while unimproved lands fit for cultivation are taxed at a flat rate of twenty pesos per thousand.

Mining operations and ore treating outfits are exempt from taxation.

Factory for Bombs Believed Uncovered

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Discovery of a box containing twenty sticks of dynamite and about one hundred feet of fuse in the home of Madolini Cisare here today led the police to believe they had uncovered a "bomb factory" for the use of the so-called "Black Hand."

When Cisare was seen running on the street, his face covered with blood, he was pursued by policemen and his home visited. Search of the place revealed the dynamite. What appeared to be the sawed off muzzle of a shotgun also was found.

Cisare explained his wounds by saying he was hammering a "small round ball" which he had found, when it exploded. He claimed he did not know what it was.

During the last few months a number of bombs have been exploded in the Italian district. "Sawed off shotgun murders" also have baffled the police.

MONTENEGRIN ROYAL FAMILY REACH ROME

ITALIAN KING, QUEEN AND CHILDREN MEET REFUGEES AT THE TRAIN.

LITTLE FIGHTING NOW GOING ON

Russians Claim Defeat of Turkish Army in the Caucasus Important Victory.

By the Associated Press.

Rome, Jan. 21.—(Delayed)—There was an affecting scene last night at the central station between Queen Helen of Italy and her mother queen Milena of Montenegro, who, accompanied by her daughters, Princess Xenie and Princess Vera, reached Rome about 9 o'clock on their way from Brindisi to Lyons, France, where the Montenegrin court is to take up its residence.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helene, with the prince royal Humber and Princesses Yolanda and Mafalda, were at the train to meet the refugees and under the painful circumstances the king discreetly left the mother and daughter together, both weeping, to console each other.

The Italian royal children embraced their grandmother fervently, and the party remained together for several hours. After spending the night in Rome, the members of the Montenegrin royal family continued on a special train to Lyons.

The fact that the king and queen met the Montenegrin queen is taken as evidence of good faith that Montenegro will cling to the alliance with Italy and the other entente powers to the end. The Messaggero says:

"At the last moment Montenegro preferred national honor and accepted the guarantees of Italy and her allies for national restoration as in the case of Serbia and Belgium."

On none of the major fronts of the field of war in Europe are notable military operations in progress so far as the official reports show. Not even from little Montenegro have there come additional reports of fighting, following the indirect advices on Friday declaring that hostilities had been resumed after rejection of peace terms offered by Austria.

The Montenegrin situation remains somewhat clouded in view of the conflicting statements that come respectively from Teutonic and entente allied quarters. Vienna declares that the Montenegrins are proceeding with the laying down of their arms as was agreed upon, but that the difficulties of communication, togeter with many other factors, are making this process a slow one. On the other hand, there come repeated denial from Montenegrin sources that the Montenegrins have capitulated, with one official statement from Rome even declaring that no negotiations preliminary to peace with Austria were ever entered into.

From the northern front in Russia to Bessarabia there are no changes in positions of the various forces, according to the official reports. Indications are that the Russians again have ceased for a time at least their attacks on the Austrians near the southern end of the line while Berlin mentions only artillery activity in the sectors where German troops are holding the front. Even the artillery duels which are reported near Smorgon and in the vicinity of Dvinsk, seem to be less heated. There are, however, manifestations of activity such as have not been reported along the Russian front for some time by the German war office.

The Franco-Belgian front is undergoing a period of comparative calm, which probably is explained by the reasonal conditions. There are frequent -out breaks by the artillery on both sides, however, several such being mentioned in the current official statements, eBrling mentioning the snelling of German positions and villages behind the lines between the Moselle and the Vosges, while Paris apparently describes the same series of artillery operations as being directed against provision trains and groups of hostile troops.

The defeat of the Turks by the Russian army of the Caucasus officially reported by Petrograd is commented upon in a news dispatch from the Russian capital as an event looked upon as important by the military authorities there, as it has caused the retirement of the Turkish forces to Erzerum, which is considered endangered by the Russian success. It is even held that the result may be favorable to the British operations in Mesopotamia, as the Turks may have to withdraw forces thence to aid in the defense of Erzerum, one of the important Turkish centers of defense in this region.

the National Security league indorses the program of July 30, 1915, of the general board of the navy and urges its immediate adoption by congress.

"That a fundamental factor in the problems of preparedness should be such intensive mobilization of the productive, industrial and commercial forces of the United States as would insure in time of war the contribution of their fullest resources at a restricted profit to be regulated by the government.

"That in view of the fact that the great interest in national defense throughout the country has created a number of local and national organizations aiming to increase the efficiency of our military and naval service, the National Security league immediately endeavor to avoid the overlapping of the effort and energy of these organizations by seeking effective means of unifying and co-ordinating their activities."

Only One Vote Against.

The only vote against the resolution advocating universal military service was cast by William A. Ketcham of Indianapolis, who said he represented the governor of Indiana. Although officials of the league would not indicate tonight what degree of definiteness had been reached in the negotiations for amalgamation of the defense societies, it was understood that the Navy league and several other bodies already had agreed to come in and that Mr. Bacon had promised to accept the presidency of the new organization. Extensive plans for a combined congress for preparedness already have been made, it was said, and steps taken toward raising a $50,000 fund in New York and one of a like amount in Philadelphia for a sinking fund.

Mr. Wickersham in his address tonight emphasized the necessity of wide publicity, saying he saw no hope of a change in the policy of the nation until the weakness and unfairness of our traditional system is more sharply brought home to the people."

"At the threshold of consideration of national defense," he said, "must be an inquiry into the duty of citizens to render military service to the country in times of peace as well as war. In no other way could we more effectively rid the nation of the incubus of our accursed system of bounties and pensions than by the establishment and maintenance of a system of universal military service.

States Fail, Is Claim.

"But the practical question now presented to the American people is not the immediate adoption of such a system. Our military and naval authorities with the high authority of the president of the United States and the secretaries of war and navy have clearly put before the people a statement of our present deficiencies.

"The condition of our coast defenses has been sharply put before us by the report of the chief of that service; and we are told that artillery costing upward of $41,000,000 is without a man to protect it; that the old system of relying upon the states for voluntary military support under the act of congress which provides that one-half of the coast artillery shall be furnished by the states, has failed, as it always has failed, throughou tour history to provide us with anything like the stipulated quota of men.

"That law should be repealed and that other enactment of congressional folly, approved May 27, 1908, which provides that the organized militia shall be called into the service of the United States in advance of any volunteer force which it may be necessary to raise should also be repealed without delay. It is strange that any intelligent student of the history of our country could oppose the plan of militiary organization which involves placing the sole control and discipline of the forces under the federal authority. It seems incredible that any responsible member of congress at this day would advocate a continuance of that divided control which in the past has cost the country dearly in lives and property."

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be easily made at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all adndruff, excecs oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.

Banana Trust Suit Won by Defendant

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—A jury in the United States court here today returned a verdict for the defendant in the suit of the Bluefields Steamship company against the United Fruit company. The suit entered under the Sherman anti-trust law and was known as the banana trust suit. Millions of dollars were involved in the litigation. The jury had the case under deliberation since Thursday afternoon.

Originally the action was for the recovery of fifteen million dollars the steamship company alleging that its business had been damaged to the extent of five million dollars and the law permitting triple damages but the amount was greatly reduced by a ruling of the judge that the statute of limitations permitted the collection of damages only from 1905 to 1911.

It was alleged that the defendant violated the Sherman law in acquiring stock control of the Bluefields company and then throttling the concern as a competitor. Judge Thompson instructed the jury that if the two companies mutually formed a monopoly for the purpose of controlling and restraining trade, the steamship compan was a willing party was not, under the Sherman act entitled to redress for damages inflicted by other members of the combine. The judge then explained that if the fruit company had wilfully planned and accomplished the ruin of the Bluefields corporation, the latter was entitled to a verdict.

The trial lasted ten weeks.

HENRY LANE WILSON DENIES STATEMENTS

CHARGE OF KNOWLEDGE THAT MADERO WAS TO BE KILLED DECLARED UNTRUE.

John Lind Disavows Story, Saying It Was Printed Without His Permission.

By the Associated Press.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 22.—In a letter in reply from Henry Lane Wilson, former American ambassador to Mexico, calling on him to disclaim alleged statements made at a church meeting here that Mr. Wilson knew of the plot to murder Francisco I. Madero, John Lind, former personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico, sent to Mr. Wilson the following letter made public tonight by Charles B. Elliott, Mr. Wilson's local attorney:

"In the course of the address to which you refer I commented on the events which led up to and culminated in the death of President Madero. What I said was stated in good faith in the course of that discussion and in the full belief of the accuracy of my information. The press reports of my utterances detached from the other language of my remarks are misleading and susceptible of misinterpretation. I was not responsible for their publication, assume no such responsibility and disavow them."

Mr. Wilson's letter to Mr. Lind, also made public tonight, said in part:

"You are reported in the public press of the country, under date of Nov. 22, to have said at a public meeting in Minneapolis that I, as American ambassador to Mexico, knew of the plot to assassinate Madero.

"According to another press report your words were 'Henry Lane Wilson, the American ambassador, knew of and did not try to prevent the assassination of Medero,' and according to another report 'Madero was murdered by Huerta with the knowledge and consent of Henry Lane Wilson, United States ambassador.'

"You also were reported to have said (in the words of the press dispatch that I saw) that 'Ambassador Wilson had met with Carranza and tried to induce him to come under the Huerta government' and that 'Carranza replied that he could not because he was pledged to a constitutional government.'

"I desire here and now to say formally to you that the statements quoted above are untrue and I call upon you to disclaim them if you have been misquoted or to retract them as ill-considered and not susceptible of proof."

MONTENEGRIN ROYAL FAMILY REACH ROME

ITALIAN KING, QUEEN AND CHILDREN MEET REFUGEES AT THE TRAIN.

LITTLE FIGHTING NOW GOING ON

Russians Claim Defeat of Turkish Army in the Caucasus Important Victory.

By the Associated Press.

Rome, Jan. 21.—(Delayed)—There was an affecting scene last night at the central station between Queen Helen of Italy and her mother queen Milena of Montenegro, who, accompanied by her daughters, Princess Xenie and Princess Vera, reached Rome about 9 o'clock on their way from Brindisi to Lyons, France, where the Montenegrin court is to take up its residence.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helene, with the prince royal Humbert and Princesses Yolanda and Mafalda, were at the train to meet the refugees and under the painful circumstances the king discreetly left the mother and daughter together, both weeping, to console each other.

The Italian royal children embraced their grandmother fervently, and the party remained together for several hours. After spending the night in Rome, the members of the Montenegrin royal family continued on a special train to Lyons.

The fact that the king and queen met the Montenegrin queen is taken as evidence of good faith that Montenegro will cling to the alliance with Italy and the other entente powers to the end. The Messaggero says:

"At the last moment Montenegro preferred national honor and accepted the guarantees of Italy and her allies for national restoration as in the case of Serbia and Belgium."

On none of the major fronts of the field of war in Europe are notable military operations in progress so far as the official reports show. Not even from little Montenegro have there come additional reports of fighting, following the indirect advices on Friday declaring that hostilities had been resumed after rejection of peace terms offered by Austria.

The Montenegrin situation remains somewhat clouded in view of the conflicting statements that come respectively from Teutonic and entente allied quarters. Vienna declares that the Montenegrins are proceeding with the laying down of their arms as was agreed upon, but that the difficulties of communication, togeter with many other factors, are making this process a slow one. On the other hand, there come repeated denial from Montenegrin sources that the Montenegrins have capitulated, with one official statement from Rome even declaring that no negotiations preliminary to peace with Austria were ever entered into.

From the northern front in Russia to Bessarabia there are no changes in positions of the various forces, according to the official reports. Indications are that the Russians again have ceased for a time at least their attacks on the Austrians near the southern end of the line while Berlin mentions only artillery activity in the sectors where German troops are holding the front. Even the artillery duels which are reported near Smorgon and in the vicinity of Dvinsk, seem to be less heated. There are, however, manifestations of activity such as have not been reported along the Russian front for some time by the German war office.

The Franco-Belgian front is undergoing a period of comparative calm, which probably is explained by the reasonal conditions. There are frequent -out breaks by the artillery on both sides, however, several such being mentioned in the current official statements, eBrling mentioning the snelling of German positions and villages behind the lines between the Moselle and the Vosges, while Paris apparently describes the same series of artillery operations as being directed against provision trains and groups of hostile troops.

The defeat of the Turks by the Russian army of the Caucasus officially reported by Petrograd is commented upon in a news dispatch from the Russian capital as an event looked upon as important by the military authorities there, as it has caused the retirement of the Turkish forces to Erzerum, which is considered endangered by the Russian success. It is even held that the result may be favorable to the British operations in Mesopotamia, as the Turks may have to withdraw forces thence to aid in the defense of Erzerum, one of the important Turkish centers of defense in this region.

the National Security league indorses the program of July 30, 1915, of the general board of the navy and urges its immediate adoption by congress.

"That a fundamental factor in the problems of preparedness should be such intensive mobilization of the productive, industrial and commercial forces of the United States as would insure in time of war the contribution of their fullest resources at a restricted profit to be regulated by the government.

"That in view of the fact that the great interest in national defense throughout the country has created a number of local and national organizations aiming to increase the efficiency of our military and naval service, the National Security league immediately endeavor to avoid the overlapping of the effort and energy of these organizations by seeking effective means of unifying and co-ordinating their activities."

Only One Vote Against.

The only vote against the resolution advocating universal military service was cast by William A. Ketcham of Indianapolis, who said he represented the governor of Indiana. Although officials of the league would not indicate tonight what degree of definiteness had been reached in the negotiations for amalgamation of the defense societies, it was understood that the Navy league and several other bodies already had agreed to come in and that Mr. Bacon had promised to accept the presidency of the new organization. Extensive plans for a combined congress for preparedness already have been made, it was said, and steps taken toward raising a $50,000 fund in New York and one of a like amount in Philadelphia for a sinking fund.

Mr. Wickersham in his address tonight emphasized the necessity of wide publicity, saying he saw no hope of a change in the policy of the nation until the weakness and unfairness of our traditional system is more sharply brought home to the people."

"At the threshold of consideration of national defense," he said, "must be an inquiry into the duty of citizens to render military service to the country in times of peace as well as war. In no other way could we more effectively rid the nation of the incubus of our accursed system of bounties and pensions than by the establishment and maintenance of a system of universal military service.

States Fail, Is Claim.

"But the practical question now presented to the American people is not the immediate adoption of such a system. Our military and naval authorities with the high authority of the president of the United States and the secretaries of war and navy have clearly put before the people a statement of our present deficiencies.

"The condition of our coast defenses has been sharply put before us by the report of the chief of that service; and we are told that artillery costing upward of $41,000,000 is without a man to protect it; that the old system of relying upon the states for voluntary military support under the act of congress which provides that one-half of the coast artillery shall be furnished by the states, has failed, as it always has failed, throughou tour history to provide us with anything like the stipulated quota of men.

"That law should be repealed and that other enactment of congressional folly, approved May 27, 1908, which provides that the organized militia shall be called into the service of the United States in advance of any volunteer force which it may be necessary to raise should also be repealed without delay. It is strange that any intelligent student of the history of our country could oppose the plan of military organization which involves placing the sole control and discipline of the forces under the federal authority. It seems incredible that any responsible member of congress at this day would advocate a continuance of that divided control which in the past has cost the country dearly in lives and property."

Banana Trust Suit Won by Defendant

A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM.

While the prophet Isaiah had in mind the coming of the spiritual kingdom of God when he wrote, "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them," the truth of the last clause is finding ample illustration in the material things of the world and in no sphere of activity more than in that of farming.

Up in Ohio, Dewey Hanes of Arcanum, champion wheat and corn grower, is going to show the farmers of the Buckeye State how to raise corn as it ought to be raised. And if the 2,000 or more farmers of that state who are due to assemble for the "farmers' week" program at the Ohio State university at Columbus, January 31 to February 4, are wise they will listen carefully to what this successful boy farmer is to tell them about how to get the best results in planting corn and wheat.

"If farmers knew the corn-raising game they could get more corn from 15 acres than most of them now get from 30," he says.

Hanes produced 154.2 bushels of corn from one acre. That's about four times the average farmer's yield.

"The man who puts 30 acres in corn, plows once and then expects his corn to take care of itself is wasting his money and land," Hanes says. "But that's what the majority of Ohio cornraisers do. "I simply fix the seed bed right, plant good seed, use plenty of manure and fertilizer, and cultivate my crops."

Hanes is a valuable asset to the state of Ohio and if the farmers of that state are of the right type they will see that the boy is encouraged to continue his work along efficient methods of agriculture in order that he may pass his knowledge on to others. He hopes to attend college, the dispatches declare, and plans are on foot among some of his friends to procure for him a free scholarship at either Ohio State or Wisconsin University.

But Ohio is not in a class to herself in having little children to lead their parents in improved methods of farming and livestock production. All over the South the Boys' Corn club movement has resulted in the employment of more productive methods of corn culture at the hands of adult farmers, and in Texas in general, and McLennan county in particular, the Boys' Pig club movement and the Girls' Home Economics club work are bringing the fathers and mothers of the boys and girls to see that there are dollars and cents (and sense, too), and larger possibilities for farm life in every direction in doing the work of the farm along modern lines.

The average farmer does not like to take suggestions from college professors, and many tillers of the soil regard everything coming from experts as "book larnin'," which is to be studiously avoided; but when their own little boys and girls demonstrate that the old methods that have been pursued on the farm are far less efficient than the new, then the old folks open their eyes, forget their prejudices against that which is new, and decide that possibly they have been mistaken in clinging to old methods simply because their father used them.

Here's a tip to the Leap Year girls: Advices from the headquarters of the Brotherhood of Bashful Bachelors are to the effect that the men despise too much jewelry on women's hands. They say it is no fun to hold the hand that is covered with jewelry, for the same sensation can be had by holding a handful of curtain rings and a wrist watch.

ACTIVITY IN POLL TAX PAYMENT.

This from a recent issue of the Waco Times-Herald:

"The Waco News has seen proper to make this accusation:

"'You can depend upon the liquor forces having their poll taxes paid. They are doing this year what they have done ever since the poll tax law became effective in this state—paying poll taxes for thousands of people over the state and then demanding the possession of the poll tax receipts to be passed out on election day to persons whom the liquor agents can trust to vote against prohibition, submission or whatever the issue may be. And this corrupt, underhand practice will be employed in this state until the people rise in their might and drive the whole business from their boundaries.'

"If the Waco News has such information, why doesn't it present the facts specifically to the grand juries having jurisdiction and thus pave the way for a lot of criminal indictments? As was said by President Grant on a certain occasion, 'Let no guilty man escape.'"

The Times-Herald may not know that the payment of poll taxes by liquor interests in this city a year ago was called to the attention of the grand jury of the Fifty-fourth district ccurt last March, and while men who went before the grand jury testified that they received money from a saloon in this city with which to pay their poll taxes, they failed to identify the man from the saloon who gave them the money. That is not surprising, for a man who would accept poll tax money from a saloon or any other illegitimate source would have no scruples about perjuring himself as to the identity of the man who gave him the funds.

Year before last the grand jury of the same court brought in some indictments for the illegal payment of poll taxes by a colored representative of the liquor interests, but the state was unable to procure the attendance of the defendant and witnesses at the time the cases were docketed for trial and no convictions were had.

And has the Times-Herald forgotten the famous Michael O'Brien fund from which many poll taxes were paid in this city and county not many years ago, and the case of Frank Solon, in which the first conviction for illegal poll tax payment ever procured in this state was had in 1908?

While it has never been officially established, it is generally regarded as true that there is a safe in a certain saloon in this city which contains the poll tax receipts of numerous persons of a certain nationality every year, these receipts having been paid for, it is alleged, by the liquor interests, and held by the saloonkeeper to be voted by whomsoever he cares to entrust them to on election day.

The editor of the Times-Herald may give the organized and politically active liquor interests of this state credit for greater innocence than does this paper, but we confess that there is not much indication of abhorrence of paying poll taxes illegally in the following extract from the monthly report of a well known employe of the organized liquor interests of this state for January, 1909, which has since been made a matter of court record in this state:

"Dallas was a hard proposition. My first visit on the 6th it was dead. The credit for the fine showing made in the wind-up was due mainly to ——— ——— (meaning an employe of the association), and if we could have had the hearty co-operation of the tax collector we could have had 2,000 more votes."

Another agent of the organized liquor interests of this state, writing under date of December 27, 1910, in advance of the statewide election in 1911, announced to his employers that he "had moved heaven and earth to get poll taxes paid," and announced that the work had been carried on from the Panhandle to the Gulf and from Orange to El Paso.

A San Antonio brewer, addressing a Galveston brewer under date of January 7, 1910, said, among other things:

"Would respectfully direct your attention, however, to the first page thereof, especially the paragraph reading, 'I will say in passing that I do not believe the poll tax matter will cost us one-half this year's, etc.'

"As previously stated, to put such things in black and white is a very dangerous proceeding. If anything of the kind is necessary we should not commit ourselves to that extent and I am sure you will appreciate this."

Now if there was nothing illegitimate in the poll tax campaign of the liquor interests, why, pray, was it so dangerous to even mention it in correspondence or put it down in "black and white," as the brewer states it?

It may be a little difficult to establish in court the guilt of the organized liquor interests in the payment of poll taxes, but we are surprised that so well informed a paper as our neighbor is presumed to be should, in the light of past developments in this state, call into question the fact that such work is being carried on. And part of the fund raised for this general purpose goes to pay the salaries of bright men to direct the work so as to get results without being detected by the officers of the law

A SURE-ENOUGH TRUST.

The recent advance in the wholesale price of gasoline from 11c to 23c a gallon opens wide to the United States government an excellent opportunity to determine definitely and conclusively whether it is potent or helpless in the presence of private monopoly, in the opinion of the Christian Science Monitor. It is common knowledge that while competition was rife in the oil producing industry during 1914 and a large part of 1915, the price of gasoline declined steadily. Not only the independent companies but the so-called "trust" combinations were able to sell the fluid to all users at satisfactory prices. It is knowledge equally common that at a certain point the price began to ascend, among independents as well as among agents of the trust, and that the ascension has been steady for months. There are prospects now that the price will go to 28c or 30c unless the controlling factors shall decide that the consumer can be dealt with better by keeping the price at 25c or a little below that figure.

Speculation along this line is, however, of no consequence. The important thing is that the oil monopoly, apparently, is again in the saddle, that it dominates production, that it dictates prices in defiance of the Sherman law, under the provisions of which monopoly in oil production and sale was declared illegal by the decision of the supreme court of the United States on May 15, 1911. From all appearances, the oil monopolists are today, as boldly as at any time in the last fifteen years, subjecting the users of certain of their products, especially gasoline, to an exorbitant and illegal tariff. To all appearances they have practically set at naught the command that they dissolve and remain dissolved, and are proceeding on the assumption that the court's decision has ceased to deserve remembrance or respect.

Now, it will serve no good purpose, no purpose of value to the public, if the government, through the judiciary department, shall await in this instance observance of all the formalities attendant upon the entering of complaint. The attorney general need only inquire after the manner pursued by the ordinary citizen in search of information. The facts cannot elude him. They are self-evident. Notwithstanding the natural resources of the country in oil, notwithstanding the ability of wells to produce, notwithstanding production, the price of gasoline has been advanced in a short period 12c a gallon wholesale, an increase that means the exploitation of the consumer and the enrichment of the monopolists by hundreds of millions of dollars.

It will be purely nonsensical for the government to proceed in this matter with conventional sedateness. If illegal practices are being resumed by the oil monopolists, there should be no more ceremony attending the apprehension of the oil monopolists than there is in the arrest of any one else. The point is that resumption of monopolistic practices in the oil trade means defiance of the law, defiance of the public, defiance of the government. The national legislature has enacted the necessary laws for the protection of the public; the courts have interpreted them; it remains only for those intrusted with their enforcement to execute them, and to perform their function swiftly. Let it be determined at once whether this is a government of the people or of the oil barons.

Now that Cyclone Davis is able to invest in a collar and tie we are persuaded that the papers which have been giving the congressman-at-large so much free advertising should call a halt. Otherwise the candidate will expect it when he comes up for re-election next summer.

No Reason for Tire Problem to Tourists Across Continent

Just before Thanksgiving, 1915, H. C. Osterman, field secretary of the Lincoln Highway association returned to the national headquarters at Detroit after having spent the entire summer upon the route of the Lincoln highway between New York and San Francisco. One of the most interesting features of his report of conditions along the great cross country road was the statement he made relative to the service he obtained from the Goodyear tires with which his car was equipped for the journey.

Mr. Osterman left New York City early in April, traveling westward over the Lincoln highway. In Akron, the Stutz car which he was driving and which was given to the Lincoln highway association by the Stutz Motor company of Indiana, was equipped with stock Goodyear tires, all weather tread in the rear and Goodyear cord tires in the front. From that date until he arrived at Detroit, which included 5,900 miles of travel over the Lincoln to San Francisco and return, Mr. Osterman stated that he absolutely forgot that he had tires on his car. He drove from Akron to San Francisco with the original Akron air in all four tires and returned from San Francisco to Elkhart, Ind., before having the first puncture. In all, these tires traveled a distance of 6,000 miles in round figures carrying a car weighing 4,000 pounds without equipment over every possible road condition to be found in spanning the country and at the end of the trip no apparent wear was visible.

The statement by President Henry B. Joy of Lincoln Highway association, that the unprecedented attendance at various automobile shows is made up by people coming not only to buy a car but to determine the route for their touring in 1916, and the majority will find their way across the continent over the Lincoln highway, leads to the conclusion that every one of them can profit by the experience of Mr. Osterman and do no better than to follow his example in the matter of tire equipment.

THE BOYS OF WACO AND OFFICE OF RECORDER

Did it ever occur to you that a great many boys of all ages and sizes are apprehended by the police? And these first offenders have to be handled with care. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow. A judicious handling of the cases of these boys may turn them from wrong doing and help them along in the ways of right acting and assist them to a career of usefulness. There's a warm spot in my heart for the boys of Waco.

What Are You Here For?

If you've never made another have a happy time in life,
If you've never helped a brother through his struggles and his strife;
If you've never been a comfort to the weary and the worn,
Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of morn!

If you've never made the pathway of some neighbor glow with sun,
If you've never brought a bubble to some fellow heart with fun;
If you've never cheered a toiler that you tried to help along,
Will you kindly tell us what you're here for, in this lovely land of song!

If you've never made a comrade feel the world a sweeter place,
Because you've lived within it and had served it with your grace;
If you've never heard a woman or a little child proclaim
A blessing on your bounty—you're a poor hand at the game!

Delivery routes in the City of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. They are not required, and they are advised against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM.

While the prophet Isaiah had in mind the coming of the spiritual kingdom of God when he wrote, "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them," the truth of the last clause is finding ample illustration in the material things of the world and in no sphere of activity more than in that of farming.

Up in Ohio, Dewey Hanes of Arcanum, champion wheat and corn grower, is going to show the farmers of the Buckeye State how to raise corn as it ought to be raised. And if the 2,000 or more farmers of that state who are due to assemble for the "farmers' week" program at the Ohio State university at Columbus, January 31 to February 4, are wise they will listen carefully to what this successful boy farmer is to tell them about how to get the best results in planting corn and wheat.

"If farmers knew the corn-raising game they could get more corn from 15 acres than most of them now get from 50," he says.

Hanes produced 154.2 bushels of corn from one acre. That's about four times the average farmer's yield.

"The man who puts 30 acres in corn, plows once and then expects his corn to take care of itself is wasting his money and land," Hanes says. "But that's what the majority of Ohio cornraisers do. "I simply fix the seed bed right, plant good seed, use plenty of manure and fertilizer, and cultivate my crops."

Hanes is a valuable asset to the state of Ohio and if the farmers of that state are of the right type they will see that the boy is encouraged to continue his work along efficient methods of agriculture in order that he may pass his knowledge on to others. He hopes to attend college, the dispatches declare, and plans are on foot among some of his friends to procure for him a free scholarship at either Ohio State or Wisconsin University.

But Ohio is not in a class to herself in having little children to lead their parents in improved methods of farming and livestock production. All over the South the Boys' Corn club movement has resulted in the employment of more productive methods of corn culture at the hands of adult farmers, and in Texas in general, and McLennan county in particular, the Boys' Pig club movement and the Girls' Home Economics club work are bringing the fathers and mothers of the boys and girls to see that there are dollars and cents (and sense, too), and larger possibilities for farm life in every direction in doing the work of the farm along modern lines.

The average farmer does not like to take suggestions from college professors, and many tillers of the soil regard everything coming from experts as "book larnin'," which is to be studiously avoided; but when their own little boys and girls demonstrate that the old methods that have been pursued on the farm are far less efficient than the new, then the old folks open their eyes, forget their prejudices against that which is new, and decide that possibly they have been mistaken in clinging to old methods simply because their father used them.

Here's a tip to the Leap Year girls: Advices from the headquarters of the Brotherhood of Bashful Bachelors are to the effect that the men despise too much jewelry on women's hands. They say it is no fun to hold the hand that is covered with jewelry, for the same sensation can be had by holding a handful of curtain rings and a wrist watch.

ACTIVITY IN POLL TAX PAYMENT.

This from a recent issue of the Waco Times-Herald:

"The Waco News has seen proper to make this accusation:

"'You can depend upon the liquor forces having their poll taxes paid. They are doing this year what they have done ever since the poll tax law became effective in this state—paying poll taxes for thousands of people over the state and then demanding the possession of the poll tax receipts to be passed out on election day to persons whom the liquor agents can trust to vote against prohibition, submission or whatever the issue may be. And this corrupt, underhand practice will be employed in this state until the people rise in their might and drive the whole business from their boundaries.'

"If the Waco News has such information, why doesn't it present the facts specifically to the grand juries having jurisdiction and thus pave the way for a lot of criminal indictments? As was said by President Grant on a certain occasion, 'Let no guilty man escape.'"

The Times-Herald may not know that the payment of poll taxes by liquor interests in this city a year ago was called to the attention of the grand jury of the Fifty-fourth district court last March, and while men who went before the grand jury testified that they received money from a saloon in this city with which to pay their poll taxes, they failed to identify the man from the saloon who gave them the money. That is not surprising, for a man who would accept poll tax money from a saloon or any other illegitimate source would have no scruples about perjuring himself as to the identity of the man who gave him the funds.

Year before last the grand jury of the same court brought in some indictments for the illegal payment of poll taxes by a colored representative of the liquor interests, but the state was unable to procure the attendance of the defendant and witnesses at the time the cases were docketed for trial and no convictions were had.

And has the Times-Herald forgotten the famous Michael O'Brien fund from which many poll taxes were paid in this city and county not many years ago, and the case of Frank Solon, in which the first conviction for illegal poll tax payment ever procured in this state was had in 1908?

While it has never been officially established, it is generally regarded as true that there is a safe in a certain saloon in this city which contains the poll tax receipts of numerous persons of a certain nationality every year, these receipts having been paid for, it is alleged, by the liquor interests, and held by the saloonkeeper to be voted by whomsoever he cares to entrust them to on election day.

The editor of the Times-Herald may give the organized and politically active liquor interests of this state credit for greater innocence than does this paper, but we confess that there is not much indication of abhorrence of paying poll taxes illegally in the following extract from the monthly report of a well known employe of the organized liquor interests of this state for January, 1909, which has since been made a matter of court record in this state:

"Dallas was a hard proposition. My first visit on the 6th it was dead. The credit for the fine showing made in the wind-up was due mainly to ——— ——— (meaning an employe of the association), and if we could have had the hearty co-operation of the tax collector we could have had 2,000 more votes."

Another agent of the organized liquor interests of this state, writing under date of December 27, 1910, in advance of the statewide election in 1911, announced to his employers that he "had moved heaven and earth to get poll taxes paid," and announced that the work had been carried on from the Panhandle to the Gulf and from Orange to El Paso.

A San Antonio brewer, addressing a Galveston brewer under date of January 7, 1910, said, among other things:

"Would respectfully direct your attention, however, to the first page thereof, especially the paragraph reading, 'I will say in passing that I do not believe the poll tax matter will cost us one-half this year's, etc.'

"As previously stated, to put such things in black and white is a very dangerous proceeding. If anything of the kind is necessary we should not commit ourselves to that extent and I am sure you will appreciate this."

Now if there was nothing illegitimate in the poll tax campaign of the liquor interests, why, pray, was it so dangerous to even mention it in correspondence or put it down in "black and white," as the brewer states it?

It may be a little difficult to establish in court the guilt of the organized liquor interests in the payment of poll taxes, but we are surprised that so well informed a paper as our neighbor is presumed to be should, in the light of past developments in this state, call into question the fact that such work is being carried on. And part of the fund raised for this general purpose goes to pay the salaries of bright men to direct the work so as to get results without being detected by the officers of the law

A SURE-ENOUGH TRUST.

The recent advance in the wholesale price of gasoline from 11c to 23c a gallon opens wide to the United States government an excellent opportunity to determine definitely and conclusively whether it is potent or helpless in the presence of private monopoly, in the opinion of the Christian Science Monitor. It is common knowledge that while competition was rife in the oil producing industry during 1914 and a large part of 1915, the price of gasoline declined steadily. From all appearances, the oil monopolists are today, as boldly as at any time in the last fifteen years, subjecting the users of certain of their products, especially gasoline, to an exorbitant and illegal tariff. To all appearances they have practically set at naught the command that they dissolve and remain dissolved, and are proceeding on the assumption that the court's decision has ceased to deserve remembrance or respect.

Now, it will serve no good purpose, no purpose of value to the public, if the government, through the judiciary department, shall await in this instance observance of all the formalities attendant upon the entering of complaint. The attorney general need only inquire after the manner pursued by the ordinary citizen in search of information. The facts cannot elude him. They are self-evident. Notwithstanding the natural resources of the country in oil, notwithstanding the ability of wells to produce, notwithstanding production, the price of gasoline has been advanced in a short period 12c a gallon wholesale, an increase that means the exploitation of the consumer and the enrichment of the monopolists by hundreds of millions of dollars.

It will be purely nonsensical for the government to proceed in this matter with conventional sedateness. If illegal practices are being resumed by the oil monopolists, there should be no more ceremony attending the apprehension of the oil monopolists than there is in the arrest of any one else. The point is that resumption of monopolistic practices in the oil trade means defiance of the law, defiance of the public, defiance of the government. The national legislature has enacted the necessary laws for the protection of the public; the courts have interpreted them; it remains only for those intrusted with their enforcement to execute them, and to perform their function swiftly. Let it be determined at once whether this is a government of the people or of the oil barons.

Now that Cyclone Davis is able to invest in a collar and tie we are persuaded that the papers which have been giving the congressman-at-large so much free advertising should call a halt. Otherwise the candidate will expect it when he comes up for re-election next summer.

No Reason for Tire Problem to Tourists Across Continent

Just before Thanksgiving, 1915, H. C. Osterman, field secretary of the Lincoln Highway association returned to the national headquarters at Detroit after having spent the entire summer upon the route of the Lincoln highway between New York and San Francisco. One of the most interesting features of his report of conditions along the great cross country road was the statement he made relative to the service he obtained from the Goodyear tires with which his car was equipped for the journey.

Mr. Osterman left New York City early in April, traveling westward over the Lincoln highway. In Akron, the Stutz car which he was driving and which was given to the Lincoln highway association by the Stutz Motor company of Indiana, was equipped with stock Goodyear tires, all weather tread in the rear and Goodyear cord tires in the front. From that date until he arrived at Detroit, which included 5,900 miles of travel over the Lincoln to San Francisco and return, Mr. Osterman stated that he absolutely forgot that he had tires on his car. He drove from Akron to San Francisco with the original Akron air in all four tires and returned from San Francisco to Elkhart, Ind., before having the first puncture. In all, these tires traveled a distance of 6,000 miles in round figures carrying a car weighing 4,000 pounds without equipment over every possible road condition to be found in spanning the country and at the end of the trip no apparent wear was visible.

The statement by President Henry B. Joy of Lincoln Highway association, that the unprecedented attendance at various automobile shows is made up by people coming not only to buy a car but to determine the route for their touring in 1916, and the majority will find their way across the continent over the Lincoln highway, leads to the conclusion that every one of them can profit by the experience of Mr. Osterman and do no better than to follow his example in the matter of tire equipment.

THE BOYS OF WACO AND OFFICE OF RECORDER

Did it ever occur to you that a great many boys of all ages and sizes are apprehended by the police? And these first offenders have to be handled with care. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow. A judicious handling of the cases of these boys may turn them from wrong doing and help them along in the ways of right acting and assist them to a career of usefulness. There's a warm spot in my heart for the boys of Waco.

What Are You Here For?

If you've never made another have a happy time in life,
If you've never helped a brother through his struggles and his strife;
If you've never been a comfort to the weary and the worn,
Will you tell us what you're here for in this lovely land of morn!

If you've never made the pathway of some neighbor glow with sun,
If you've never brought a bubble to some fellow heart with fun;
If you've never cheered a toiler that you tried to help along,
Will you kindly tell us what you're here for, in this lovely land of song!

If you've never made a comrade feel the world a sweeter place,
Because you've lived within it and had served it with your grace;
If you've never heard a woman or a little child proclaim
A blessing on your bounty—you're a poor hand at the game!

DESPAIRING WOMAN NOW HAPPY MOTHER

Mrs. Stephens Did Not Need The Surgical Operation.

Patoka, Ill.—"I had been married five years and my greatest desire was to become a mother.

The doctor said I never would have a child unless I was operated on for female troubles and I had given up all hopes when a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly for sometime, and I am in better health than ever, and have a healthy baby girl. I praise your Vegetable Compound for my baby and my better health. I want all suffering women to know that it is the sure road to health and happiness."—Mrs. GEORGE STEPHENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Patoka, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

Taking Off Fat.

Those of you who are suffering from too great abundance of flesh, or from a tendency to put on flesh, think over the the many things you like best to do, especially in the form of manual arts or in the open air. From them select a new hobby.

If you are in middle life and like golf—play golf, not to reduce your weight and regain your health, but play golf to win. Forget about your stiffened joints and gray temples. Go after the championship of your club and get it.

Those who like a more vigorous exercise may join a tennis club, a football squad, a baseball nine, a basket or volley ball team, or a running or racing team. Go in to make your own group win all the matches in sight.

If athletics do not appeal to you and you are fond of the out-of-doors, join a hiking club. Get one or two of your friends to join you in walking expeditions. You will be surprised at the number of interesting places in your neighborhood which may be visited on foot and of which you have never before heard.

There are still quite a few who prefer to follow their hobby alone rather than with a group. There are no less interesting things which may be done alone. Gardening—fruit, vegetables or flower growing—is a fascinating pastime and combines splendid exercise in the open air with the delights of seeing things grow.

Furniture making is a profitable as well as a pleasant hobby for either men or women. Get a book of plans and fit up a work bench in the cellar or attic, where you may retire and hammer and saw to your content. The beautiful and useful things you can fashion will be only part of the return on the investment.

But if nothing that has been suggested appeals to you and nothing better suggests itself to your mind, there is still one universally cheap and available form of exercise, which is within the reach of everybody. That is nature's own exercise, walking.

Walk to the office, walk to school, walk to lunch. When you are tempted to take a street car or a taxi, walk instead. Whenever and wherever you are, walk to your next destination. Get yourself comfortable shoes, then hold up your head, throw out your chest—and walk.—Lydia Allen DeVilbiss, M. D., in "Good Health."

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Winter

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the winter term. These things which clog the pores, tend to aid wind and weather in roughening and coarsening the skin. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without encouraging the skin to chap, crack or become harsh and leathery. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been spoiled by winds or temperature. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and soft, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from wrinkling, or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce of powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel.

CLIFTON CLUB ACTIVE SHAKSPERE IS STUDIED

One of the clubs from which report of activity comes is the Magazine club of Clifton. Not only are the members deriving pleasure from text study, but they are looking forward to some celebration of the Shakspere tercentenary.

NEW SHAKSPERE CLUB IS FORMING AT VALLEY MILLS

Mrs. Thomas Sleeper during her long residence in Abilene absorbed the fascination of study in Shakspere. Recently, Mrs. Sleeper has moved to Valley Mills. She has not only taken her enthusiasm into the new home, but she is spreading the Shakspere contagion. A club is forming under solicitation of Mrs. Sleeper among the Valley Mills women. "Julius Caesar" will be the first play.

NATION BABY WEEK ASSUMES PROPORTION

From all sides come reports of interest in National Baby Week. Clubs are forming committees and discussing programs. Nothing appeals like the baby. The suggestion of this national wave of interest for the baby, first made by the National Child Welfare bureau, and seconded by the General Federation of Women's clubs, meets hearty response. Between this and the date in March which has been set for Baby Week, it is safe to predict not one single community will fail to have something said in behalf of the care and protection of the nation's little ones.

FIRST MUSIC FEDERATION MEETS IN MAY IN WACO

Following the first formal board meeting in Fort Worth, the newly-formed State Federation of Musical clubs, accepted invitation of Mrs. Joseph Wren, president of the Euterpean club of Waco and vice president of the Music Federation, to hold its first session in Waco. This comes with early May. While the board has not so stated, the likelihood is that the first activity of this new body of women will be club extension. The primary purpose in separating tentatively from the Federation of literary clubs was in order to amalgamate more strongly the musical interests of Texas.

MUSICAL NUMBERS GIVEN AT PRESIDENT'S WEDDING

For the music clubs, it may be a note of interest to hear what was played by the orchestra in the home of Mrs. Galt after the ceremony which made her first lady of the land. At the time of the wedding it was given out that then Mrs. Galt gave instructions to the leader of the orchestra which she had engaged: "No patriotic airs and no ragtime." There was no music during the service, but during the supper an orchestra gave a concert. The selections were, from two violins and piano, "Whistling Willows" by Herbert, Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," "The Swan," by Saint Saens, "In Love's Garden," by Schumann, "The Serenade," by Moskowski, "I Would that My Love," by Mendelssohn, and "Simple Avue," by Thome.

HUMANE BANDS OF MERCY ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

It is recent note in a journal devoted to humane work that a band of mercy was formed. This is known as the Abraham Lincoln, and here may be noted the inspiration to patriotism. The members were taken from a Junior Christian Endeavor, and here may be noted the extension from church to practical Christian mercy. This society was from the Presbyterian church, and here may be noted denominational recognition of humane practice. One of the first activities was a beautiful entertainment in the church to raise funds for the street work. This report is made from Massachusetts. Why is it that no church in Texas is promoting this one of the seven beatitudes, "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy."

M'LENNAN COUNTY CLUBS ARE NOW ORGANIZED

Mrs. J. L. Landrum, state organizer for girls' canning clubs, together with E. F. Drake, organizer of boys' pig clubs, has devoted the last week to McLennan county. Each day visits have been paid and enthusiastic clubs organized. Mrs. Landrum is now gone to South Texas to continue her organizing. In the meantime, it behooves some wide-awake woman, or some mothers' club to feed the flame of interest. Young folks need counsel and stimulant for carrying forward their work. If the women in each community who were chief assistants to Mrs. Landrum really feel interest in these girls and boys' practical farm clubs, let them demonstrate this by encouraging the young folks in their every effort.

SOME VITAL QUESTIONS GIVEN TO DALLAS CLUB

Some time ago, one of the Dallas clubs, the Forum, we believe, devoted an afternoon to the substitution of vital topics asked and answered, rather than the prepared paper. Those questions were:

What is the logical means of securing sex equality?

After full discussion among the members, the answer was reduced to "Work for the cause and education as to the purpose."

How should the expenditure in the home be regulated? By a common purse between husband and wife.

What occupation is the most remunerative for the married woman? Well conducted housework.

Since labor is becoming more skilled, more intellectual and less purely physical, is it likely that woman will surpass man in any line of work? Yes, in settlement work, typewriting and some few othrs.

Ought married women be permitted to teach in the public school? Yes, with leave of absence during maternity.

MRS. WARNER OF CLAUDE ON THE RURAL SCHOOL

No woman in all Texas is quoted more frequently upon questions of rural life in this state than is Mrs. Warner of Claude. One of the deplorable conditions of which Mrs. Warner speaks is that 50,000 women who have taught rural schools until the mothers in rural homes have their voices stilled, while 25,000 unskilled trustees direct affairs of which they have had no practical experience. Mrs. Warner pleads earnestly for these ex-teachers, now mothers, to have positions on school boards. From standpoints both of teacher and mother, they are qualified to direct school affairs wisely. Are there not mothers in every community, not teachers, but mothers, who realize the justice in what Mrs. Warner says, and will bestir themselves and their neighbor mothers towards having women, if such in the community have had the experience as school trustees?

DISTRICT CHAIRMEN DELAYED WITH WORK

The publication of standing committees for the districts, also the members of the several committees of the state have been considerably delayed. Heretofore, these have been complete and published in advance of this date. The report is that the delay is for two reasons; one is the readjustment of internal conduction between state and district committees, and the other is the reluctance upon the part of so many women to assume the responsibility. The former cause is temporary only, and the result of readjustment in routine. The latter should be remedied. If club members stands for anything it stands for something good. Therefore, every woman who has as much as two hours a day which she can call her own, is duty bound to accept this responsibility if, by appeal, she is pronounced capable. By each one serving for the one administration, the good of the work prospers; but, if each shirks, only from selfishness, the one less capable must be appointed, and the good of the cause suffer in consequence. It is our vote which lays this heavy burden of responsibility upon the supervising officers; then, it is our duty to make that burden as light as we can by assuming our portion of it.

WOMEN ARE IN LITERATURE AS THEY HAVE NEVER BEEN

The activities of women in every direction of literature, religion and philanthrophy to say nothing of the business world, has brought the limelight of nations upon their endeavor. As a result, woman is appearing as she has never before in literature. It is the recognized law, tell the current of thought and there will be that same thought in literature and on the stage. The press is talking about women, women are asserting themselves for public welfare, and, what is more natural that women should furnish theme for the pen? People like to read about what interests them at the reading moment.

This all leads to the announcement that a recent book has come under the title, "Heroines of the Modern Stage," "Heroines of Modern Progress," and "Heroines of Modern Religion." This triology in literature exposes much of what women have accomplished as well as of what they aim to accomplish. Such women as Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Florence Nightingale, Clara Barton, Julia Ward Howe, Frances Willard and Jane Addams are included, biography as well as work. The farewell tour of Sarah Bernhardt, foremost in the group of women on the stage, was inspiration to this contribution to women in literature.

STONE MOUNTAIN CARVED TO THE CONFEDERACY

Perhaps we have not all heard of the great scheme over in Georgia. This concerns Confederates in all the Southern states, yet redounds to the artistic pieces of the nation, and the great pleasure of every one. The press has described the plan, and now the individual chapters and camps, Veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy, are beginning to discuss within themselves. The world at large knows of the wonderful Lion of Lucerne, the most unique monument ever erected. In a cliff within the city of Lucerne, Switzerland, following a design of the great Thorwalsden, pupils of the master carved the wonderful lion. Brave even to death is the symbolism, and this commemorates the fall of the Swiss guards, fighting bravely until breath ceased. Thousands upon thousands have stood in awe and reverence before the Lion of Lucerne.

It is now proposed that the Confederacy shall raise one million dollars, in order that the colossal monument shall be carved around Stone mountain. The details are stupendous. If Southern men and women respond with finances, this lasting monument is assured. And then thousands upon thousands who have marveled before the Lion of Lucerne will marvel still more before the monument around the base of Stone mountain.

WOMEN ARE EXPECTED TO DO CIVIC WORK NOW

Now is the accepted time for women, individually and collectively, to enhance civic beauty. No one feature of a community does this more effectively than the disappearance of the front fence. If there is a town cow to roam at large, bring pressure to bear upon the city fathers to suppress that roaming. The individual yard comes next. One woman taking care to have her front premises abloom with flowers and fresh with foliage is inspiration, she knows not to how many, these within her block and those who pass her by. Old vines torn away, trees trimmed high, bare spots on lawn freshly sodded, and flower beds made ready to bloom; surely every woman can do this much for civic beauty. Then, women combined can promote the community lawn. Neglected cemetery, vacant spots in the downtown district, these can receive attention. Get the children interested in the school grounds; have everybody do something toward making a beauty spot about the church. Just a little labor and just a little time before results will begin to show. One of the delegates to the State federation out at Brownwood tells the story of how, just twenty years ago, she was at Brownwood and saw a large area being planted with pecans. She thought this a useless venture, for whenever would those pecans yield? In the twenty years she returned to Brownwood, to find these same pecans the grove of magnificent trees, the very best pecan spot in all the world. Women in civic work should remember this. Growth may be slow, but growth is sure. We sow today to reap tomorrow. So, in this work of making more attractive our home yards, town centers, and city parks, is laying a foundation of beauty for the years to come. Now is the accepted time, women of Texas.

The sentiment looking toward better roads is with us. Some of our counties are already reveling. Texas suns are hot, and Texas summers are long. Why not the Texas women do something toward planting these highways with native trees? Just think what it would mean to spin from the Red to the Rio Grande beneath continuous overlapping limbs from our shade trees. This can easily be accomplished by an organization in each town to plant half way to the next.

Easy Way to Keep Your Hair in Curl

If you have trouble keeping your hair in curl, you'll do well to try plain liquid silmerine. Apply a little at night with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair from root to tip. The hair will dry in the prettiest waves and curls that you can arrange, and the effect will appear altogether natural. Instead of that dull, dried-out look which the heated iron gives, the hair will be bright, lustrous and beautiful.

Liquid silmerine is of course perfectly harmless to hair and scalp, and is neither greasy nor gummy. If you will get a few ounces from your druggist you will find it quite inexpensive to use.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

A DEPARTMENT DEVOTED TO THE FOSTERING OF MUSICAL INTERESTS OF WACO AND CENTRAL TEXAS.

By ZUMA WALLACE, Independent Phone 1607

Mr. John De Heck Gives Studio Tea.

On Saturday evening, Jan. 15, Mr. John De Heck was host at a most delightful informal tea and musical in his studio at Baylor university. This was given in compliment to Miss Ethel Standifer, who has recently become a member of the Baylor musical faculty.

After tea and oter light refreshments were served, a most enjoyable impromptu musical program was given. The numbers were: "Calm as the Night," by Bohm (given twice by request); "Leuchtenden Am Summer Morgan" and "Mondnacht," both by Schumann, sung by Mr. De Heck; "Deutsche Tanz" (Beethoven), and Schumann's Romanz, played by Mr. Rudolf Hoffmann; a Nevin reverie and "Lullaby" (original composition), by Mrs. Randolph Wilson; a group of songs include Cadman's "The Land of the Sky Blue Water" and the popular little Scotch song "Laddie," sung by Miss Catherine Spindle; a Shubert waltz and an original barcarrole played by F. Arthur Johnson; a selection by P. S. Durham, Chopin's C minor polonaise and "Shadows," by MacDowell, played by Miss Eschol Taylor.

The guests, about forty in number, included Dr. S. P. Brooks, the president, and many of the members of the Baylor faculty.

Mr. De Heck, in addition to his musical attainments, is a decided success as a host and so pleasantly did the evening pass that many hope these informal musical gatherings will be often repeated.

Speaking of musical atmosphere, there is no surer way to create it than by the friendly relation and co-operation of the musicians themselves. No great results in any line of work can come without united effort. It was through the united efforts of a band of literary and artistic men of Florence, who called their society the "Camerata," that the first opera was written in the year 1600. All through history we read of great things being accomplished by united effort. If we would have Waco a musical city, all musicians must be on the best of terms with each other and pull together for musical Waco, consequently better Waco.

Miss Eldora Stanford to Sing in Waco.

Miss Eldora Stanford, gifted singer, and former Waco girl, while on a visit to her parents in Waco during February, will be heard in recital at Carroll Chapel.

Miss Stanford was formerly a pupil of Mr. Fred E. Eggert of Baylor University and has been for several seasons in New York, studying and filling engagements in light opera. She has recently been engaged by the Columbia company to make graphaphone records, some of which have been heard and enjoyed by friends in Waco.

Miss Stanford will also give recitals in Cleburne, College Station, Marlin and possibly Houston.

Two Waco Musicians Score Success.

On Friday evening, Jan. 14, Mrs. Joseph Wren and Miss Louise Lawson were presented in joint recital by Trinity University at Waxahachie. Preceding the recital, from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. Wren and Miss Lawson were entertained by the Waxahachie Music club.

An informal program was given by local talent and discussions were held concerning the first meeting of the State Federation of Music Clubs, which is to be held in Waco early in May.

Mrs. Wren was intrumental in securing this meeting for Waco, when the executive board met in Fort Worth during the month. The convention fortunately will be held at the time the New York Philharmonic orchestra fills its engagement in Waco. This not only assures large attendance for both concerts given by the orchestra, but affords those who attend the opportunity of hearing one of America's greatest orchestras.

On the evening of their recital Mrs. Wren and Miss Lawson scored a decided success. Mrs. Wren has an exceptionally musical voice and was especially complimented by the musicians on her rendition of the aria "Ernani, Involami," from Verdi's opera, "Ernani," the "Staccato Polka" by Hunder and Bishop's "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark." Other numbers which were especially well received by the audience were the old Irish song, "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, old English folk song with words by Ben Johnson.

Mrs. Wren is one of Waco's most gifted singers and there is no reason why she should not attain distinction in concert or oratorio.

The Poor Beginner.

When the beginner begins to study music, the cheapest teacher in town is good enough for him—the cheaper the better. Why, he is only a beginner; anyone can teach him. Why spend a lot of money on him when he doesn't know anything? This is offered as irresistable logic, and is intended to discourage further comment.

Anyone can teach him in a way, but it takes a first-class teacher to teach him as he should be taught. This idea finds difficulty in percolating through the public mind.

The usual method is to keep the teacher and pupil somewhere near the same level. As the pupil improves he selects a higher-priced teacher. The price of the teacher is governed by the pupil's estimate of himself. As an example of illogical logic this puts the books to shame.

Why so many parents have this perverted mental attitude toward music study is hard to answer. Is it commercialism in the concrete? Is it because the child is a non-producer? Is it because he has never been anything but a consumer? Is the value of the child determined in this way? Does he deserve nothing more than he has earned? These questions are worthy of serious consideration.

Let us not lose sight of the psychological side of the proposition. The initial processes of art are ideals and concepts. One who is forced to practice on an inferior instrument, which must of necessity have an imperfect tone and usually an imperfect action, is pretty sure to form a limited concept of the instrument and of himself. The effect of continued listening to imperfect tone cannot be otherwise than injurious to his taste and ideals.

I once knew a boy who in learning the major scale in some way formed the habit of singing one tone out of tune. At the last account, although a full-grown man, he was still singing it out of tune. What has been said of the imperfect instrument applies equally to the teacher whose concept of music is limited to a mere matter of technic. On the subject of a teacher for the beginner I am a radical. He should have an instrument that will impress with its ultimate possibilities. He should have a teacher also who will fill him with the right idea of music as a means of expression of the beautiful.

To have an unpleasant tone constantly ringing in one's ears makes practice distasteful. To get nothing from a teacher but the dry-as-dust technic makes the whole matter of study unattractive.

I believe the first years of music study are the most important, for it is then that the taste and ideals are formed. If the pupil is to have inferior teaching it will be less harmful any other time than in the biginning.

The beginner needs to learn something more than the technic of his instrument. He needs a teacher who will not only form his hand or his voice, as the case may be, but who will form his ideals as well.

He needs a teacher who knows the possibilities, the importance, and the value of music as an educational force and will keep him filled with love and enthusiasm for it.

There are many, very many, students whose concept of music has been so warped and dwarfed by their early study that they see in it nothing of any permanent value. The only way to change this condition is to realize the importance of starting right.

In this as in many other things a good beginning is likely to make a good ending.

D. A. CLIPPINGER.

(Gertrude M. Greenhalge.)

Almost every teacher has had or has some pupils who are like a clinging vine, never standing on their own feet, wishing for someone's chance, waiting for somebody to place him, or envying the progressive student. To these students who are as blind to their opportunities as a beautiful butterly wrapped up in its cocoon is blind to the world, the story told by Booker T. Washington in his book, "Up From Slavery," is very helpful.

A ship lost at sea for many days suddenly sighted a friendly vessel. From the mast of the unfortunate vessel was seen a signal, "Water, water, we die of thirst. The answer that was flashed back from the friendly vessel was "Cast your bucket where you are." A second time the signal, "Water, water, send us water," ran up from the distressed vessel and was answered, "Cast your bucket where you are." A third and fourth signal for water was answered, "Cast your bucket where you are." The captain of the distressed vessel at last heeded the injunction, cast down the bucke and it came up full of fresh sparkling water from the Amazon river.

To the student who is waiting to go abroad to be "finished," or wishing to go to a large community, or holding back until some wonderful professor will launch him in the musical world, remember to "Cast your bucket where you are." Read the musical magazines. Memorize and keep up a repertoire. Attend concerts and recitals. Be sociable at gatherings and recitals. Be sociable at gatherings Let not your own shadow keep you in perpetual darkness.

Musical Notes.

The recital given by Edward Baxter Perry at the Presser Home for Retired Music Teachers on Nov. 18 last was attended by the residents of the home and by many guests. Mr. Perry's program was varied and interesting. Among other numbers he played the butterfly etude of Chopin and the A flat major poloaise of the same composer. His program epened with the "Melusine" suite of his own composition and closed with the sixth rhapsody of Liszt. Mr. Perry's interesting descriptive introductions were greatly appreciated. If the truth were only known all of the great pianists of the present day who are touring America owe a great debt to this wonderful remarkable blind man who has done such marvelous pioneer work for over thirty years. Thousands and thousands of people have become more interested in music through Mr. Perry's delightful playing and through his engaging talks upon the masterpiece he has played.—Etude.

Dislocation of the Shoulder.

The patient suffers considerable pain the first time the shoulder is dislocated; the more often the shoulder is dislocated the less pain is experienced, until some individuals have been able to voluntarily throw the shoulder out of joint with ease, and feel practically no pain.

What to do. Call a doctor; but if you cannot get one, a very simple method is to have the patient lie flat on the ground, upon his back. Next, sit down facing the patient, next to the injured side; place your heel snugly into the axilla armpit—be sure to remove your shoe first. Grasp the hand of the dislocated arm firmly and pull toward you, and also toward the injured one's side, and at the same time push upward and outward with your heel; the head of the humurus will then slip back into its original socket. Bandage the arm firmly to chest with the hand resting on the opposite shoulder.

If manipulation causes much pain, or if there is too much resistance an anesthetic must be used and this should be given only by a doctor. In this case, bandage the arm firmly in the most comfortable position. Place the patient on a stretcher and remove him to a place where he can properly be cared for by a doctor.—G. C. Hubly, M. D., in "Good Health."

DESPAIRING WOMAN NOW HAPPY MOTHER

Mrs. Stephens Did Not Need The Surgical Operation.

Patoka, Ill.—"I had been married five years and my greatest desire was to become a mother. The doctor said I never would have a child unless I was operated on for female troubles and I had given up all hopes when a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly for sometime, and I am in better health than ever, and have a healthy baby girl. I praise your Vegetable Compound for my baby and my better health. I want all suffering women to know that it is the sure road to health and happiness."—Mrs. GEORGE STEPHENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Patoka, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, curative influence.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

Taking Off Fat.

Those of you who are suffering from too great abundance of flesh, or from a tendency to put on flesh, think over the the many things you like best to do, especially in the form of manual arts or in the open air. From them select a new hobby.

If you are in middle life and like golf—play golf, not to reduce your weight and regain your health, but play golf to win. Forget about your stiffened joints and gray temples. Go after the championship of your club and get it.

Those who like a more vigorous exercise may join a tennis club, a football squad, a baseball nine, a basket or volley ball team, or a running or racing team. Go in to make your own group win all the matches in sight.

If athletics do not appeal to you and you are fond of the out-of-doors, join a hiking club. Get one or two of your friends to join you in walking expeditions. You will be surprised at the number of interesting places in your neighborhood which may be visited on foot and of which you have never before heard.

There are still quite a few who prefer to follow their hobby alone rather than with a group. There are no less interesting things which may be done alone. Gardening—fruit, vegetables or flower growing—is a fascinating pastime and combines splendid exercise in the open air with the delights of seeing things grow.

Furniture making is a profitable as well as a pleasant hobby for either men or women. Get a book of plans and fit up a work bench in the cellar or attic, where you may retire and hammer and saw to your content. The beautiful and useful things you can fashion will be only part of the return on the investment.

But if nothing that has been suggested appeals to you and nothing better suggests itself to your mind, there is still one universally cheap and available form of exercise, which is within the reach of everybody. That is nature's own exercise, walking.

Walk to the office, walk to school, walk to lunch. When you are tempted to take a street car or a taxi, walk instead. Whenever and wherever you are, walk to your next destination. Get yourself comfortable shoes, then hold up your head, throw out your chest—and walk.—Lydia Allen DeVilbiss, M. D., in "Good Health."

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Winter

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the winter term. These things which clog the pores, tend to aid wind and weather in roughening and coarsening the skin. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without encouraging the skin to chap, crack or become harsh and leathery. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been spoiled by winds or temperature. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and soft, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from wrinkling, or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce of powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel.

NEW SHAKSPERE CLUB IS FORMING AT VALLEY MILLS

Mrs. Thomas Sleeper during her long residence in Abilene absorbed the fascination of study in Shakspere. Recently, Mrs. Sleeper has moved to Valley Mills. She has not only taken her enthusiasm into the new home, but she is spreading the Shakspere contagion. A club is forming under solicitation of Mrs. Sleeper among the Valley Mills women. "Julius Caesar" will be the first play.

NATION BABY WEEK ASSUMES PROPORTION

From all sides come reports of interest in National Baby Week. Clubs are forming committees and discussing programs. Nothing appeals like the baby. The suggestion of this national wave of interest for the baby, first made by the National Child Welfare bureau, and seconded by the General Federation of Women's clubs, meets hearty response. Between this and the date in March which has been set for Baby Week, it is safe to predict not one single community will fail to have something said in behalf of the care and protection of the nation's little ones.

FIRST MUSIC FEDERATION MEETS IN MAY IN WACO

Following the first formal board meeting in Fort Worth, the newly-formed State Federation of Musical clubs, accepted invitation of Mrs. Joseph Wren, president of the Euterpean club of Waco and vice president of the Music Federation, to hold its first session in Waco. This comes with early May. While the board has not so stated, the likelihood is that the first activity of this new body of women will be club extension. The primary purpose in separating tentatively from the Federation of literary clubs was in order to amalgamate more strongly the musical interests of Texas.

MUSICAL NUMBERS GIVEN AT PRESIDENT'S WEDDING

For the music clubs, it may be a note of interest to hear what was played by the orchestra in the home of Mrs. Galt after the ceremony which made her first lady of the land. At the time of the wedding it was given out that then Mrs. Galt gave instructions to the leader of the orchestra which she had engaged; "No patriotic airs and no ragtime." There was no music during the service, but during the supper an orchestra gave a concert. The selections were, from two violins and piano, "Whistling Willows" by Herbert, Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," "The Swan," by Saint Saens, "In Love's Garden," by Schumann, "The Serenade," by Moskowski, "I Would that My Love," by Mendelssohn, and "Simple Avue," by Thome.

HUMANE BANDS OF MERCY ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

It is recent note in a journal devoted to humane work that a band of mercy was formed. This is known as the Abraham Lincoln, and here may be noted the inspiration to patriotism. The members were taken from a Junior Christian Endeavor, and here may be noted the extension from church to practical Christian mercy. This society was from the Presbyterian church, and here may be noted denominational recognition of humane practice. One of the first activities was a beautiful entertainment in the church to raise funds for the street work. This report is made from Massachusetts. Why is it that no church in Texas is promoting this one of the seven beatitudes, "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy."

M'LENNAN COUNTY CLUBS ARE NOW ORGANIZED

Mrs. J. L. Landrum, state organizer for girls' canning clubs, together with E. F. Drake, organizer of boys' pig clubs, has devoted the last week to McLennan county. Each day visits have been paid and enthusiastic clubs organized. Mrs. Landrum is now gone to South Texas to continue her organizing. In the meantime, it behooves some wide-awake woman, or some mothers' club to feed the flame of interest. Young folks need counsel and stimulant for carrying forward their work. If the women in each community who were chief assistants to Mrs. Landrum really feel interest in these girls and boys' practical farm clubs, let them demonstrate this by encouraging the young folks in their every effort.

SOME VITAL QUESTIONS GIVEN TO DALLAS CLUB

Some time ago, one of the Dallas clubs, the Forum, we believe, devoted an afternoon to the substitution of vital topics asked and answered, rather than the prepared paper. Those questions were:

What is the logical means of securing sex equality?

After full discussion among the members, the answer was reduced to "Work for the cause and education as to the purpose."

How should the expenditure in the home be regulated? By a common purse between husband and wife.

What occupation is the most remunerative for the married woman? Well conducted housework.

Since labor is becoming more skilled, more intellectual and less purely physical, is it likely that woman will surpass man in any line of work? Yes, in settlement work, typewriting and some few othrs.

Ought married women be permitted to teach in the public school? Yes, with leave of absence during maternity.

MRS. WARNER OF CLAUDE ON THE RURAL SCHOOL

No woman in all Texas is quoted more frequently upon questions of rural life in this state than is Mrs. Warner of Claude. One of the deplorable conditions of which Mrs. Warner speaks is that 50,000 women who have taught rural schools until the mothers in rural homes have their voices stilled, while 25,000 unskilled trustees direct affairs of which they have had no practical experience. Mrs. Warner pleads earnestly for these ex-teachers, now mothers, to have positions on school boards. From standpoints both of teacher and mother, they are qualified to direct school affairs wisely. Are there not mothers in every community, not teachers, but mothers, who realize the justice in what Mrs. Warner says, and will bestir themselves and their neighbor mothers towards having women, if such in the community have had the experience as school trustees?

DISTRICT CHAIRMEN DELAYED WITH WORK

The publication of standing committees for the districts, also the members of the several committees of the state have been considerably delayed. Heretofore, these have been complete and published in advance of this date. The report is that the delay is for two reasons: one is the readjustment of internal conduction between state and district committees, and the other is the reluctance upon the part of so many women to assume the responsibility. The former cause is temporary only, and the result of readjustment in routine. The latter should be remedied. If club membership stands for anything it stands for something good. Therefore, every woman who has as much as two hours a day which she can call her own, is duty bound to accept this responsibility if, by appeal, she is pronounced capable. By each one serving for the one administration, the good of the work prospers; but, if each shirks, only from selfishness, the one less capable must be appointed, and the good of the cause suffer in consequence. It is our vote which lays this heavy burden of responsibility upon the supervising officers; then, it is our duty to make that burden as light as we can by assuming our portion of it.

WOMEN ARE IN LITERATURE AS THEY HAVE NEVER BEEN

The activities of women in every direction of literature, religion and philanthrophy to say nothing of the business world, has brought the limelight of nations upon their endeavor. As a result, woman is appearing as she has never before in literature. It is the recognized law, tell the current of thought and there will be that same thought in literature and on the stage. The press is talking about women, women are asserting themselves for public welfare, and, what is more natural that women should furnish theme for the pen? People like to read about what interests them at the reading moment.

This all leads to the announcement that a recent book has come under the title, "Heroines of the Modern Stage," "Heroines of Modern Progress," and "Heroines of Modern Religion." This triology in literature exposes much of what women have accomplished as well as of what they aim to accomplish. Such women as Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Florence Nightingale, Clara Barton, Julia Ward Howe, Frances Willard and Jane Addams are included, biography as well as work. The farewell tour of Sarah Bernhardt, foremost in the group of women on the stage, was inspiration to this contribution to women in literature.

STONE MOUNTAIN CARVED TO THE CONFEDERACY

Perhaps we have not all heard of the great scheme over in Georgia. This concerns Confederates in all the Southern states, yet redounds to the artistic pieces of the nation, and the great pleasure of every one. The press has described the plan, and now the individual chapters and camps, Veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy, are beginning to discuss within themselves. The world at large knows of the wonderful Lion of Lucerne, the most unique monument ever erected. In a cliff within the city of Lucerne, Switzerland, following a design of the great Thorwaisden, pupils of the master carved the wonderful lion. Brave even to death is the symbolism, and this commemorates the fall of the Swiss guards, fighting bravely until breath ceased. Thousands upon thousands have stood in awe and reverence before the Lion of Lucerne.

It is now proposed that the Confederacy shall raise one million dollars, in order that the colossal monument shall be carved around Stone mountain. The details are stupendous. If Southern men and women respond with finances, this lasting monument is assured. And then thousands upon thousands who have marveled before the Lion of Lucerne will marvel still more before the monument around the base of Stone mountain.

WOMEN ARE EXPECTED TO DO CIVIC WORK NOW

Now is the accepted time for women, individually and collectively, to enhance civic beauty. No one feature of a community does this more effectively than the disappearance of the front fence. If there is a town cow to roam at large, bring pressure to bear upon the city fathers to suppress that roaming. The individual yard comes next. One woman taking care to have her front premises abloom with flowers and fresh with foliage is inspiration, she knows not to how many, these within her block and those who pass her by. Old vines torn away, trees trimmed high, bare spots on lawn freshly sodded, and flower beds made ready to bloom; surely every woman can do this much for civic beauty. Then, women combined can promote the community lawn. Neglected cemetery, vacant spots in the downtown district, these can receive attention. Get the children interested in the school grounds; have everybody do something toward making a beauty spot about the church. Just a little labor and just a little time before results will begin to show. One of the delegates to the State federation out at Brownwood tells the story of how, just twenty years ago, she was at Brownwood and saw a large area being planted with pecans. She thought this a useless venture, for whenever would those pecans yield? In the twenty years she returned to Brownwood, to find these same pecans the grove of magnificent trees, the very best pecan spot in all the world. Women in civic work should remember this. Growth may be slow, but growth is sure. We sow today to reap tomorrow. So, in this work of making more attractive our home yards, town centers, and city parks, is laying a foundation of beauty for the years to come. Now is the accepted time, women of Texas.

The sentiment looking toward better roads is with us. Some of our counties are already reveling. Texas suns are hot, and Texas summers are long. Why not the Texas women do something toward planting these highways with native trees? Just think what it would mean to spin from the Red to the Rio Grande beneath continuous overlapping limbs from our shade trees. This can easily be accomplished by an organization in each town to plant half way to the next.

Easy Way to Keep Your Hair in Curl

If you have trouble keeping your hair in curl, you'll do well to try plain liquid silmerine. Apply a little at night with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair from root to tip. The hair will dry in the prettiest waves and curls that you can arrange, and the effect will appear altogether natural. Instead of that dull, dried-out look which the heated iron gives, the hair will be bright, lustrous and beautiful.

Liquid silmerine is of course perfectly harmless to hair and scalp, and is neither greasy nor gummy. If you will get a few ounces from your druggist you will find it quite inexpensive to use.

Mr. John De Heck Gives Studio Tea.

On Saturday evening, Jan. 15, Mr. John De Heck was host at a most delightful informal tea and musical in his studio at Baylor university. This was given in compliment to Miss Ethel Standifer, who has recently become a member of the Baylor musical faculty.

After tea and other light refreshments were served, a most enjoyable impromptu musical program was given. The numbers were: "Calm as the Night," by Bohm (given twice by request); "Leuchtenden Am Summer Morgan" and "Mondnacht," both by Schumann, sung by Mr. De Heck; "Deutsche Tanz" (Beethoven), and Schumann's Romanz, played by Mr. Rudolf Hoffmann; a Nevin reverie and "Lullaby" (original composition), by Mrs. Randolph Wilson; a group of songs include Cadman's "The Land of the Sky Blue Water" and the popular little Scotch song "Laddie," sung by Miss Catherine Spindle; a Shubert waltz and an original barcarrole played by F. Arthur Johnson; a selection by P. S. Durham, Chopin's C minor polonaise and "Shadows," by MacDowell, played by Miss Eschol Taylor.

The guests, about forty in number, included Dr. S. P. Brooks, the president, and many of the members of the Baylor faculty.

Mr. De Heck, in addition to his musical attainments, is a decided success as a host and so pleasantly did the evening pass that many hope these informal musical gatherings will be often repeated.

Speaking of musical atmosphere, there is no surer way to create it than by the friendly relation and co-operation of the musicians themselves. No great results in any line of work can come without united effort. It was through the united efforts of a band of literary and artistic men of Florence, who called their society the "Camerata," that the first opera was written in the year 1600. All through history we read of great things being accomplished by united effort. If we would have Waco a musical city, all musicians must be on the best of terms with each other and pull together for musical Waco, consequently better Waco.

Miss Eldora Stanford to Sing in Waco.

Miss Eldora Stanford, gifted singer, and former Waco girl, while on a visit to her parents in Waco during February, will be heard in recital at Carroll Chapel.

Miss Stanford was formerly a pupil of Mr. Fred E. Eggert of Baylor University and has been for several seasons in New York, studying and filling engagements in light opera. She has recently been engaged by the Columbia company to make graphaphone records, some of which have been heard and enjoyed by friends in Waco.

Miss Stanford will also give recitals in Cleburne, College Station, Marlin and possibly Houston.

Two Waco Musicians Score Success.

On Friday evening, Jan. 14, Mrs. Joseph Wren and Miss Louise Lawson were presented in joint recital by Trinity University at Waxahachie. Preceding the recital, from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. Wren and Miss Lawson were entertained by the Waxahachie Music club.

An informal program was given by local talent and discussions were held concerning the first meeting of the State Federation of Music Clubs, which is to be held in Waco early in May.

Mrs. Wren was intrumental in securing this meeting for Waco, when the executive board met in Fort Worth during the month. The convention fortunately will be held at the time the New York Philharmonic orchestra fills its engagement in Waco. This not only assures large attendance for both concerts given by the orchestra, but affords those who attend the opportunity of hearing one of America's greatest orchestras.

On the evening of their recital Mrs. Wren and Miss Lawson scored a decided success. Mrs. Wren has an exceptionally musical voice and was especially complimented by the musicians on her rendition of the aria "Ernani, Involami," from Verdi's opera, "Ernani," the "Staccato Polka" by Hunder and Bishop's "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark." Other numbers which were especially well received by the audience were the old Irish song, "The Last Rose of Summer" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, old English folk song with words by Ben Johnson.

Mrs. Wren is one of Waco's most gifted singers and there is no reason why she should not attain distinction in concert or oratorio.

The Poor Beginner.

When the beginner begins to study music, the cheapest teacher in town is good enough for him—the cheaper the better. Why, he is only a beginner; anyone can teach him. Why spend a lot of money on him when he doesn't know anything? This is offered as irresistable logic, and is intended to discourage further comment.

Anyone can teach him in a way, but it takes a first-class teacher to teach him as he should be taught. This idea finds difficulty in percolating through the public mind.

The usual method is to keep the teacher and pupil somewhere near the same level. As the pupil improves he selects a higher-priced teacher. The price of the teacher is governed by the pupil's estimate of himself. As an example of illogical logic this puts the books to shame.

Why so many parents have this perverted mental attitude toward music study is hard to answer. Is it commercialism in the concrete? Is it because the child is a non-producer? Is it because he has never been anything but a consumer? Is the value of the child determined in this way? Does he deserve nothing more than he has earned? These questions are worthy of serious consideration.

Let us not lose sight of the psychological side of the proposition. The initial processes of art are ideals and concepts. One who is forced to practice on an inferior instrument, which must of necessity have an imperfect tone and usually an imperfect action, is pretty sure to form a limited concept of the instrument and of himself. The effect of continued listening to imperfect tone cannot be otherwise than injurious to his taste and ideals.

I once knew a boy who in learning the major scale in some way formed the habit of singing one tone out of tune. At the last account, although a full-grown man, he was still singing it out of tune. What has been said of the imperfect instrument applies equally to the teacher whose concept of music is limited to a mere matter of technic. On the subject of a teacher for the beginner I am a radical. He should have an instrument that will impress with its ultimate possibilities. He should have a teacher also who will fill him with the right idea of music as a means of expression of the beautiful.

To have an unpleasant tone constantly ringing in one's ears makes practice distasteful. To get nothing from a teacher but the dry-as-dust technic makes the whole matter of study unattractive.

I believe the first years of music study are the most important, for it is then that the taste and ideals are formed. If the pupil is to have inferior teaching it will be less harmful any other time than in the biginning.

The beginner needs to learn something more than the technic of his instrument. He needs a teacher who will not only form his hand or his voice, as the case may be, but who will form his ideals as well.

He needs a teacher who knows the possibilities, the importance, and the value of music as an educational force and will keep him filled with love and enthusiasm for it.

There are many, very many, students whose concept of music has been so warped and dwarfed by their early study that they see in it nothing of any permanent value. The only way to change this condition is to realize the importance of starting right.

In this as in many other things a good beginning is likely to make a good ending.

D. A. CLIPPINGER.

(Gertrude M. Greenhalge.)

Almost every teacher has had or has some pupils who are like a clinging vine, never standing on their own feet, wishing for someone's chance, waiting for somebody to place him, or envying the progressive student. To these students who are as blind to their opportunities as a beautiful butterly wrapped up in its cocoon is blind to the world, the story told by Booker T. Washington in his book, "Up From Slavery," is very helpful.

A ship lost at sea for many days suddenly sighted a friendly vessel. From the mast of the unfortunate vessel was seen a signal, "Water, water, we die of thirst. The answer that was flashed back from the friendly vessel was "Cast your bucket where you are." A second time the signal, "Water, water, send us water," ran up from the distressed vessel and was answered, "Cast your bucket where you are." A third and fourth signal for water was answered, "Cast your bucket where you are." The captain of the distressed vessel at last heeded the injunction, cast down the bucke and it came up full of fresh sparkling water from the Amazon river.

To the student who is waiting to go abroad to be "finished," or wishing to go to a large community, or holding back until some wonderful professor will launch him in the musical world, remember to "Cast your bucket where you are." Read the musical magazines. Memorize and keep up a repertoire. Attend concerts and recitals. Be sociable at gatherings and recitals. Be sociable at gatherings Let not your own shadow keep you in perpetual darkness.

Musical Notes.

The recital given by Edward Baxter Perry at the Presser Home for Retired Music Teachers on Nov. 18 last was attended by the residents of the home and by many guests. Mr. Perry's program was varied and interesting. Among other numbers he played the butterfly etude of Chopin and the A flat major polonaise of the same composer. His program opened with the "Melusine" suite of his own composition and closed with the sixth rhapsody of Liszt. Mr. Perry's interesting descriptive introductions were greatly appreciated. If the truth were only known all of the great pianists of the present day who are touring America owe a great debt to this wonderful remarkable blind man who has done such marvelous pioneer work for over thirty years. Thousands and thousands of people have become more interested in music through Mr. Perry's delightful playing and through his engaging talks upon the masterpiece he has played.—Etude.

The ancient glory of the Cecilia society of Boston, founded by Lowell Mason, is being rapidly revived under the direction of Henry L. Mason, a grandson of the founder, who has recently been appointed president of the society. For many years the Cecilia society represented perhaps the finest body of choral singers in America.

A unique celebration of the sixty-first birthday of John Philip Sousa took place recently in which theatre orchestras in all parts of the country, from New York to San Francisco simultaneously played "The New York Hippodrome March." Furthermore a depuiation of distinguished musicians and others—including Walter Damrosch—waited upon the cheeriest bandmaster in the world and before the Hippodrome audience presented him with a silver cigar humidor amid deafening applause.

Dislocation of the Shoulder.

The patient suffers considerable pain the first time the shoulder is dislocated; the more often the shoulder is dislocated the less pain is experienced, until some individuals have been able to voluntarily throw the shoulder out of joint with ease, and feel practically no pain.

What to do. Call a doctor; but if you cannot get one, a very simple method is to have the patient lie flat on the ground, upon his back. Next, sit down facing the patient, next to the injured side; place your heel snugly into the axilla armpit—be sure to remove your shoe first. Grasp the hand of the dislocated arm firmly and pull toward you, and also toward the injured one's side, and at the same time pushing upward and outward with your heel; the head of the humurus will then slip back into its original socket. Bandage the arm firmly to chest with the hand resting on the opposite shoulder.

If manipulation causes much pain, or if there is too much resistance an anesthetic must be used and this should be given only by a doctor. In this case, bandage the arm firmly in the most comfortable position. Place the patient on a stretcher and remove him to a place where he can properly be cared for by a doctor.—G. C. Hubly, M. D., in "Good Health."

"Twin Beds."

That life in a crowded apartment house is a fertile field for farce complications, which shall have not only the melancholy charm of familiarity to many sufferers who are forced to live it, but the exciting appeal of continuous and unexpected happenings to those who live it with a sense of humor, and those who look on, has been established to the final word by Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo with their deliciously funny farce, "Twin Beds," which Selwyn & Co., sponsors for "Within the Law" and "Under Cover," "Under Fire" and "Rolling Stones," "The Lie" and "The Show Shop," will send to the Auditorium on Thursday night, January 27, with an ideal company of comedians for its interpretation.

But "Twin Beds" has more than incalculably amusing situations, though these would probably have carried it to a rare degree of success by virtue of their novelty, the rapidity of their development and their uncommon naturalness. It possesses the value, almost never found in farce, of fine characterization, and the added value of witty line, slangy dialogue which virtually remade the current speech of Broadway during the fifty-two weeks of its run there, and delicate, real feeling, which pops out when it is least expected, and heightens the effect of the comedy.

Three couples live uncomfortably near to each other, in the crowded confines of a fashionable apartment house. They are brought together by the sociability of one of their number, a delectable bride whose husband wants nothing so much as "peace and quiet in the home." Once they are throttled in this unwelcome neighborliness, they all make frantic efforts to escape it—each effort entangling them the more, till a final catastrophic situation saves the day and sends the audience home still rocking with its mirth.

Selwyn & Co. have selected for the proper portrayal of "Twin Beds" here an excellent company, which will produce the play in a manner after that which held the Broadway audiences fifty-two weeks.

The production is a precise duplicate of the one which New York admired so extravagantly for one year at the Fulton & Harris theatres in New York.

HIPPODROME.

Program for Week.

Monday and Tuesday—Robert Harron in "The Missing Links," Triangle play. Griffith production; Robert Harron's first appearance since "The Birth of a Nation." The cast includes Norma Talmadge and Elmer Clifton. "Because He Loved Her," Triangle-Keystone with Sam Bernard and Mae Busch.

Wednesday and Thursday—"The Beckoning Flame," Ince-Triangle play with Henry Woodruff and Rhea Mitchell. "A Modern Enoch Arden," Triangle-Keystone with Joe Jackson.

Friday and Saturday—Theda Bara in "The Serpent," new William Fox sensation.

"The Missing Links."

Dealing with a young boy in college who hated above everything else to get up in the mornings and who wrote with regularity the usual "touching" letters home to his dad, and later with a murder and a mystery and a bank failure, "The Missing Links," a Fine Arts Triangle showing at the Hippodrome tomorrow and Tuesday, has a wide range of interest and runs the gaunt of comedy, melodrama and drama. Robert Harron excels all others in the cast but he gives a better opportunity for acting. His portrayal of the youth who tried the patience of his teachers and coaches in college until they decided they could manage to keep up the school without him and who [illegible] jewelry home with which to placate his father and brother, is a masterpiece of work. Elmer Clifton is as striking in his lesser part of older brother. The stepdaughter of the old squire who was always sent in "to help mother with the chicken" when a boy was about but who defied the squire and eloped with the ne'er-do-well is a lovable character in the person of Norma Talmadge. Her younger sister, Constance Talmadge, makes a pretty "Bessie" in whom the older brother finds his ideal; Constance Talmadge is one of the youngest of the Griffith players and bids fair to become one of the most popular. The father of the two boys is none other than Thomas Jefferson who with his illustrious father made "Rip Van Winkle" famous as a stage character, and the part of the dominating, bullying old squire is well played by William Higby. Others in the cast are Robert Lawler, the law student who liked novels better than law; Loyola O'Connor, Elinor Stone, Jack Brammall and Hal Wilson.

The story has just enough real comedy of the Griffith sort to make a natural setting for the tragedy of the little village. The feud is started by the banker's irresponsible son eloping with the squire's daughter. Then when a rumor starts a run on the bank and the squire is appointed receiver, the village is set agog by the murder of the squire. How the mystery is solved makes the splendid climax of the story.

"The Beckoning Flame."

The happy ending is without doubt the more popular of the two main extremes of a story, yet at times the happy ending is so illogical as to be incongruous. It is true also, that if we were to follow at least half of the stories and plays before the public to their logical endings, they would not be happy ones. In the great mass of happy plays and outcomes, too, the tragic finish is all the more effective. "The Beckoning Flame," showing at the Hippodrome Wednesday and Thursday, on the Triangle program, according to the nature of it, could not end anything but a tragedy. In the first place, the races do not mix; in the second, few men, however, high their moral standard may be in the land of civilization, have regard for it where they have not the incentive of the presence of social laws and restrictions.

The play deals with a little princess of India who is married to a dissipated, elderly prince while yet a child and who was saved from the horrible death of "suttee" at the husband's pyre by a young English officer. Dickson took the little Janira to his quarters where she lived in boy's garb. The government tries in vain to find the identity of her rescuer and never gives up the hunt. Months filled with happiness for Janira pass rapidly until she gradually comes to see that Dickson tires of her. His American sweetheart comes to India, and when the little princess understands that she can never hold first place in his life and learns that he will be dismissed from service if it is learned that he is harboring her, she builds her own funeral pyre and gives her life for his honor.

Henry Woodruff plays with distinction the young English officer. Little Janira finds a wonderful interpreter in the person of the Japanese actress, Tsura Aoki.

"The Serpent."

There has been much discussion and much conjecture about the private life of Miss Theda Bara, star of the Fox feature, "The Serpent," showing at the Hippodrome Thursday and Friday. She has become so universally known as the vampire woman of the films that there is danger with those that she plays. The truth is that Miss Bara is as kind, gracious and lovable as one can fell imagine a woman to be, but she has many tastes and characteristics that Americans dub as "peculiar." Born of a Russian father who was a sculptor and of a French mother who was an actress, and having been born in far away Egypt, it is not strange that she should have ways not thoroughly American. But this artist of the screen has lived for some time in this country and is universally loved by her companions and fellow workers. A splendid cast of Fox players support Miss Bara in "The Serpent," notably among them Charles Craig and Carl Harbaugh.

This story is of the betrayal of a trusting girl who is thus transformed into a woman hating all men and planning like a serpent to slyly and by trickery strike every one who molests her. It affords Miss Bara splendid scope for her well known talents and adds another success to her already long list. Vania Lazar, the pretty daughter of a Russian serf, is betrayed by Grand Duke Valonoff and for a time kept by him in royal splendor. Then as he tires of her charms, she is cast out. In that instant Vania becomes the serpent bent on poisonous revenge. Knowing that the grand duke's one love is for his son, the Prince Valonoff, she hides her fangs and flaunts her charms for him. The result leads to a tragic and powerful climax in which the serpent's fangs are bared. This is a gripping story of love and hate and a woman's wrong.

"The Ragamuffin."

SYNOPSIS.

The story of "The Ragamuffin" starts with the birth of two children "the whole wide world apart," one in a swell house in Washington Square, the other in the slums of New York. We see them on their third birthday; Bob, the rich little boy, surrounded by the presence of love and care; Jenny, the poor little girl stealing an apple from a fruit stand. We see them getting their education; Bob, under the care of a private tutor, and Jenny learning to read through stolen glances at the Police Gazette.

When they are grown up, Bob Van Dyke and his sister, Beth, now orphaned, are caught in the whirl of a gay social life and are spending the fortune left them by their parents. Jenny, left alone in the world, has been adopted by Dugan, an old crook, who stands in the place of a father to her, and who makes use of her in his illegal calling.

The young cracksman, Kelly, suggests to Dugan that they burglarize a house in Washington Square by putting Jenny through the basement window and have her open the front door for them. Jenny is captured by Bob and is about to turn her over to the police, but in questioning her sees through the girlish beauty a soul struggling for expression and he determines to try to save her.

Jenny, never having heard of right and wrong, is fascinated by the rich young man and when he leaves his money on the table and says that he will go upstairs "until he hears the front door close behind her," she realizes that she has found some one in the world who will trust her. She is about to go when she sees Bob's photograph on the table. She is tempted to steal it, but hesitates and leaves 50c, her whole fortune, in place of the picture. She then goes out and shuts the

The story has just enough real comedy of the Griffith sort to make a natural setting for the tragedy of the little village. The feud is started by the banker's irresponsible son eloping with the squire's daughter. Then when a rumor starts a run on the bank and the squire is appointed receiver, the village is set agog by the murder of the squire. How the mystery is solved makes the splendid climax of the story.

"The Beckoning Flame."

The happy ending is without doubt the more popular of the two main extremes of a story, yet at times the happy ending is so illogical as to be incongruous. It is true also, that if we were to follow at least half of the stories and plays before the public to their logical endings, they would not be happy ones. In the great mass of happy plays and outcomes, too, the tragic finish is all the more effective. "The Beckoning Flame," showing at the Hippodrome Wednesday and Thursday, on the Triangle program, according to the nature of it, could not end anything but a tragedy. In the first place, the races do not mix; in the second, few men, however, high their moral standard may be in the land of civilization, have regard for it where they have not the incentive of the presence of social laws and restrictions.

The play deals with a little princess of India who is married to a dissipated, elderly prince while yet a child and who was saved from the horrible death of "suttee" at the husband's pyre by a young English officer. Dickson took the little Janira to his quarters where she lived in boy's garb. The government tries in vain to find the identity of her rescuer and never gives up the hunt. Months filled with happiness for Janira pass rapidly until she gradually comes to see that Dickson tires of her. His American sweetheart comes to India, and when the little princess understands that she can never hold first place in his life and learns that he will be dismissed from service if it is learned that he is harboring her, she builds her own funeral pyre and gives her life for his honor.

Henry Woodruff plays with distinction the young English officer. Little Janira finds a wonderful interpreter in the person of the Japanese actress, Tsura Aoki.

"The Serpent."

There has been much discussion and much conjecture about the private life of Miss Theda Bara, star of the Fox feature, "The Serpent," showing at the Hippodrome Thursday and Friday. She has become so universally known as the vampire woman of the films that there is danger with those that she plays. The truth is that Miss Bara is as kind, gracious and lovable as one can fell imagine a woman to be, but she has many tastes and characteristics that Americans dub as "peculiar." Born of a Russian father who was a sculptor and of a French mother who was an actress, and having been born in far away Egypt, it is not strange that she should have ways not thoroughly American. But this artist of the screen has lived for some time in this country and is universally loved by her companions and fellow workers. A splendid cast of Fox players support Miss Bara in "The Serpent," notably among them Charles Craig and Carl Harbaugh.

This story is of the betrayal of a trusting girl who is thus transformed into a woman hating all men and planning like a serpent to slyly and by trickery strike every one who molests her. It affords Miss Bara splendid scope for her well known talents and adds another success to her already long list. Vania Lazar, the pretty daughter of a Russian serf, is betrayed by Grand Duke Valonoff and for a time kept by him in royal splendor. Then as he tires of her charms, she is cast out. In that instant Vania becomes the serpent bent on poisonous revenge. Knowing that the grand duke's one love is for his son, the Prince Valonoff, she hides her fangs and flaunts her charms for him. The result leads to a tragic and powerful climax in which the serpent's fangs are bared. This is a gripping story of love and hate and a woman's wrong.

"The Ragamuffin."

SYNOPSIS.

The story of "The Ragamuffin" starts with the birth of two children "the whole wide world apart," one in a swell house in Washington Square, the other in the slums of New York. We see them on their third birthday; Bob, the rich little boy, surrounded by the presence of love and care; Jenny, the poor little girl, stealing an apple from a fruit stand. We see them getting their education; Bob, under the care of a private tutor, and Jenny learning to read through stolen glances at the Police Gazette.

When they are grown up, Bob Van Dyke and his sister, Beth, now orphaned, are caught in the whirl of a gay social life and are spending the fortune left them by their parents. Jenny, left alone in the world, has been adopted by Dugan, an old crook, who stands in the place of a father to her, and who makes use of her in his illegal calling.

The young cracksman, Kelly, suggests to Dugan that they burglarize a house in Washington Square by putting Jenny through the basement window and have her open the front door for them. Jenny is captured by Bob and is about to turn her over to the police, but in questioning her sees through the girlish beauty a soul struggling for expression and he determines to try to save her.

Jenny, never having heard of right and wrong, is fascinated by the rich young man and when he leaves his money on the table and says that he will go upstairs "until he hears the front door close behind her," she realizes that she has found some one in the world who will trust her. She is about to go when she sees Bob's photograph on the table. She is tempted to steal it, but hesitates and leaves 50c, her whole fortune, in place of the picture. She then goes out and shuts the

"JIMMY LEGS" NO MORE.

Position of Master-at-Arms Will Soon Be Abolished.

The passing of "Jimmy Legs," which is a man-o'-warsman's name for the master-at-arms, charged with the duty of maintaining discipline, is told in the annual report of the bureau of navigation. The report says the number of men in that rating has been reduced and the rating itself soon will be abolished.

"It is not believed," says the report, "that a special police force is now necessary aboard ship. Every petty officer should be made to feel, by virtue of his appointment, he has his share of responsibility in maintaining discipline."

"Jimmy Legs" and his mates are traditions handed down from the very beginnings of the British navy. The first American warship carried its master-at-arms, to hold in check unruly spirits of the crew and devise adequate punishments for offenders. Even in the ward-room of huge battleships of today "Jimmy Legs" appears promptly at the prescribed hour for dousing lights at night and switches off the electric current.

For generations navy jokes have turned about the activities of the master-at-arms, and with the abolishment of the rating another of the links is broken that connect the steel-clad fighting machines of today with the ships of the line and the gallant frigates of the past.—Washington Star.

Controlling the Temper.

One cannot have good health unless he controls his temper. It is not only the great rages and violent bursts of anger that disturb normal functions, but also the habit of irritation and impatience.

There are some people who are entirely upset when the weather does not suit their plans, while there are others to whom scorched breakfast toast is a tragedy. The lack of poise that is manifested in constant fretting and fault finding has a very bad effect upon the health.

We are all familiar with the angry appearance of the human countenance—it shows in the eyes, the set jaws, the scowls, the flush or pallor of the face; the rigid body and clenched fists are additional signs of intense feeling. When one is very angry he feels the heart beating rapidly, his ears hum, and his muscles twitch; the knees feel weak, the mouth becomes parched, and he is nearly choked with wrath. Then comes the outburst.

It is easy to believe that such a condition of emotion profoundly affects the whole bodily economy, and this is precisely what happens.

The dry mouth, which is a symptom of great anxiety as well as of anger, is due to a sudden suppression of secretion of the saliva. In India, practical use was made of this fact in what was known as "the ordeal of rice." When several persons were suspected of crime, the consecrated rice was given them to chew and this after a time was expectorated upon the leaf of the sacred fig tree. If anyone ejected it dry, discovery was taken as proof that fear of discovery had stopped salivary secretion and the person was found guilty.—W. H. Riley, M. D., in "Good Health."

Penniless, Jenny is finally thrown into the street with her goods and chattels. In the meantime, Bob and Beth have speculated with what is left of their fortune and while downtown to pawn some of his sister's jewels, Bob finds Jenny and takes her to his home to have her make clothes for his sister. While there the love of the two young people grows and the difference in their stations is apparently unsurmountable. Bob's speculations go wrong and he is tempted to use money belonging to their old nurse. Jenny overhears their plan to use the money and pleads with Bob not to do this thing, for if the speculation goes wrong he will be a thief. Bob is deaf to her entreaties and puts the money in the safe.

Jenny sees her ideal tottering and induces Kelly to enter the house and open the safe for her. She then takes the money and hides it. The next morning the loss is discovered. Detectives find Jenny's fingerprints on the safe and she is arrested, but will not tell where the money is, preferring to go to jail rather than let Bob do anything dishonest. Bob realizes this and promises to go straight. Jenny steals away as Bob awaits the impending smash.

Bob and Beth are forced to live in a small Harlem flat and Beth marries her wealthy young lover from the smart set. Bob realizes that he had happiness in his hand and let it go and hunts up Jenny. He sees that class does not count and, in spite of Jenny's protests, takes her in his arms.

A Romance of Edgar Allan Poe

"The Call of the Cumberlands."

A beautiful, boundless story of the hills and snow-capped mountains will mark the next appearance of big, handsome "Dusty" Farnum. In a costume that suits his well known nickname, the big fellow comes; his massive frame sticks out through the ancient coat, a model of an ambitious though unsuccessful tailor's art, the few remaining buttons of which threaten to rend themselves from their fastenings at any moment, and his trousers have apparently not enjoyed a visit from a flatiron in many moons and reach well above the tops of monstrous rural shoes. About the only remaining identifications of the popular player are his broad Irish smile and profound bow. For the scenes of this production, the Pallas company, with Mr. Farnum, traveled to the famous Thousand Pines, called by California mountain climbers "the rim of the world." it is in the heart of the beautiful Bear Valley country, whose scenic charms, huge canyons and 2,000-feet precipices are known all over the world. No higher praise can be given to this story than that it is as big as its setting and its star.

Monday and Tuesday "A Price for Folly," Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature.

"A Price for Folly," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature par excellence, is a photo-drama with a French setting into which is introduced the familiar figure of the Paris youth of good family who spends his time and cash in the company of undeniable beauty and doubtful morals. The siren in the case is a celebrated dancer upon whom Jean de Segni, scion of a noble house, lavishes attention until his fortune vanishes. There is a stately father and affectionate mother, sadly wrought up over son's mode of life. The father knows the worst, but the mother is unaware of the vital details of Jean's folly.

When Jean hears of the loss of his money after his return from the theatre, where he has been applauding his ballet dancing flame, Mlle. Dorothea Jardeau, his father gravely admonishes him for the kind of life he has been leading. Jean does not mention his financial straits, but lies down and goes to sleep. At this point the story drifts into a dream of Jean's in which he sees the news of his misfortune displayed on the front page of the newspaper La Figaro.

Dorothea scornfully casts him off. His old father, knowing he has not many years to live, and fearing to leave his beloved wife to the care of such a wastrel as his son, embraces her as she awakens from an after dinner sleep and drives a dagger into her heart, following this up by stabbing himself. Jean comes home to find his mother dead and father barely conscious.

The police arrrive, but the duke detains sufficient vitality to be able to inform the officers that his son is innocent, and he the author of the deed. The duke dies and Jean, in his club a few weeks later overhears M. Langdon, his successful rival for Dorothea, remark that in spite of the duke's vindication of his son, it is more likely that Jean is guilty. Jean strikes Langdon, and they agree to meet on the field of honor. In the ensuing duel Langdon's bullet cuts short his rival's life, and the victor triumphantly returns to his liaison with Dorothea. Then Jean awakes from the unpleasant nightmare to find his father and mother bending over him. He is overcome by remorse for his sins and when Dorothea telephones him to join her at merry-making, he sees his parents' anxious face and informs the fair enchantress that he will not come.

Edith Storey as Dorothea is graceful at all times, and her peculiar smile, with something oddly sinister in it, reveals the nature of the demimonde queen better than words could do. Antonio Moreno is a very plausible Jean, his facial expressions of ardent passion, jealousy, anger and repentance being particularly impressive. Moreno could scarcely have had a better chance to display his talents on the screen, and he made the most of his advantage. Harry T. Morey as M. Langdon, plays the part of the cool, resourceful rival with artistic skill and address. Charles Kent gives an excellent rendition of the part of Jean's father. He is the beau ideal of a gallant, stately old Frenchmfan of noble blood, and the most affecting scenes are those in which he endeavors to conceal his agony of mind from his affectionate wife, invested with dignity and charm by Louise Beaudet.

George Baker, who produced "A Price for Folly" for the Vitagraph company, has good reason to congratulate himself upon the direction of this production. The photography is good and the sets of exceptional depth, are perfect. The interiors being clear, vivid and bold in outline.

Jean's awakening and reconciliation with his parents is a pretty piece of sentiment and brings about a satisfactory conclusion to a drama which will interest all admirers of the traditional French story with its accompanying tragedy and sensation.

WAR UPSETS DOG MARKET.

Germany Confiscates French Canines and May Enter the Field.

What is going to be the effect of the European war on thoroughbred dogs in the days to come when peace reigns?

So far England, America and France have stood out in the spotlight as the countries where the tiptop canines have been bred.

Germany has not been strong in that line of sport, which goes in for the development of dogs of high degree. After all the confusion is stopped on the other side and things settle down to a normal condition there is a possibility that Germany may be heard from, and what is the answer?

It is simply this: The Teutons have invaded Northern France, where the breeding of good dogs has been a pastime for a great many years. In many respects the part of France that has been devastated by the invading hordes has been the center of breeding and the Germans have taken their pick of the kennels and have sent them back to Germany to be bred.

This will mean a big setback for France, but it surely will help the Germans to come to the front in the shows of the future when relations are once more cemented.—New York Herald.

CRYSTAL.

Monday and Tuesday "A Price for Folly," Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature.

"A Price for Folly," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature par excellence, is a photo-drama with a French setting into which is introduced the familiar figure of the Paris youth of good family who spends his time and cash in the company of undeniable beauty and doubtful morals. The siren in the case is a celebrated dancer upon whom Jean de Segni, scion of a noble house, lavishes attention until his fortune vanishes. There is a stately father and affectionate mother, sadly wrought up over son's mode of life. The father knows the worst, but the mother is unaware of the vital details of Jean's folly.

When Jean hears of the loss of his money after his return from the theatre, where he has been applauding his ballet dancing flame, Mlle. Dorothea Jardeau, his father gravely admonishes him for the kind of life he has been leading. Jean does not mention his financial straits, but lies down and goes to sleep. At this point the story drifts into a dream of Jean's in which he sees the news of his misfortune displayed on the front page of the newspaper La Figaro.

Dorothea scornfully casts him off. His old father, knowing he has not many years to live, and fearing to leave his beloved wife to the care of such a wastrel as his son, embraces her as she awakens from an after dinner sleep and drives a dagger into her heart, following this up by stabbing himself. Jean comes home to find his mother dead and father barely conscious.

The police arrrive, but the duke detains sufficient vitality to be able to inform the officers that his son is innocent, and he the author of the deed. The duke dies and Jean, in his club a few weeks later overhears M. Langdon, his successful rival for Dorothea, remark that in spite of the duke's vindication of his son, it is more likely that Jean is guilty. Jean strikes Langdon, and they agree to meet on the field of honor. In the ensuing duel Langdon's bullet cuts short his rival's life, and the victor triumphantly returns to his liaison with Dorothea. Then Jean awakes from the unpleasant nightmare to find his father and mother bending over him. He is overcome by remorse for his sins and when Dorothea telephones him to join her at merry-making, he sees his parents' anxious face and informs the fair enchantress that he will not come.

Edith Storey as Dorothea is graceful at all times, and her peculiar smile, with something oddly sinister in it, reveals the nature of the demimonde queen better than words could do. Antonio Moreno is a very plausible Jean, his facial expressions of ardent passion, jealousy, anger and repentance being particularly impressive. Moreno could scarcely have had a better chance to display his talents on the screen, and he made the most of his advantage. Harry T. Morey as M. Langdon, plays the part of the cool, resourceful rival with artistic skill and address. Charles Kent gives an excellent rendition of the part of Jean's father. He is the beau ideal of a gallant, stately old Frenchman of noble blood, and the most affecting scenes are those in which he endeavors to conceal his agony of mind from his affectionate wife, invested with dignity and charm by Louise Beaudet.

George Baker, who produced "A Price for Folly" for the Vitagraph company, has good reason to congratulate himself upon the direction of this production. The photography is good and the sets of exceptional depth, are perfect. The interiors being clear, vivid and bold in outline.

Jean's awakening and reconciliation with his parents is a pretty piece of sentiment and brings about a satisfactory conclusion to a drama which will interest all admirers of the traditional French story with its accompanying tragedy and sensation.

WAR UPSETS DOG MARKET.

Germany Confiscates French Canines and May Enter the Field.

What is going to be the effect of the European war on thoroughbred dogs in the days to come when peace reigns?

So far England, America and France have stood out in the spotlight as the countries where the tiptop canines have been bred.

Germany has not been strong in that line of sport, which goes in for the development of dogs of high degree. After all the confusion is stopped on the other side and things settle down to a normal condition there is a possibility that Germany may be heard from, and what is the answer?

It is simply this: The Teutons have invaded Northern France, where the breeding of good dogs has been a pastime for a great many years. In many respects the part of France that has been devastated by the invading horde has been the center of breeding and the Germans have taken their pick of the kennels and have sent them back to Germany to be bred.

This will mean a big setback for France, but it surely will help the Germans to come to the front in the shows of the future when relations are once more cemented.—New York Herald.

How to Make Waco A City Beautiful

An Interesting Civic Program Proposed, Embodying a Definite City Plan :- :-

At the meeting of the Rotary club last Monday night seven members of the club told what they would do in Waco if they were czar of the city. Edgar E. Witt, attorney of the club and flotorial representative, told what he would do for the beauty and civic improvement of the city and his address was easily one of the most interesting heard on that occasion. Because of the awakened interest in civic improvement in the city and in the hope that the address will be provocative of still greater effort along that line, it is given here in full:

Mr. Toastmaster, Guests and Members of the Rotary Club of Waco:

The first duty of any czar is to attain to some sort of comprehension of the inner spirit of his people. While ruling by divine right, he knows, if he is a wise czar, that the real source of his strength is derived from the people over whom he exercises sovereignty.

It has been said that it is a wise son that knows his own father, and I say unto you that it is a wise czar who knows his own people. I confess that since the folds of imperial purple fell upon my shoulders, I have been gifted with superhuman wisdom, with a sort of second sight that has allowed me immediately to apprehend the great ambitions, dreams and desires of the people who own my sway.

And I shall now tell you not what imaginings of a splendid Waco haunt the barren chambers of my individual soul, but having had the scales removed from my eyes by the imposition of sovereignty at your hands, I am going to look into the community-soul itself and translate my vision for your ears and understanding.

In the depths of this great community heart I see ideals of beauty gathered largely from nature.

Abhorrence of Straight Lines.

One noticeable antipathy I find is the abhorrence of the straight line and the checker-board plan adopted by Waco in its early days. My knowledge of the history of my people enables me to comprehend this. It is due to absence of the straight line in nature. Roaming free over the face of three continents, and sailing adventurously the seven seas, at one with nature and nature's God, for generation after generation, we have come to love the wonderful inconsequence and spontaneity of the physical universe which is merely the radiant vesture of the Divine Spirit. Search nature for so rigid, so odious, so ugly a thing as a straight line, and you shall search in vain. The brook winds into the river, the river wanders into the sea, whose shore line meanders this way and that, and hills follow the valleys and over all domes the blue sky. Dear to the community-heart into which I am looking is the sub-conscious race memory of undulating plain, swaying forest, winding river and sea-shore, billowing cloud and rugged mountain range all beautiful in their grace of line and curve. Is it too fanciful to suppose that the beautiful symbolism of the Rotary wheel met such a hearty, immediate and universal response somewhat because it is the complete antithesis to the straight line?

Nature's Kindness to Waco.

How likely when I look deep into the community-heart that I shall find an abhorrence of the straight and narrow paths called streets and alleys? Shall I not find the remembrance of this very spot now covered by the city of Waco one of natural entrancing beauty before it was made captive by the first restless pale face? Protecting hills are piled as if nature has said: "Here is something very precious, very beautiful—let us shield and fortify it." The majestic Brazos sweeps around in graceful and dignified curves abscured now by stately crag and precipice, then by gigantic willows bending low as if obscuring some strange Druid rite. Scattered over the table-like bottom are stationed tremendous pecan trees, through which the winds of summer make continuous murmur; and sturdy ers an occasional oak which even the bitter northers sweeping across the plains in winter cannot strip of his perennial verdure. It is a paradise for squirrels and other small woodland creatures; it is a haven for song-birds from June to June. In early spring I hear the piercing love-notes of the mocker, and many plaintive warblers awaken among the trees. The antlered buck lifts his head from drinking in the pure waters of the beautiful Bosque and feels within him the vague thrill of the beauty of the scene that has slept since the spring before. The Bosque, shadier and bluer than now, Barron's branch, Waco creek, had all been flowing at that time for centuries, making themselves comfortable beds, winding, fern-trimmed, violet-scented and mossy. How magical this scene must then have been by moonlight; how mysterious and elfin with only the stars in Heaven to witness; how gorgeous when the slanting rays of the morning sun plunged all in a golden bath of light!

Love of the Red Man for the Place.

The wise old red man disturbed little of this natural loveliness. He loved the place. He believed that the Great Spirit had set it apart, protected it from storms, dowered it with wondrous charm and maintained it for the especial use and behoof of the tribe of Waco. To mess it up, to cut ruthlessly across its entrancing vistas with rigid, wretched, straight and narrow streets, to slay the old trees, to dab down grotesque chunks of masonry here and there, to pollute the streams with human filth, to rout the sweet clamor of birds and the music of natural sounds with grinding street cars, shrieking whistles, raucus horns and other useless noises of industry—to perpetuate any of these atrocities would have been an impossible conception to the simple red man, and, had he been able to consider such a thing in the range of possibility, he would have considered it sacrilege, punishable, perhaps, by some fierce consuming plague.

Nothing is hidden from the second-sight of your czar. I see the remembrance of a terrible crime. It is the crime of outrage, of the ravishment of beauty, of the rape of the maiden natural loveliness of this very area we love so much (in spite of its present disfigurement)—this space upon which the city of Waco is now located. With what Procrustean cruelty were straight and narrow mechanical streets thrust athwart those ancient soft and harmonious winding lines and natural pathways!

Efforts to Restore Original Beauty.

But I begin to see signs of deep contrition and repentance, and physical evidences of regeneration. Is not Cameron park at least a partial restoration of the Proctor Springs of old? Has not Riverside Drive been started furnishing something of grace to offset the terrible cancerous growth on Second street? Are not parks beginning to blossom along Waco creek and elsewhere, wherein re-echo the gladsome shouts of children at play, and the joyous songs of birds returning from years of banishment? I know that this community is repentant. The ancient Dream of Beauty is re-asserting her sway in the community-soul. I see a community resolute for the city beautiful. To realize this dream of beauty will entail a world of study, a lifetime of endeavor on the part of the more public-spirited of my subjects. To please her, artists must throw their frail lives away like chaff before the wind. To meet her demands, students must delve and ponder, for they involve such prosaic things as "a thorough and systematic study of the physical conditions of the city, of property values, of distribution of business, industrial and residential areas, of the health of the people, of media and facilities of circulation, of the volume and directions of the currents of traffic.. A corps of housing and sanitation experts will have to be employed, engineers, landscape artists and so on. The dtails of the plan will be infinite and will not be completely worked out for generations. Louis XIV, you remember, a brother czar of mine, a few centuries ago had an insight into the heart of France. He saw there a dream of a beautiful Paris, much as I now dream of a beautiful Waco. He made a start; the work was carried on by the great Napoleon and by Napoleon III. In the reign of the last, Baron Haussman reconstructed the center of the city by cutting new streets through congested quarters and opening a series of great boulevards which encircle the older sections. These projects cost $260,000,000, and their completion will cost $200,000,000 more, but the money so invested, besides being an inspiration to the world, was until the opening of the present war yielding substantial dividends, attracting thousands of tourists to France every year. So powerful was the impression made by the partial realization of this dream that France made a law, so I understand, compelling every city of above ten thousand inhabitants to have an approved "city plan" for the sensible direction of its development.

What Other Cities Are Doing.

I must for a moment leave my beauty dream to give some practical ideas—to suggest how other cities that have awakened and have seen visions are bringing these visions to pass. All wide-awake, progressive communities have begun to repent of their earlier forgetfulness of nature in their mad rush for "business," and are beginning to restore their natural beauty spots and create such spots where they had none before. And as was experienced by Paris—not only has beauty paid alone for beauty's sake, but it has paid in dividends of dollars.

In volume 22 of the World's Work is a series of articles by Henry Oyen entitled "The Awakening of the Cities," in which Mr. Oyen reports his investigations in eighteen or twenty of the foremost cities of the United States which have interested themselves in their greater beauty and civic improvement. Among the cities reported upon are Rochester, Boston, Kansas City, Memphis, Des Moines, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and others. I most heartily recommend these articles to those interested.

The result of this thorough investigation showed that nothing paid more in money dividends than a beautiful city, and that all lines of educative and humanitarium effort received an impetus that no other activity could give. Without a beautiful city education, religious activity and all other lines of human endeavor for the betterment of humanity and the conditions under which we live, are handicapped and cannot accomplish what they otherwise could.

A "City Plan" is Helpful.

Another result of this investigation was to show that the only satisfactory and business-like way to really beautify a city was through a "city plan." This means a definite plan made effective through city ordinance and enforced by civic improvement officers laying out the city and planning for its growth and development with a view to the harmony of the whole. A city plan takes into consideration the water courses and their value, present and future, as beauty spots, the harmonizing of the buildings, private and public, with the topography and the general tendency of the growth of the city and its promise of population. How often does it happen that the locations of our public buildings and parks are determined by either selfish, business or political considerations and influences regardless of the tendency of growth, suitableness and locations, etc? Waco, in entering upon its awakened progressive civic improvement era should not fail to adopt the city plan method without risking longer the hap-hazard plan of the past.

In Rochester they said to Mr. Oyen: "We used to think only about how to do more business, how to get more industries, how to make more money. Now we're thinking of how to make our city better to live in for everybody. And it's the best business move we've made." In Des Moines, Ia., the river flowed through the heart of the city—the situation there being more comparable to that of Waco than any city I have found—the people went out of their way to avoid the filth and dirt of the stream. It was called the city's sore spot. Across the river now stretches one of the wonderfully beautiful bridges of this country—wonderful for its own beauty and the beauty of its parking and surroundings. Around the bridge as its central figure has been constructed a civic center consisting of a group of public buildings, including public library, postoffice and city hall, and retaining walls of concrete hold the former crumbling river banks and a parkway stretches along both banks through the entire business section of the city.

Grand Rapids had a river from which was a dumping ground and no park spots to speak of until six years ago, when there was an awakening and since then bond issue after bond issue has been voted to park and beautify without limit, and its citizens say the employes in their furniture factories can now turn out one-third more work in the same length of time—aside from being its reward, beauty pays in dividends.

What Kansas City Has Done.

We all know what Kansas City has done in the last few years to make itself one of the most talked of cities in the United States, by reason of its beautiful boulevard and park system. A Kansas City banker is reported to have said: "Our park and boulevard system rejuvenated the city. It was like a breath of fresh air sweeping away the germs of stagnation, and starting the city away on a new plane of thought and endeavor." Its boulevard and park system, costing $10,000,000, were paid for by a system of taxes, but I understand that for the beautifying of its river front a fund amounting to over $1,500,000 was secured by private contribution and is being expended by a citizens' committee. Although the cost of the parks and boulevards was enormous, abutting properties enhanced from 100 to 400 per cent—beauty was not its only reward.

I could continue with inumerable illustrations all to the effect that it pays to beautify—pays in health, wealth and improved citizenship. And that it can be done intelligently only under a definite plan. Of course, any comprehensive plan calculated to effectively make for the present and the future hygienic, aesthetic and commercial needs of a real city will be called "visionary," and a "dream." But we must remember that most progressive planning is first called dreaming. Have pessimists ever accomplished anything? "Is there any big, live business, philanthropic or charitable institution today which has not a plan for future growth and expansion? Why not, then, plan for the growth of the city, the biggest organization of all"? Or will you let it grow haphazard, ill-planned and disjointed—save as land owners and speculators, individuals or political considerations, determine, regardless of the harmony, beauty or permanent good of the whole? City planning and beautification is primarily for the less fortunate of the community—the rich can get beauty and comfort and health away from home, if necessary. What more laudable undertaking than to build for ourselves, all of us, and for all those who will come and stay temporarily or permanently, a clean beautiful town, satisfying our moral, physical and intellectual demands.

What is Possible in Waco.

Referring more particularly to our Waco, nature has richly endowed us with forest and stream, mountain and prairie, and to make our city the most healthful and beautiful of all Texas, this dream of beauty with whom I have communed is demanding several things.

Of course, overhead wires with their unsightly and dangerous poles, surface cars, noise, dust, filth and glaring sign-boards, must go. Our store fronts and awnings must be made uniform and harmonious in color and architecture. A great many of our streets must be widened and our residences must be of uniform distance from the sidewalk lines. Every property owner must be made to set out trees and grow them or the same will be grown for him and the cost taxed up against his property. All rubbish must be removed and destroyed and all premises freed of weeds and unsightly buildings.

In place of the present city square—the city hall and all buildings on the north side of the square being removed—a half circle park spot will sweep to the river and stretching across the river a beautiful bridge will unite a similar park on the east side with the one on this. From these parks in both directions along the river banks drives will continue to the Bosque hills on the north and lock and dam to the south. Occasional half-circle parks overlooking boat-houses at the water's edge will provide quiet resting spots along the river's terraced and grassy banks, and concrete retaining walls will firmly hold the crumbling banks and prevent all overflows. Leading out of the Riverside Drive near the city limits to the south a broad boulevard will sweep toward the prairies, and doubling back will encircle the city, skirting and here and there topping the rolling hills to the west, passing through Fort Waco Hill and finally losing itself in the picturesque cedar-brakes of the Bosque. This boulevard will exceed in dignity and superb views the world-renowned Ringstrasse of Vienne, said to now be the most commanding street in the world.

Introduce Small Park and Plaza.

From the city hall spot at the river's bridge, thoroughfares will radiate through the business district of the city to a spacious circular boulevard that will bound the business district. From this boulevard other streets radiate in harmony with the topography and to emphasize the charming natural contours of the land. No such artistic crime as a street mounting straight up a hillside will be tolerated. Instead of rigid residential blocks, variations on the court, the small park and the plaza will be introduced. Corners, where corners are necessary, will be disguised with infinite artifices of adornment. A board of architects will see to it before approving any building permit that the style of building, its architecture and painting are suitable and in harmony with the surroundings. There will be one winding street in the city (it might follow the meanderings of Waco creek, when concrete retaining walls restrain this creek's burbulent waters, and its banks are made into grassy parks and playgrounds), like Regent street in London or High street in Oxford, that will open a new vista at every step. Fountains of simple and chaste design, classic statuary in bronze and marble, and noble public baths, will dignify the prospect and give lofty ideal, while playgrounds with children at play, grassy plots and flowered triangles will surprise and delight the observant wayfarer.

In all this development, however, there will be no slavish imitation of European or other models; rather, it will be the grand flowering of the original artistic instinct of a race that has wandered not forty years but forty centuries in a wilderness of beauty, that has absorbed its ideals from the work of the great Master Artist, until it saw through nature and on up to nature's God.

And now, though the time of my abdication has arrived, the dream of beauty I have interviewed shall endure, I hope, for truly she resides permanently in the heart of the people of this city, and she is now awake and will find many truer, more eloquent and powerful interpreters than I.

BI-CENTENNIAL PLANS FORMALLY LAUNCHED

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION FOR 1918 FAIR IN SAN ANTONIO TO BE EFFECTED SOON.

Governor Ferguson Declares All Texas Is Behind Movement to Advertise Entire State.

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, Jan. 22.—Texas' Bi-Centennial Exposition in San Antonio in 1918, and the word Texas is used advisedly, is now fairly launched. At a mass meeting here last Monday night the project was enthusiastically received at a mass meeting of citizens at which Governor Ferguson was the principal speaker. It only remains now for the permanent organization to be effected and this will be done at the conference to be held January 25, 26 and 27.

Governor Ferguson sounded the keynote in his address Monday when he said: "This is going to be the biggest exposition of this quarter of a century. Don't get excited or alarmed just because somebody happens to get killed in Mexico and think that therefrom you can't have a Pan-American exposition. When the exposition is opened in San Antonio there will be peace in Mexico."

Continuing the governor showed how this exposition would be to the interests of the entire state in these words: "The advertising of this exposition will produce more immigration to this country than anything ever attempted in twenty years. Texas needs an exposition. It is a business proposition. San Antonio will profit by being called directly to the attention of the world. This is a source of pride and satisfaction but not only is this a fact but the rest of the state is with you in this movement, for while San Antonio may reap immediate benefits all of Texas will profit exceedingly by such an exposition as you propose to have here."

Texas Back of Exposition.

Concluding his address the governor said: "I have come to learn what you expect of me and as soon as I find out I am going back to Austin and proceed with all possible dispatch to do what is required. All Texas is back of this exposition, I am back of you, the state legislature is back of you, and with you back of it, this 1918 exposition will be the greatest and best celebration ever held on the Gulf of Mexico."

Other speakers indorsed the project and the meeting ended with a resolution which was enthusiastically carried that such a Bi-Centennial Exposition be held in 1918. This resolution will be presented to the January 25, 26 and 27 conference, when the final plans for the exposition will be considered and permanent organization effected.

At this meeting starting Tuesday will be representatives from St. Louis, Kansas City, Washington, New York, Baltimore and other large centers, besides representatives of the various departments of the government at Washington, of the state of Texas, and delegates from every city and town in Texas. It will undoubtedly be the largest meeting ever held in Texas endorsing a project on which the entire state will act as a unit. The three day conference will see officers elected, committees appointed, a plan for financing the exposition promulgated, finance committees arranged for, a site selected, in fact a permanent plan of future action determined on. Two years is ample to build and finance such a nexposition as proposed in 1918, and it is not any too much time and it is the purpose to get started at once.

The lowest round trip rates from every point in Texas have been allowed for this conference, which guarantees the largest meeting San Antonio has ever entertained.

Resolutions Adopted.

The resolution adopted at the meeting last Monday and to be brought befor the conference of this week is this:

"Whereas, the city of San Antonio will celebrate her 200th anniversary in the year A. D. 1918; and,

"Whereas, it is peculiarly appropriate that this occasion be made nation-wide and that we do honor to the pioneers that laid the foundation for the civilization that resulted in adding one-fifth of the domain of the United States; and,

"Whereas, it is proper that such celebration should take the scope of an exposition Pan-American in character, in which the resources of both North and South America should be displayed; and,

"Whereas, it is fitting that the citizenship of San Antonio having utmost pride in this great city and its future should declare its position upon this matter.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that this exposition be not confined to San Antonio but that the entire state of Texas be invited to join, and that all the great industrial centers of the United States be asked to co-operate with us in order to make fitting display of the resources of this country upon the said occasion.

"Be it further resolved, that we extent a vote of thanks to our representatives at Washington for the work already done and soliciting their hearty co-operation for the future.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that a copy of this resolution be presented to the meeting called for this city on January 25, 26 and 27, and that the committee of one hundred be requested to prepare a resolution favoring the permanent organization of the San Antonio Bi-Centennial Exposition."

It is a paradise for squirrels and other small woodland creatures; it is a haven for song-birds from June to June. In early spring I hear the piercing love-notes of the mocker, and many plaintive warblers awaken among the trees. The antlered buck lifts his head from drinking in the pure waters of the beautiful Bosque and feels within him the vague thrill of the beauty of the scene that has slept since the spring before. The Bosque, shadier and bluer than now, Barron's branch, Waco creek, had all been flowing at that time for centuries, making themselves comfortable beds, winding, fern-trimmed, violet-scented and mossy. How magical this scene must then have been by moonlight; how mysterious and elfin with only the stars in Heaven to witness; how gorgeous when the slanting rays of the morning sun plunged all in a golden bath of light!

Love of the Red Man for the Place.

The wise old red man disturbed little of this natural loveliness. He loved the place. He believed that the Great Spirit had set it apart, protected it from storms, dowered it with wondrous charm and maintained it for the especial use and behoof of the tribe of Waco. To mess it up, to cut ruthlessly across its entrancing vistas with rigid, wretched, straight and narrow streets, to slay the old trees, to dab down grotesque chunks of masonry here and there, to pollute the streams with human filth, to rout the sweet clamor of birds and the music of natural sounds with grinding street cars, shrieking whistles, raucus horns and other useless noises of industry—to perpetuate any of these atrocities would have been an impossible conception to the simple red man, and, had he been able to consider such a thing in the range of possibility, he would have considered it sacrilege, punishable, perhaps, by some fierce consuming plague.

Nothing is hidden from the second-sight of your czar. I see the remembrance of a terrible crime. It is the crime of outrage, of the ravishment of beauty, of the rape of the maiden natural loveliness of this very area we love so much (in spite of its present disfigurement)—this space upon which the city of Waco is now located. With what Procrustean cruelty were straight and narrow mechanical streets thrust athwart those ancient soft and harmonious winding lines and natural pathways!

Efforts to Restore Original Beauty.

But I begin to see signs of deep contrition and repentance, and physical evidences of regeneration. Is not Cameron park at least a partial restoration of the Proctor Springs of old? Has not Riverside Drive been started furnishing something of grace to offset the terrible cancerous growth on Second street? Are not parks beginning to blossom along Waco creek and elsewhere, wherein re-echo the gladsome shouts of children at play, and the joyous songs of birds returning from years of banishment? I know that this community is repentant. The ancient Dream of Beauty is re-asserting her sway in the community-soul. I see a community resolute for the city beautiful. To realize this dream of beauty will entail a world of study, a lifetime of endeavor on the part of the more public-spirited of my subjects. To please her, artists must throw their frail lives away like chaff before the wind. To meet her demands, students must delve and ponder, for they involve such prosaic things as "a thorough and systematic study of the physical conditions of the city, of property values, of distribution of business, industrial and residential areas, of the health of the people, of media and facilities of circulation, of the volume and directions of the currents of traffic.. A corps of housing and sanitation experts will have to be employed, engineers, landscape artists and so on. The dtails of the plan will be infinite and will not be completely worked out for generations. Louis XIV, you remember, a brother czar of mine, a few centuries ago had an insight into the heart of France. He saw there a dream of a beautiful Paris, much as I now dream of a beautiful Waco. He made a start; the work was carried on by the great Napoleon and by Napoleon III. In the reign of the last, Baron Haussman reconstructed the center of the city by cutting new streets through congested quarters and opening a series of great boulevards which encircle the older sections. These projects cost $260,000,000, and their completion will cost $200,000,000 more, but the money so invested, besides being an inspiration to the world, was until the opening of the present war yielding substantial dividends, attracting thousands of tourists to France every year. So powerful was the impression made by the partial realization of this dream that France made a law, so I understand, compelling every city of above ten thousand inhabitants to have an approved "city plan" for the sensible direction of its development.

What Other Cities Are Doing.

I must for a moment leave my beauty dream to give some practical ideas—to suggest how other cities that have awakened and have seen visions are bringing these visions to pass. All wide-awake, progressive communities have begun to repent of their earlier forgetfulness of nature in their mad rush for "business," and are beginning to restore their natural beauty spots and create such spots where they had none before. And as was experienced by Paris—not only has beauty paid alone for beauty's sake, but it has paid in dividends of dollars.

In volume 22 of the World's Work is a series of articles by Henry Oyen entitled "The Awakening of the Cities," in which Mr. Oyen reports his investigations in eighteen or twenty of the foremost cities of the United States which have interested themselves in their greater beauty and civic improvement. Among the cities reported upon are Rochester, Boston, Kansas City, Memphis, Des Moines, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and others. I most heartily recommend these articles to those interested.

The result of this thorough investigation showed that nothing paid more in money dividends than a beautiful city, and that all lines of educative and humanitarium effort received an impetus that no other activity could give. Without a beautiful city education, religious activity and all other lines of human endeavor for the betterment of humanity and the conditions under which we live, are handicapped and cannot accomplish what they otherwise could.

A "City Plan" is Helpful.

Another result of this investigation was to show that the only satisfactory and business-like way to really beautify a city was through a "city plan." This means a definite plan made effective through city ordinance and enforced by civic improvement officers laying out the city and planning for its growth and development with a view to the harmony of the whole. A city plan takes into consideration the water courses and their value, present and future, as beauty spots, the harmonizing of the buildings, private and public, with the topography and the general tendency of the growth of the city and its promise of population. How often does it happen that the locations of our public buildings and parks are determined by either selfish, business or political considerations and influences regardless of the tendency of growth, suitableness and locations, etc? Waco, in entering upon its awakened progressive civic improvement era should not fail to adopt the city plan method without risking longer the hap-hazard plan of the past.

In Rochester they said to Mr. Oyen: "We used to think only about how to do more business, how to get more industries, how to make more money. Now we're thinking of how to make our city better to live in for everybody. And it's the best business move we've made." In Des Moines, Ia., the river flowed through the heart of the city—the situation there being more comparable to that of Waco than any city I have found—the people went out of their way to avoid the filth and dirt of the stream. It was called the city's sore spot. Across the river now stretches one of the wonderfully beautiful bridges of this country—wonderful for its own beauty and the beauty of its parking and surroundings. Around the bridge as its central figure has been constructed a civic center consisting of a group of public buildings, including public library, postoffice and city hall, and retaining walls of concrete hold the former crumbling river banks and a parkway stretches along both banks through the entire business section of the city.

Grand Rapids had a river from which was a dumping ground and no park spots to speak of until six years ago, when there was an awakening and since then bond issue after bond issue has been voted to park and beautify without limit, and its citizens say the employes in their furniture factories can now turn out one-third more work in the same length of time—aside from being its reward, beauty pays in dividends.

What Kansas City Has Done.

We all know what Kansas City has done in the last few years to make itself one of the most talked of cities in the United States, by reason of its beautiful boulevard and park system. A Kansas City banker is reported to have said: "Our park and boulevard system rejuvenated the city. It was like a breath of fresh air sweeping away the germs of stagnation, and starting the city away on a new plane of thought and endeavor." Its boulevard and park system, costing $10,000,000, were paid for by a system of taxes, but I understand that for the beautifying of its river front a fund amounting to over $1,500,000 was secured by private contribution and is being expended by a citizens' committee. Although the cost of the parks and boulevards was enormous, abutting properties enhanced from 100 to 400 per cent—beauty was not its only reward.

I could continue with inumerable illustrations all to the effect that it pays to beautify—pays in health, wealth and improved citizenship. And that it can be done intelligently only under a definite plan. Of course, any comprehensive plan calculated to effectively make for the present and the future hygienic, aesthetic and commercial needs of a real city will be called "visionary," and a "dream." But we must remember that most progressive planning is first called dreaming. Have pessimists ever accomplished anything? "Is there any big, live business, philanthropic or charitable institution today which has not a plan for future growth and expansion? Why not, then, plan for the growth of the city, the biggest organization of all"? Or will you let it grow haphazard, ill-planned and disjointed—save as land owners and speculators, individuals or political considerations, determine, regardless of the harmony, beauty or permanent good of the whole? City planning and beautification is primarily for the less fortunate of the community—the rich can get beauty and comfort and health away from home, if necessary. What more laudable undertaking than to build for ourselves, all of us, and for all those who will come and stay temporarily or permanently, a clean beautiful town, satisfying our moral, physical and intellectual demands.

What is Possible in Waco.

Referring more particularly to our Waco, nature has richly endowed us with forest and stream, mountain and prairie, and to make our city the most healthful and beautiful of all Texas, this dream of beauty with whom I have communed is demanding several things.

Of course, overhead wires with their unsightly and dangerous poles, surface cars, noise, dust, filth and glaring sign-boards, must go. Our store fronts and awnings must be made uniform and harmonious in color and architecture. A great many of our streets must be widened and our residences must be of uniform distance from the sidewalk lines. Every property owner must be made to set out trees and grow them or the same will be grown for him and the cost taxed up against his property. All rubbish must be removed and destroyed and all premises freed of weeds and unsightly buildings.

In place of the present city square—the city hall and all buildings on the north side of the square being removed—a half circle park spot will sweep to the river and stretching across the river a beautiful bridge will unite a similar park on the east side with the one on this. From these parks in both directions along the river banks drives will continue to the Bosque hills on the north and lock and dam to the south. Occasional half-circle parks overlooking boathouses at the water's edge will provide quiet resting spots along the river's terraced and grassy banks, and concrete retaining walls will firmly hold the crumbling banks and prevent all overflows. Leading out of the Riverside Drive near the city limits to the south a broad boulevard will sweep toward the prairies, and doubling back will encircle the city, skirting and here and there topping the rolling hills to the west, passing through Fort Waco Hill and finally losing itself in the picturesque cedar-brakes of the Bosque. This boulevard will exceed in dignity and superb views the world-renowned Ringstrasse of Vienne, said to now be the most commanding street in the world.

Introduce Small Park and Plaza.

From the city hall spot at the river's bridge, thoroughfares will radiate through the business district of the city to a spacious circular boulevard that will bound the business district. From this boulevard other streets radiate in harmony with the topography and to emphasize the charming natural contours of the land. No such artistic crime as a street mounting straight up a hillside will be tolerated. Instead of rigid residential blocks, variations on the court, the small park and the plaza will be introduced. Corners, where corners are necessary, will be disguised with infinite artifices of adornment. A board of architects will see to it before approving any building permit that the style of building, its architecture and painting are suitable and in harmony with the surroundings. There will be one winding street in the city (it might follow the meanderings of Waco creek, when concrete retaining walls restrain this creek's burbulent waters, and its banks are made into grassy parks and playgrounds), like Regent street in London or High street in Oxford, that will open a new vista at every step. Fountains of simple and chaste design, classic statuary in bronze and marble, and noble public baths, will dignify the prospect and give lofty ideal, while playgrounds with children at play, grassy plots and flowered triangles will surprise and delight the observant wayfarer.

In all this development, however, there will be no slavish imitation of European or other models; rather, it will be the grand flowering of the original artistic instinct of a race that has wandered not forty years but forty centuries in a wildernes of beauty, that has absorbed its ideals from the work of the great Master Artist, until it saw through nature and on up to nature's God.

And now, though the time of my abdication has arrived, the dream of beauty I have interviewed shall endure, I hope, for truly she resides permanently in the heart of the people of this city, and she is now awake and will find many truer, more eloquent and powerful interpreters than I.

BI-CENTENNIAL PLANS FORMALLY LAUNCHED

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, Jan. 22.—Texas' Bi-Centennial Exposition in San Antonio in 1918, and the word Texas is used advisedly, is now fairly launched. At a mass meeting here last Monday night the project was enthusiastically received at a mass meeting of citizens at which Governor Ferguson was the principal speaker. It only remains now for the permanent organization to be effected and this will be done at the conference to be held January 25, 26 and 27.

Governor Ferguson sounded the keynote in his address Monday when he said: "This is going to be the biggest exposition of this quarter of a century. Don't get excited or alarmed just because somebody happens to get killed in Mexico and think that therefrom you can't have a Pan-American exposition. When the exposition is opened in San Antonio there will be peace in Mexico."

Continuing the governor showed how this exposition would be to the interests of the entire state in these words: "The advertising of this exposition will produce more immigration to this country than anything ever attempted in twenty years. Texas needs an exposition. It is a business proposition. San Antonio will profit by being called directly to the attention of the world. This is a source of pride and satisfaction but not only is this a fact but the rest of the state is with you in this movement, for while San Antonio may reap immediate benefits all of Texas will profit exceedingly by such an exposition as you propose to have here."

Texas Back of Exposition.

Concluding his address the governor said: "I have come to learn what you expect of me and as soon as I find out I am going back to Austin and proceed with all possible dispatch to do what is required. All Texas is back of this exposition, I am back of you, the state legislature is back of you, and with you back of it, this 1918 exposition will be the greatest and best celebration ever held on the Gulf of Mexico."

Other speakers indorsed the project and the meeting ended with a resolution which was enthusiastically carried that such a Bi-Centennial Exposition be held in 1918. This resolution will be presented to the January 25, 26 and 27 conference, when the final plans for the exposition will be considered and permanent organization effected.

At this meeting starting Tuesday will be representatives from St. Louis, Kansas City, Washington, New York, Baltimore and other large centers, besides representatives of the various departments of the government at Washington, of the state of Texas, and delegates from every city and town in Texas. It will undoubtedly be the largest meeting ever held in Texas endorsing a project on which the entire state will act as a unit. The three day conference will see officers elected, committees appointed, a plan for financing the exposition promulgated, finance committees arranged for, a site selected, in fact a permanent plan of future action determined on. Two years is ample to build and finance such a nexposition as proposed in 1918, and it is not any too much time and it is the purpose to get started at once.

The lowest round trip rates from every point in Texas have been allowed for this conference, which guarantees the largest meeting San Antonio has ever entertained.

Resolutions Adopted.

The resolution adopted at the meeting last Monday and to be brought befor the conference of this week is this:

"Whereas, the city of San Antonio will celebrate her 200th anniversary in the year A. D. 1918; and,

"Whereas, it is peculiarly appropriate that this occasion be made nationwide and that we do honor to the pioneers that laid the foundation for the civilization that resulted in adding one-fifth of the domain of the United States; and,

"Whereas, it is proper that such celebration should take the scope of an exposition Pan-American in character, in which the resources of both North and South America should be displayed; and,

"Whereas, it is fitting that the citizenship of San Antonio having utmost pride in this great city and its future should declare its position upon this matter.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that this exposition be not confined to San Antonio but that the entire state of Texas be invited to join, and that all the great industrial centers of the United States be asked to co-operate with us in order to make fitting display of the resources of this country upon the said occasion.

"Be it further resolved, that we extent a vote of thanks to our representatives at Washington for the work already done and soliciting their hearty co-operation for the future.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that a copy of this resolution be presented to the meeting called for this city on January 25, 26 and 27, and that the committee of one hundred be requested to prepare a resolution favoring the permanent organization of the San Antonio Bi-Centennial Exposition."

MOVIES WILL SHOW "TEXAS OF TODAY"

TO FEATURE COTTON INDUSTRY

Scenes Will Be Photographed From 150 Counties to Prove State Not Wild and Wooly.

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 22.—One of the largest educational campaigns ever attempted, which is calculated to disabuse the erroneous impression prevalent in the North and East regarding the people of Texas as being "wild and woolly" is to be launched in the state soon.

Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture; C. Klaerner, state librarian, and Sinclair Moreland, archivist, besides other state officials, will co-operate with 150 counties of Texas, and the Paragon Feature Film company of Omaha, Neb., and New York, N. Y., in filming 50,000 feet of "Texas as It Is Today." This film, which will consist of 800,000 pictures taken of Texas scenes, will be shown in the largest cities of fifteen of the Northern and Eastern states free of charge. New York City, Chicago, St. Louis and many other of the leading cities of the United States will be included in this schedule. Upon completion of this circuit, which will include 120 nights, covering fifty cities, no one of which will have a population of less than 40,000 persons, the film will be returned to Texas and become the property of the state library and historical commission, archivist department, Austin, Texas. It will be the largest motion picture project covering one subject which has ever been attempted.

As a result of showing these pictures in the North, the Northern farmer once for all will have the illusion obliterated that Texans walk around with six-shooters in their belts, and that pitched battles occur in the principal streets of the cities. Instead of this, he will find that the Texan is as progressive and as up-to-date as any one found in the North. The Northern farmer further will learn that the various industries in Texas are on a par with anything found in the Northern and Eastern states, and in many instances the Middle Eastern industries are surpassed in Texas.

In order to acquaint the people of the North with the growing of cotton, Texas' greatest crop, Commissioner of Agriculture Davis expects to use his influence in having the industry photographed in moving pictures.

These films will show every stage of the cotton industry, from the planting of the seed, the picking, the ginning and compressing, the weaving of the staple into thread, the storing of cotton in the warehouses, and the shipping of the bales from Galveston to foreign markets.

Similar pictures of the pecan industry also will be taken and exhibited. In addition to this, numerous pictures of thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and other stock will be shown, as well as the various crops, and other industries. The pictures not only will be devoted to rural products, but manufactories, beautiful buildings and other municipal scenes will be shown.

In speaking of "Texas as It Is Today," E. N. Farris, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Commercial Executive association, and the secretary of the Corpus Christi Commercial club, says: "'Texas as It Is Today' will do more toward putting Texas, its vast, its wonderful opportunities in the right light before the people of the North and East than any other medium of publicity. It will be the messenger of Progress and Prosperity; its pulling power should be tremendous."

The Paragon Feature Film company has made a guarantee with the state of Texas to insure the people of the state that the company will live up to its contract in regard to the exhibiting of the pictures.

Katy Schedules Restored After Storm Damage

Regular scheduled service of the Katy will be put on beginning with today and all trains will be again reported on time. The trains on this line yesterday reported from two to eight hours late on account of the storm section in Oklahoma washing out a section of trackage.

These Are Busy Days in the County Court

These are busy days for County Judge George N. Denton. Civil jury cases have kept the court busy all of last week and the case on trial Saturday afternoon, O. M. Parker vs. the Katy, was concluded and will be finished Monday. The criminal docket is also due to be taken up Monday morning and it is expected that a number of important cases will be tried during the week.

The case on trial, Parker vs. the Katy, involves damages for some baggage which it is alleged was lost. Taking of testimony was concluded last night and all that remains is the argument of counsel, before the matter passes into the hands of the jury.

The jury failed to agree in the case of Wm. Cameron & Co. vs. T. M. Hamilton, et al., suit on a contract.

Y. M. B. L. TO PLAN NAVIGATION JUBILEE AT MEETING TUESDAY

A committee to start the arrangements for the big celebration of the completion of the lock and dam will be appointed Tuesday night at the regular weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Business League which will be held in the league's hall at 8 o'clock. One day will be set aside to commemorate the completion of the lock and dam and numerous festivities will be held under the direction of the Young Men's Business League.

According to President W. W. Naman, nothing else will probably be brought up at the meeting, with the exception of the regular committee reports. An invitation has been extended by Mr. Naman to E. A. Miller and Harry Hoffmann to appear before the league and discuss what should be done in the way of arranging for the Texas Shoe Merchants' convention which will be held in Waco February 8 and 9, during which time between sixty and seventy shoe merchants of the state are expected to be in attendance.

It may be that the proposed spring style show which was discussed at the last meeting will be brought up again at the meeting Tuesday. Several members of the board are of the opinion that a style show arranged on a large basis and with the co-operation of the various local merchants would be a big factor in promoting prosperity here. Although the fall style show held here was a big success, the proposed spring show, if held, will be on a much larger scale. In case the show is held efforts will be made to obtain reduced rates on all the railroads entering Waco.

Suspended Sentences Cannot Be Invoked in Justice Courts

While County Attorney John B. McNamara and his assistants are continually having juries give suspended sentences in district court criminal cases, they do not experience any trouble of that sort in the courts of lower jurisdiction, as the law does not apply to misdemeanor cases. So far as is known, the question of suspended sentences has never been raised in the county court, but one jury in the justice court tried to utilize the law last week.

It was in Judge Padgett's court and in a case where the penalty provided consisted of a fine. The jurors evidently made up their minds that the defendant was guilty but, for some reason, did not want to punish him. So they asked Judge Padgett if they could suspend sentence.

Very promptly Judge Padgett told them they could not. It was the first time the question had been raised in his court, but he was conversant with the law and had his answer ready. It was erroneously stated in the News that Judge Padgett referred the question to Assistant County Attorney Woods. This was not the fact, for although Mr. Woods agreed with the holding, Judge Padgett made it without having to ask as to what the law was.

Edith Storey Has Attained Ambition to Become Dancer

A dancer achieved a hitherto unheard-of feat of making a republic out of Portugal, and it is a dancer in a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, "The Price of Folly," produced by the Vitagraph company, under the direction of George D. Baker, that Edith Storey will achieve her desire to portray a character that is absolutely at variance with any she has heretofore essayed. Miss Storey must be one favored of the gods, as she no sooner expressed a wish to be seen on the screen as a dancer than Mr. Baker, who happened to be passing and heard her, assured the Vitagraph star her wish was to be granted in "The Price of Folly." The story of the picture is similar to that of the historical dancer who had an apartment adjoining the royal palace in Brussels, and will give Miss Storey an opportunity of displaying that versatility that stamps her as an artist in the front rank of motion picture stardom.

DINING ROOM OF RIGGINS HOTEL TO BE OPENED TODAY

Increasing business in the grill room at the Riggins hotel which was opened Friday night will necessitate the opening of the dining hall to accommodate the patrons today, according to R. E. Pellow, who recently became the new manager of the Riggins. The dining hall has been elaborately furnished throughout and is the latest in every respect.

Since the number of patrons at the hotel has increased so rapidly since the new management went into effect, Mr. Pellow is even more confident of the success of the establishment. From the present indications when the new manager of the Riggins completes his plans Waco will have a hotel to be proud of. Already large electric signs have been ordered, one for the roof and one for the corner of the building. Painters will go to work Monday redecorating and retouching the various departments of the building. Electric light posts will be installed on both sides of the building some time next week.

Mr. Pellow is from Chicago, where he was connected with several large hotels there. He has had wide experience in this line of business.

Scenes Will Be Photographed From 150 Counties to Prove State Not Wild and Wooly.

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 22.—One of the largest educational campaigns ever attempted, which is calculated to disabuse the erroneous impression prevalent in the North and East regarding the people of Texas as being "wild and woolly" is to be launched in the state soon.

Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture; C. Klaerner, state librarian, and Sinclair Moreland, archivist, besides other state officials, will co-operate with 150 counties of Texas, and the Paragon Feature Film company of Omaha, Neb., and New York, N. Y., in filming 50,000 feet of "Texas as It Is Today." This film, which will consist of 800,000 pictures taken of Texas scenes, will be shown in the largest cities of fifteen of the Northern and Eastern states free of charge. New York City, Chicago, St. Louis and many other of the leading cities of the United States will be included in this schedule. Upon completion of this circuit, which will include 190 nights, covering fifty cities, no one of which will have a population of less than 40,000 persons, the film will be returned to Texas and become the property of the state library and historical commission, archivist department, Austin, Texas. It will be the largest motion picture project covering one subject which has ever been attempted.

As a result of showing these pictures in the North, the Northern farmer once for all will have the illusion obliterated that Texans walk around with six-shooters in their belts, and that pitched battles occur in the principal streets of the cities. Instead of this, he will find that the Texan is as progressive and as up-to-date as any one found in the North. The Northern farmer further will learn that the various industries in Texas are on a par with anything found in the Northern and Eastern states, and in many instances the Middle Eastern industries are surpassed in Texas.

In order to acquaint the people of the North with the growing of cotton, Texas' greatest crop, Commissioner of Agriculture Davis expects to use his influence in having the industry photographed in moving pictures.

These films will show every stage of the cotton industry, from the planting of the seed, the pickins, the ginning and compressing, the weaving of the staple into thread, the storing of cotton in the warehouses, and the shipping of the bales from Galveston to foreign markets.

Similar pictures of the pecan industry also will be taken and exhibited. In addition to this, numerous pictures of thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and other stock will be shown, as well as the various crops, and other industries. The pictures not only will be devoted to rural products, but manufactories, beautiful buildings and other municipal scenes will be shown.

In speaking of "Texas as It Is Today," E. N. Farris, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Commercial Executive association, and the secretary of the Corpus Christi Commercial club, says:

"'Texas as It Is Today' will do more toward putting Texas, its vast, its wonderful opportunities in the right light before the people of the North and East than any other medium of publicity. It will be the messenger of Progress and Prosperity; its pulling power should be tremendous."

The Paragon Feature Film company has made a guarantee with the state of Texas to insure the people of the state that the company will live up to its contract in regard to the exhibiting of the pictures.

MAY FORCE DARCY INTO BRITISH ARMY

Les Darcy.

Les Darcy of Sydney, Australia, generally recognized as the middleweight champion of the world, may not visit the United States for many months, if ever. The Australian parliament has passed a law prohibiting the departure from that country of all men between the ages of 18 and 45. If necessary, these men will eventually be compelled to fight for Great Britain.

Katy Schedules Restored After Storm Damage

Regular scheduled service of the Katy will be put on beginning with today and all trains will be again reported on time. The trains on this line yesterday reported from two to eight hours late on account of the storm section in Oklahoma washing out a section of trackage.

These Are Busy Days in the County Court

These are busy days for County Judge George N. Denton. Civil jury cases have kept the court busy all of last week and the case on trial Saturday afternoon, O. M. Parker vs. the Katy, was concluded and will be finished Monday. The criminal docket is also due to be taken up Monday morning and it is expected that a number of important cases will be tried during the week.

The case on trial, Parker vs. the Katy, involves damages for some baggage which it is alleged was lost. Taking of testimony was concluded last night and all that remains is the argument of counsel, before the matter passes into the hands of the jury.

The jury failed to agree in the case of Wm. Cameron & Co. vs. T. M. Hamilton, et al., suit on a contract.

A committee to start the arrangements for the big celebration of the completion of the lock and dam will be appointed Tuesday night at the regular weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Business League which will be held in the league's hall at 8 o'clock. One day will be set aside to commemorate the completion of the lock and dam and numerous festivities will be held under the direction of the Young Men's Business League.

According to President W. W. Naman, nothing else will probably be brought up at the meeting, with the exception of the regular committee reports. An invitation has been extended by Mr. Naman to E. A. Miller and Harry Hoffmann to appear before the league and discuss what should be done in the way of arranging for the Texas Shoe Merchants' convention which will be held in Waco February 8 and 9, during which time between sixty and seventy shoe merchants of the state are expected to be in attendance.

It may be that the proposed spring style show which was discussed at the last meeting will be brought up again at the meeting Tuesday. Several members of the board are of the opinion that a style show arranged on a large basis and with the co-operation of the various local merchants would be a big factor in promoting prosperity here. Although the fall style show held here was a big success, the proposed spring show, if held, will be on a much larger scale. In case the show is held efforts will be made to obtain reduced rates on all the railroads entering Waco.

Capt. Daniel Powers of Maryville, Pa., is said to have made 3,000 voyages on the Susquehanna river as a raftsman. pails.

Suspended Sentences Cannot Be Invoked in Justice Courts

While County Attorney John B. McNamara and his assistants are continually having juries give suspended sentences in district court criminal cases, they do not experience any trouble of that sort in the courts of lower jurisdiction, as the law does not apply to misdemeanor cases. So far as is known, the question of suspended sentences has never been raised in the county court, but one jury in the justice court tried to utilize the law last week.

It was in Judge Padgett's court and in a case where the penalty provided consisted of a fine. The jurors evidently made up their minds that the defendant was guilty but, for some reason, did not want to punish him. So they asked Judge Padgett if they could suspend sentence.

Very promptly Judge Padgett told them they could not. It was the first time the question had been raised in his court, but he was conversant with the law and had his answer ready. It was erroneously stated in the News that Judge Padgett referred the question to Assistant County Attorney Woods. This was not the fact, for although Mr. Woods agreed with the holding, Judge Padgett made it without having to ask as to what the law was.

Part of Woman's Daily Duty

On the woman falls the care of the health of the family. She must know the danger signals and have ready the "first aid" remedy, for quick help and the averting of serious illness. Many thousand housewives have at hand the time tested and proven

Peruna—the Home Remedy

They know it improves the irregular appetite, aids the weakened digestion, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, relieves the coughs and colds, and corrects all catarrhal conditions wherever located. Forty-four years of reliability have established it as the Ever-Ready-to-Take household remedy.

That's why so many speak well of it. We have hundreds of testimonials like this:

Mrs. James F. Summitt, 1006 E. Eighth St., Muscatine, Iowa, writes: Peruna has cured me. For years I was practically an invalid. I was induced to give Peruna a trial, and found very quickly that it was helping me. I am now well and happy. We have a baby boy, which we believe is the direct consequence of my improved health. If Peruna had not cured me we should never have had him. I thank God for Peruna. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to other women who are childless simply because they are in a wretched physical condition. I will answer any letter from a woman anxious to know more about my case. I recommended Peruna to a friend whose daughter had a very severe case of Bronchitis. The doctors did not seem to do her any good. She used Peruna and is now well and strong. My husband's health is so much improved by Peruna that we would not be without it in the house."

A luncheon was given yesterday noon at the State House hotel by the Waco Society of Architects. Those present were R. J. Potts, George Burnett, Richard Morey, H. L. McCall, Herman Cason, E. M. Ross, D. T. Beaman, George Hurley and Will Green.

An invitation has been extended the Dallas Society of Architects to come to Waco for a joint luncheon and meeting with the local society, but no response has yet been received from Dallas.

SPENCER-CARROLL WHOLESALE HOUSE LOCATES IN WACO

Believing that Waco is the most logical distribution point for the entire state of Texas, the Spencer-Carroll company, a recently organized wholesale concern handling automobile accessories, has located here in preference to any other Texas city. The new firm is strictly a wholesale house and is not operating a retail store in connection, and its acquisition will mean a great deal to this city, as many out-of-town sales will be made.

Members of the firm are men prominent in automobile centers of Texas. Until the new building is completed and the complete stock arrives, the temporary office will be at 710 Austin avenue. J. E. Spencer of Carbon, Geo. S. McGhee of Waco and W. M. Carroll are members of the firm. Mr. Carroll has the honor of winning an automobile sales contest of six-cylinder Chalmers cars in competition with other cities over the United States of like population with Waco.

J. O. Hughes will be manager of the company. He has been connected with automobile and automobile accessory companies throughout Texas and for the last six years has been in Dallas, assistant manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company of Texas. He was once manager of the Stamford Motor Car company of Stamford.

Mr. Spencer has been in Chicago and New York for the last thirty days. Mr. Carroll and Mr. Knight, who will travel for the company, will leave today for Chicago to join Mr. Spencer and attend the national automobile show, which is now being held there. While in Chicago they will make several large purchases for the new Waco company.

Mr. Knight has been associated with the Stamford Motor Car company for the last six years, traveling in West Texas. Formerly he was with the Electric Appliance company.

E. H. Borden who for a long time was associated with the Ferris-Dunlap Auto Supply company of Dallas, traveling in Southeast Texas and Louisiana, will be with the new company, traveling in the same district.

There will be five men in the territory immediately and as conditions warrant more will be added to the force. G. C. Parker of Cleburne will have complete charge of the accounting and booking department.

Maxwell Non-stop Reaches 22,023.3 Miles Before End

After nearly doubling the figures that have, for three years, represented the motor non-stop record, the Maxwell touring car which has created a complete set of long distance marks, has been stopped at Los Angeles.

The Maxwell's motor non-stop record is 22,022.3 miles. This replaces a former record of 12,404.9 miles.

The end of the run was almost a civic holiday in Los Angeles. Thousands gathered at the appointed place, choking traffic and tendering the new endurance champion and its crew an ovation new in the annals of motoring. Mayor Sebastian of Los Angeles himself stepped to the driver's seat and switched off the ignition. For the first time in nearly 44 days, the Maxwell motor missed its life-giving spark and stopped.

Officially, the run was declared ended. Practically it will continue for many more days, as the car was immediately re-started and left for a triumphal tour through Southern California and Arizona, where it will be shown to thousands of enthusiastic motorists who have watched its progress to its championship.

That the run might have continued indefinitely without a motor stop was the belief of the Maxwell's crew and the official A. A. A. observers. As a demonstration of its perfect condition, the final day's run was made the longest and fastest of the entire 44 which comprised the whole trip. During this 24 hours, the car covered 562.5 miles.

At no time in the tour was the car's average below 500 miles a day. This fact resulted in its annexing all long-distance records from 2,000 miles upward, thus adding to the laurels of the new endurance champion.

Sportsmanship was the chief factor in putting an arbitrary stop to the run when even more striking results might have been attained. It is the hope of the Maxwell forces that other Pacific coast distributers may emulate the example of the Lord Motor Car company, which conducted the run. At least two other large dealers had informally promised to attempt to beat the Maxwell record. These promises were made early in the history of the run. It was feared that, in case the Maxwell continued further, the result would thoroughly discourage competition.

Motoring authorities nationally and on the Pacific coast, realizing that motor non-stop competition is now about the only form open to stock cars, are anxious to encourage its revival in every way. Their requests were joined to the fact that the sales activities of the Lord organization demanded the attention of the members of the car's crew.

The test was throughout under the sanction and observation of the contest board, represented by Earl Cooper, the race driver, who was in charge of all details. The car was taken at random from a recent shipment and was declared stock in every detail before the start. Observers, appointed by Cooper, checked every foot of the run.

Waco Manager of A. & P. Tea Co. Very Optimistic

The optimism of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company is reflected in the optimistic manner in which L. M. Cazayoux, local manager, looks upon the business prospects for 1916. "Prosperity is reigning throughout the country," said Mr. Cazayoux yesterday. "During the year 1915 the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company added 274 stores to its chain, making a total of 1,400 stores. From the present outlook we expect to add twice as many during 1916.

"Judging from the business that we have done in Waco the first three weeks of the new year, everything seems to indicate that 1916 will be a record breaking year for us. Our business during the fall of 1915 showed a big increase over previous years."

LOCAL RECEIPTS OF 1915 COTTON 6,607 BALES UNDER 1914

Shortage of the 1915 cotton crop as compared with that of 1914 is reflected in the figures showing receipts of wagon cotton for the season by Public Weigher Sem Nix. Up to yesterday Mr. Nix weighed 21,674 bales of 1915 cotton as compared with 28,281 bales at the same time last year, a shortage of 6,607 bales.

Local cotton receipts last week totalled 236 bales. Receipts yesterday were 100 bales as compared with ninety-two on the same day last year. Prices paid on the Waco market yesterday ranged from 11.50 to 12.25, with a basis of 11.875 for middling.

New Manager for G.-M. Millinery Department Here

A change in the management of the Goldstein-Migel millinery department was announced at that store yesterday; the new manager is T. Stein who comes to Waco from St. Louis, where he has been connected with a prominent women's wear store as manager of the millinery section. Securing Mr. Stein to take charge of the millinery is in accordance with the Goldstein-Migel policy of employing men of wide experience and all around capability as heads of departments, Mr. Stein having had many years of experience in the larger cities, and being thoroughly conversant with millinery styles and market conditions.

Mr. Stein, who arrived in Waco Friday and assumed charge of his new department yesterday, expresses himself as well pleased with what he has seen of Waco.

"Waco people," remarked Mr. Stein yesterday in speaking of the Goldstein-Migel store, "should surely be proud of the store they have at their service here, for it compares favorably, in its stocks, its prices and its service, with the great stores of the big cities."

Goldstein Buyer Leaves for Market

Fred M. Hirsch, buyer for the notions and fancy goods departments at the Goldstein-Migel company, left yesterday for New York to make purchases of spring merchandise for his departments. Mr. Hirsch, who is a comparatively recent acquisition to the buying forces of the big Austin avenue store, has made a most enviable record since his connection here, and as he is a buyer of wide experience, it is anticipated that his selections in the eastern markets will prove very attractive to Waco shoppers.

Mr. Hirsch goes to join the other Goldstein-Migel buyers who are already in the market, and will probably remain in the east for several weeks.

Many Dodge Brothers Cars Are Exported

The question is often asked in motor car circles as to whether Dodge Bros. have devoted much attention to export business.

While officials of the company maintain their usual reticence in discussing matters of policy, it is known that the company has had a very successful year in export lines and that Dodge Brothers' cars have won a popularity abroad that rivals the esteem in which it is held at home.

No figures are given out on the actual number shipped to foreign countries, but it is known that agencies have been established in the principal European countries and throughout the far east, particularly in India and Australia.

The car has proven exceedingly popular in England and Ireland and the sales are holding up well, despite the slump occasioned by the duty imposed by Great Britain.

Dodge Brothers have not accepted war orders, and yet they have shipped many cars to all of the countries to which it is possible to ship motor cars.

Unique Operation on Poodle Success

Taking a four and a half pound tumor from a dog, eleven years old and which weighs twelve pounds, is the difficult operation which was performed recently by Drs. Hodge and Hodges of this city. It is declared to be one of the most unique canine operations ever performed in this section of the state. The little animal is alive and doing well.

The dog in question is a diminutive poodle owned by C. P. Gouldman, day operator for the Associated Press. On account of the dog's age, for eleven years is a considerable age for a poodle, several veterinarians advised that an operation could hardly be successful. The Waco vets thought differently, however, and proved that they were correct.

Widow's $50 Brings $43 Interest.

The directors of the Moravian Widows' society of Bethlehem, Pa., recently at their semi-annual meeting declared a dividend of $22 to each one of 70 widows in the society. This is $1 more than was paid last June.

The total of $43 for the year represents an original investment of only $50 by the husband and is equal to $1000 invested at a little more than 4 per cent.

M'COLLUM APPEALS TO HUMANE SOCIETY MEMBERS FOR FUNDS

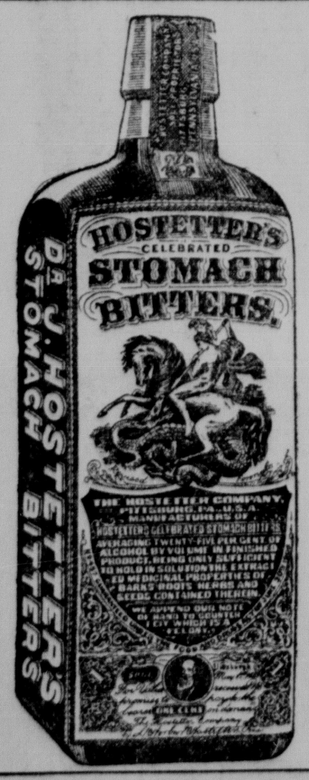

To the members of the Waco Humane Society and Waco citizenship in general:

It is found that many of the members of this society have not yet had opportunity or found it convenient to pay dues for the second year. I am convinced that this fact is in no wise due to lack of interest or sympathy in the work of the society, but simply a condition that often develops for organizations of like nature.

The society needs money to carry on its work and the amount asked from each member is very small. During the coming week a representative of the society will visit members who have not yet found it convenient or opportune to make payments and collect from and receipt for all payments that are made to him. He will carry written authority signed by the undersigned and our humane officer. I earnestly request all who feel able to make payment now to kindly do so, assuring you of the pressing need for the means. Any contributions that may be made by those who are not members now but who desire to become so and help the work will be gratefully appreciated. This mode of securing means for operations is the only course we can pursue until the federated welfare movement takes definite shape. Then all our helpful institutions will be—it is earnestly hoped—adequately equipped for effective work. Very respectfully,

A. R. M'COLLUM,
Pres. Texas (Waco) Humane Society.

Peruna—the Home Remedy

They know it improves the irregular appetite, aids the weakened digestion, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, relieves the coughs and colds, and corrects all catarrhal conditions wherever located. Forty-four years of reliability have established it as the Ever-Ready-to-Take household remedy.

That's why so many speak well of it. We have hundreds of testimonials like this:

Mrs. James F. Summitt, 1006 E. Eighth St., Muscatine, Iowa, writes: Peruna has cured me. For years I was practically an invalid. I was induced to give Peruna a trial, and found very quickly that it was helping me. I am now well and happy. We have a baby boy, which we believe is the direct consequence of my improved health. If Peruna had not cured me we should never have had him. I thank God for Peruna. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to other women who are childless simply because they are in a wretched physical condition. I will answer any letter from a woman anxious to know more about my case. I recommended Peruna to a friend whose daughter had a very severe case of Bronchitis. The doctors did not seem to do her any good. She used Peruna and is now well and strong. My husband's health is so much improved by Peruna that we would not be without it in the house."

Practically it will continue for many more days, as the car was immediately re-started and left for a triumphal tour through Southern California and Arizona, where it will be shown to thousands of enthusiastic motorists who have watched its progress to its championship.

That the run might have continued indefinitely without a motor stop was the belief of the Maxwell's crew and the official A. A. A. observers. As a demonstration of its perfect condition, the final day's run was made the longest and fastest of the entire 44 which comprised the whole trip. During this 24 hours, the car covered 562.5 miles.

At no time in the tour was the car's average below 500 miles a day. This fact resulted in its annexing all long-distance records from 2,000 miles upward, thus adding to the laurels of the new endurance champion.

Sportsmanship was the chief factor in putting an arbitrary stop to the run when even more striking results might have been attained. It is the hope of the Maxwell forces that other Pacific coast distributers may emulate the example of the Lord Motor Car company, which conducted the run. At least two other large dealers had informally promised to attempt to beat the Maxwell record. These promises were made early in the history of the run. It was feared that, in case the Maxwell continued further, the result would thoroughly discourage competition.

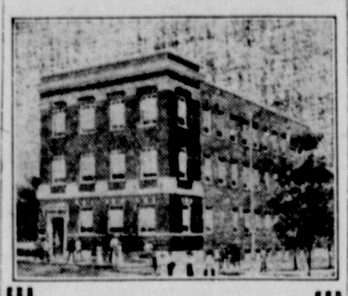

Motoring authorities nationally and on the Pacific coast, realizing that motor non-stop competition is now about the only form open to stock cars, are anxious to encourage its revival in every way. Their requests were joined to the fact that the sales activities of the Lord organization demanded the attention of the members of the car's crew.

The test was throughout under the sanction and observation of the contest board, represented by Earl Cooper, the race driver, who was in charge of all details. The car was taken at random from a recent shipment and was declared stock in every detail before the start. Observers, appointed by Cooper, checked every foot of the run.

Waco Manager of A. & P. Tea Co. Very Optimistic

The optimism of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company is reflected in the optimistic manner in which L. M. Cazayoux, local manager, looks upon the business prospects for 1916. "Prosperity is reigning throughout the country," said Mr. Cazayoux yesterday. "During the year 1915 the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company added 374 stores to its chain, making a total of 1,400 stores. From the present outlook we expect to add twice as many during 1916.

"Judging from the business that we have done in Waco the first three weeks of the new year, everything seems to indicate that 1916 will be a record breaking year for us. Our business during the fall of 1915 showed a big increase over previous years."

Shortage of the 1915 cotton crop as compared with that of 1914 is reflected in the figures showing receipts of wagon cotton for the season by Public Weigher Sem Nix. Up to yesterday Mr. Nix weighed 21,674 bales of 1915 cotton as compared with 28,281 bales at the same time last year, a shortage of 6,607 bales.

Local cotton receipts last week totalled 236 bales. Receipts yesterday were 100 bales as compared with ninety-two on the same day last year. Prices paid on the Waco market yesterday ranged from 11.30 to 12.25, with a basis of 11.875 for middling.

New Manager for G.-M. Millinery Department Here

A change in the management of the Goldstein-Migel millinery department was announced at that store yesterday; the new manager is T. Stein who comes to Waco from St. Louis, where he has been connected with a prominent women's wear store as manager of the millinery section. Securing Mr. Stein to take charge of the millinery is in accordance with the Goldstein-Migel policy of employing men of wide experience and all around capability as heads of departments, Mr. Stein having had many years of experience in the larger cities, and being thoroughly conversant with millinery styles and market conditions.

Mr. Stein, who arrived in Waco Friday and assumed charge of his new department yesterday, expresses himself as well pleased with what he has seen of Waco.

"Waco people," remarked Mr. Stein yesterday in speaking of the Goldstein-Migel store, "should surely be proud of the store they have at their service here, for it compares favorably, in its stocks, its prices and its service, with the great stores of the big cities."

Goldstein Buyer Leaves for Market

Fred M. Hirsch, buyer for the notions and fancy goods departments at the Goldstein-Migel company, left yesterday for New York to make purchases of spring merchandise for his departments. Mr. Hirsch, who is a comparatively recent acquisition to the buying forces of the big Austin avenue store, has made a most enviable record since his connection here, and as he is a buyer of wide experience, it is anticipated that his selections in the eastern markets will prove very attractive to Waco shoppers.

Mr. Hirsch goes to join the other Goldstein-Migel buyers who are already in the market, and will probably remain in the east for several weeks.

Many Dodge Brothers Cars Are Exported

The question is often asked in motor car circles as to whether Dodge Bros. have devoted much attention to export business.

While officials of the company maintain their usual reticence in discussing matters of policy, it is known that the company has had a very successful year in export lines and that Dodge Brothers' cars have won a popularity abroad that rivals the esteem in which it is held at home.

No figures are given out on the actual number shipped to foreign countries, but it is known that agencies have been established in the principal European countries and throughout the far east, particularly in India and Australia.

The car has proven exceedingly popular in England and Ireland and the sales are holding up well, despite the slump occasioned by the duty imposed by Great Britain.

Dodge Brothers have not accepted war orders, and yet they have shipped many cars to all of the countries to which it is possible to ship motor cars.

Unique Operation on Poodle Success

Taking a four and a half pound tumor from a dog, eleven years old and which weighs twelve pounds, is the difficult operation which was performed recently by Drs. Hodge and Hodges of this city. It is declared to be one of the most unique canine operations ever performed in this section of the state. The little animal is alive and doing well.

The dog in question is a diminutive poodle owned by C. P. Gouldman, day operator for the Associated Press. On account of the dog's age, for eleven years is a considerable age for a poodle, several veterinarians advised that an operation could hardly be successful. The Waco vets thought differently, however, and proved that they were correct.

Widow's $50 Brings $43 Interest.

The directors of the Moravian Widows' society of Bethlehem, Pa., recently at their semi-annual meeting declared a dividend of $22 to each one of 70 widows in the society. This is $1 more than was paid last June.

The total of $43 for the year represents an original investment of only $50 by the husband and is equal to $1000 invested at a little more than 4 per cent.

As a charitable financial society it beats any other kind of insurance in existence. The society has thrived since 1771.—Philadelphia Record.

M'COLLUM APPEALS TO HUMANE SOCIETY MEMBERS FOR FUNDS

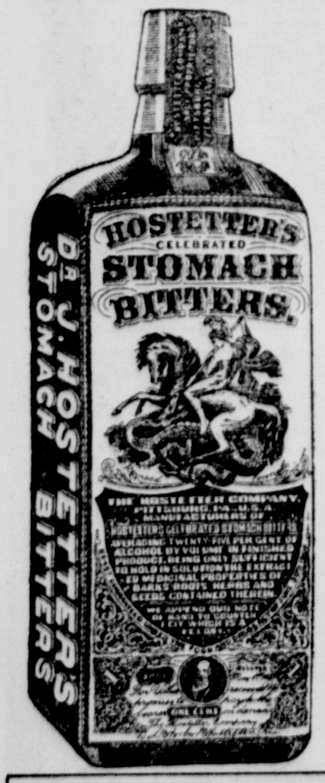

To the members of the Waco Humane Society and Waco citizenship in general:

It is found that many of the members of this society have not yet had opportunity or found it convenient to pay dues for the second year. I am convinced that this fact is in no wise due to lack of interest or sympathy in the work of the society, but simply a condition that often develops for organizations of like nature.

The society needs money to carry on its work and the amount asked from each member is very small. During the coming week a representative of the society will visit members who have not yet found it convenient or opportune to make payments and collect from and receipt for all payments that are made to him. He will carry written authority signed by the undersigned and our humane officer. I earnestly request all who feel able to make payment now to kindly do so, assuring you of the pressing need for the means. Any contributions that may be made by those who are not members now but who desire to become so and help the work will be gratefully appreciated. This mode of securing means for operations is the only course we can pursue until the federated welfare movement takes definite shape. Then all our helpful institutions will be—it is earnestly hoped—adequately equipped for effective work. Very respectfully,

A. R. M'COLLUM,
Pres. Texas (Waco) Humane Society.

Dossett, who has removed from Cameron, and is a Wacoan, matron of the former Jones residence, Sixteenth and Columbus. Mrs. Patton attempted no formality, it being her pleasure just to have the neighbors meet Mrs. Dossett.

MISS GLADYS OVERSTREET IS BRIDE IN RIESEL

Marriage of Miss Gladys Overstreet and Zach T. Anderson is an event of local note. The bride's home, Lacy Summitt; the groom's, Rio Vista, present residence at near Riesel and an expected summer sojourn in Gaines county, gives Mr. and Mrs. Anderson the interest of several circles of friends. MRS. W. E. DARDEN HOSTESS IN AFTERNOON TEA

About thirty young matrons, former girl friends of Mrs. Winthrop Sargent, were guests of Mrs. W. E. Darden on Friday afternoon. The informality was the charm, as it gave closer communion among girl friends, now matrons and mothers.

Also, some strong program fetures will develop between this and Wednesday. Each club in the meantime will look toward as large attendance as possible.

MOTHERS' CLUB MEETS AT SANGER SCHOOL

At the next meeting of Sanger School Mothers' club, two weeks hence, an unusually good program will be followed. Two practical talks from professional men will be heard. These are "Value of Good Teeth," from Dr. J. O. Hall, and the necessity of the child's having pure milk, from City Food Inspector Hodges. Musical numbers will be given by Miss Katie Hill and Mrs. J. O. Pipkin. This will assuredly attract all the mothers of the Sanger school.

MID YEAR GRADUATES ARE NOW ANNOUNCED

Before the last of January days, the seniors of the mid year class will have completed their high school course. Presumably all will pass final examination and be ready to join the June class for formal graduation. The class roster is the Misses Morine Moore, Nasma Huddlestone, Florence Patten, Anna May Hunter, Lora Livingstone, Grace Jenkins, Lucile Peoples, Hattie Denison with Frank Trau, Frank Peyton, Austin Pool, Oscar Tabb and Francis Shelton.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS IN "SILAS MARNER"

Following the drift of the times in affairs literary, the tenth B pupils, under direction of Miss Miriam Suhler, have converted into dramatic form that masterpiece of George Eliot, "Silas Marner." Four scenes were so changed, and in two afternoons, presented by pupils of the class to a general high school assembly. The work was pronounced very creditable. Little Sarah Padgitt Rotan, not for several years even a chart class little lady, was the beloved baby of Silas.

PALETTE AND BRUSH CLUB WITH MISS EASTLAND

The attractive model provided by Miss Emmabelle Eastland on Saturday morning proved Miss Clara Louise Brewer as Geisha girl, kimono, parasol and fan, to say nothing of pose acceptable to members of the Palette and Brush club, who sketched while they chatted along the line of things artistic. Miss Eastland broke club rules in offering a noon repast. There were no guests except the Misses Henrietta and Clara Louise Brewer who gave violin and piano selections.

FRIDAY BRIDGE PLAYS WITH MRS. E. A. STURGIS

Within the Kyle, members of the Friday Bridge added another round in their season score. This club follows the rule that each absent member sends her own substitute. With Mrs. Sturgis, Mrs. A. V. Cross played for Mrs. W. B. Brazelton, Mrs. Rives Posten Halsey for Mrs. W. B. Hays, Miss Morrison of Ennis for Mrs. John Cooper, Mrs. William Carroll for Mrs. Ben Jennings and Mrs. A. B. Cowan for Mrs. Keith Matthews. For the afternoon score, Mrs. W. W. Pryor and Mrs. Sam Stratton took the prizes.

WACO HOUSE PARTY IN DAILY DEMAND

The daily calendar of social events in Texarkana society gives notice of daily compliment to the Misses Katherine Raynolds, Ethel Foster and Frances Hays with Miss Grace Herndon of Tyler, as house party of the Misses Esther and Elizabeth Webber. But one day is given which does not formally honor these girls, and this day announces dinner dance at Country club, presumably finding the house party participants. Extended notice is given the tea at which the house party was introduced by Mrs. Webber.

SISTERHOOD TEA POURED WITH MRS. LEHMAN SANGER

If the beginning fortells the end, success is assured the latest among the women's organizations, the Sisterhood. No sooner formed, than the president, Mrs. Lehman Sanger, set about to accumulate a working fund. This gave impulse to a week end tea, and this tea proved to be quite the pretty as well as the pleasant affair. The officers of the club, the Mesdames L. H. Goldstein, Louey Migel and Gus Rosenthal, gave first greeting. A quartette of girls served tea or chocolate poured by Mrs. Asher Sanger and Mrs. Abe Alexander, they being the Misses Rachel Strauss, Eloise Haber, Bess Long and Gussie Landman. Many compliments were paid the table with its center of electric roses in pink and the perch of humming birds. About twenty dollars is the financial result. Comers were continuous during the two hours in which Mrs. Sanger and her house party kept station.

MRS. FRANK P. CULVER IS LUNCHEON HOSTESS

The lifelong friendship of Mrs. F. P. Culver with Mrs. A. J. Dossett, who is just arrived to make this her home, was occasion for a beautiful luncheon on Friday. In this, Mrs. Culver introduced Mrs. Dossett to ten from among her matron friends. The fame of the hostess' family, even from generations gone in Mississippi, is for home making and table triumphs. Mrs. Culver sustains this reputation, so her guests of Friday say. Pink was color tone of her table appointments, beginning with the blooming begonia in center, and continuing into pretty little ribbon bows, and embroidery stitches about the lace pieces on polished wood, also the holders for the confections. Enjoying their hostess and new acquaintance, as well as the six luncheon courses, were Misses Ida Duke and Robert Wright with the Mesdames Grace Wigley, Thomas Cullough, Bolivar Nettles, John Sleeper, J. R. Milam.

MR. AND MRS. R. B. DUPREE HAVE SUPPER GUESTS

Naming Mrs. Winthrop Sargent their preferred guest, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dupree gave invitation for a pretty buffet supper on Friday evening. Following the home pleasure, the guests drove out to join the dancers at the Huaco club. Mrs. Dupree, in this courtesy, carries distinction of being the first to introduce the favorite flower of the early spring, the jonquil. This gave motif for her entire service, for the ornament to the place cards, for the holders to the nuts, and for the attractive basket for the cluster of natural bloom on the table. Four courses gave opportunity for an hour's

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. R. G. Patton called in her immediate neighbors to welcome their last acquisition, Mrs. A. J. Dossett, who has removed from Cameron, and is a Waconan, matron of the former Jones residence, Sixteenth and Columbus. Mrs. Patton attempted no formality, it being her pleasure just to have the neighbors meet Mrs. Dossett.

MISS GLADYS OVERSTREET IS BRIDE IN RIESEL

Marriage of Miss Gladys Overstreet and Zach T. Anderson is an event of local note. The bride's home, Lacy Summitt; the groom's, Rio Vista, present residence at near Riesel and an expected summer sojourn in Gaines county, gives Mr. and Mrs. Anderson the interest of several circles of friends. In addition, the bride is former pupil both of Waco high school and Baylor university.

MRS. W. E. DARDEN HOSTESS IN AFTERNOON TEA

About thirty young matrons, former girl friends of Mrs. Winthrop Sargent, were guests of Mrs. W. E. Darden on Friday afternoon. It was just a coming together to greet the old friend returned, to enjoy the hospitality of hostess and to exchange reminiscence. The informality was the charm, as it gave closer communion among girl friends, now matrons and mothers.

As president of the Parent-Teachers' association, Mrs. W. O. Wilkes reminds of the general meeting on Wednesday. This will be in the auditorium of the high school. Also, some strong program fetures will develop between this and Wednesday. Each club in the meantime will look toward as large attendance as possible.

MOTHERS' CLUB MEETS AT SANGER SCHOOL

At the next meeting of Sanger School Mothers' club, two weeks hence, an unusually good program will be followed. Two practical talks from professional men will be heard. These are "Value of Good Teeth," from Dr. J. O. Hall, and the necessity of the child's having pure milk, from City Food Inspector Hodges. Musical numbers will be given by Miss Katie Hill and Mrs. J. O. Pipkin. This will assuredly attract all the mothers of the Sanger school.

MID YEAR GRADUATES ARE NOW ANNOUNCED

Before the last of January days, the seniors of the mid year class will have completed their high school course. Presumably all will pass final examination and be ready to join the June class for formal graduation. The class roster is the Misses Morine Moore, Nasma Huddlestone, Florence Patten, Anna May Hunter, Lora Livingstone, Grace Jenkins, Lucile Peoples, Hattie Denison with Frank Trau, Frank Peyton, Austin Pool, Oscar Tabb and Francis Shelton.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS IN "SILAS MARNER"

Following the drift of the times in affairs literary, the tenth B pupils, under direction of Miss Miriam Suhler, have converted into dramatic form that masterpiece of George Eliot, "Silas Marner." Four scenes were so changed, and in two afternoons, presented by pupils of the class to a general high school assembly. The work was pronounced very creditable. Little Sarah Padgitt Rotan, not for several years even a chart class little lady, was the beloved baby of Silas.

PALETTE AND BRUSH CLUB WITH MISS EASTLAND

The attractive model provided by Miss Emmabelle Eastland on Saturday morning proved Miss Clara Louise Brewer as Geisha girl, kimono, parasol and fan, to say nothing of pose acceptable to members of the Palette and Brush club, who sketched while they chatted along the line of things artistic. Miss Eastland broke club rules in offering a noon repast. There were no guests except the Misses Henrietta and Clara Louise Brewer who gave violin and piano selections.

FRIDAY BRIDGE PLAYS WITH MRS. E. A. STURGIS

Within the Kyle, members of the Friday Bridge added another round in their season score. This club follows the rule that each absent member sends her own substitute. With Mrs. Sturgis, Mrs. A. V. Cross played for Mrs. W. B. Brazelton, Mrs. Rives Posten Halsey for Mrs. W. B. Hays, Miss Morrison of Ennis for Mrs. John Cooper, Mrs. William Carroll for Mrs. Ben Jennings and Mrs. A. B. Cowan for Mrs. Keith Matthews. For the afternoon score, Mrs. W. W. Pryor and Mrs. Sam Stratton took the prizes.

WACO HOUSE PARTY IN DAILY DEMAND

The daily calendar of social events in Texarkana society gives notice of daily compliment to the Misses Katherine Raynolds, Ethel Foster and Frances Hays with Miss Grace Herndon of Tyler, as house party of the Misses Esther and Elizabeth Webber. But one day is given which does not formally honor these girls, and this day announces dinner dance at Country club, presumably finding the house party participants. Extended notice is given the tea at which the house party was introduced by Mrs. Webber.

SISTERHOOD TEA POURED WITH MRS. LEHMAN SANGER

If the beginning fortells the end, success is assured the latest among the women's organizations, the Sisterhood. No sooner formed, than the president, Mrs. Lehman Sanger, set about to accumulate a working fund. This gave impulse to a week end tea, and this tea proved to be quite the pretty as well as the pleasant affair. The officers of the club, the Mesdames L. H. Goldstein, Louey Migel and Gus Rosenthal, gave first greeting. A quartette of girls served tea or chocolate poured by Mrs. Asher Sanger and Mrs. Abe Alexander, they being the Misses Rachel Strauss, Eloise Haber, Bess Long and Gussie Landman. Many compliments were paid the table with its center of electric roses in pink and the perch of humming birds. About twenty dollars is the financial result. Comers were continuous during the two hours in which Mrs. Sanger and her house party kept station.

MRS. FRANK P. CULVER IS LUNCHEON HOSTESS

The lifelong friendship of Mrs. F. P. Culver with Mrs. A. J. Dossett, who is just arrived to make this her home, was occasion for a beautiful luncheon on Friday. In this, Mrs. Culver introduced Mrs. Dossett to ten from among her matron friends. The fame of the hostess' family, even from generations gone in Mississippi, is for home making and table triumphs. Mrs. Culver sustains this reputation, so her guests of Friday say. Pink was color tone of her table appointments, beginning with the blooming begonia in center, and continuing into pretty little ribbon bows, and embroidery stitches about the lace pieces on polished wood, also the holders for the confections. Enjoying their hostess and new acquaintance, as well as the six luncheon courses, were Misses Ida Duke and Robert Wright with the Mesdames Grace Wigley, Thomas Cullough, Bolivar Nettles, John Sleeper, J. R. Milam.

MR. AND MRS. R. B. DUPREE HAVE SUPPER GUESTS

CIRCULATION OF ALL CLASSES FOR DECEMBER, 1915, GREATER THAN MONTH IN 1914.

Registrations Show Decrease—Report Contains Review of Activities of Library for Last Month 1915.

With slight decreases in the number of registrations of both adults and juveniles, the circulation of the Waco public library during the month of December, 1915, showed considerable increases in both classes, according to figures contained in the monthly report to the board of directors of the library by Miss Pauline McCauley, librarian. Miss McCauley's report, which was a survey of the activities of the library organization for the month, is as follows:

Circulation—

	Adult.	Juvenile.	Total.
1915	4,536	3,302	6,838
1914	4,421	2,018	6,449
	105	284	389
Registrations—
1915	92	44	136
1914	143	80	223
	51	26	87

The library was open to the public 30 days and for the circulation of books 25 days, Christmas Day being a holiday. There were circulated from the library desk 6,838 volumes, 4,536 of which were adult and 2,302 children's books. In addition to the juvenile books borrowed from the library desk, 1,717 were loaned from the collections in the schools and the Evangelia Settlement. Collections were placed in the North Fourth Street and the South Waco schools in December. The library now has eight deposit stations from which books go into the homes, of the Waco people who live too far from the central library to visit it as often as they would like.

Library Activities.

One hundred and thirty-six applications were made for readers' cards during the month, 87 less than were made in December, 1914. However, due to registrations of old applications, there were 69 renewals in 1914 and only 27 in 1915.

The story hours for the month were attended by 227 children. During the absence of Miss Ingram and Mr. Crouch for Christmas holidays, Miss Pharr kindly told one story and Miss Nellie Lee Hill another.

Two hundred and ninety-four readers visited the reading rooms on the four Sundays of the month. The largest number for one Sunday was 93, of which 60 were men.

During the month 36 volumes were added to the shelves, most of which were gifts from the following: Catholic Study club, Catholic Bible; Federal Council of Churches, material on social service; superintendent of documents, government documents; Mrs. Joseph Eikel, subscription to "Fatherland," a German newspaper.

For floral decorations during the Christmas season, the library is indebted to Mrs. O. L. Stribling, Mrs. W. E. Darden, Wolfe the Florist and Mohan Bros. Mrs. Flora Cameron followed her annual custom of making a Christmas present of money to the library. This generous gift is always appreciated and used to the best advantage.

"Juvenile Book Week" was observed by the library with a display of books suitable for children. This exhibit was inspected by a greater number of parents than in 1914, but not by as large a number as we hoped.

The librarian attended a meeting of the combined Parent-Teachers' associations at the high school December 3, and spoke to the members of the facilities of the library, and particularly of the books which would be a help to them in their study of the child.

Miss Grace Stone, who has been on the staff since January 1, 1915, resigned on the 31st of December. Miss Ruth Norman, who has been serving an apprenticeship, was elected to fill Miss Stone's place.

Respectfully submitted,
PAULINE McCAULEY, Librarian.

Out at the Huaco club for the weekly Friday night assembly, Mr. and Mrs. M. Holderman added the largest of the dinner parties. Upon taking seats, his health was drunk; as the dinner progressed, birthdays were frequently mentioned and honored; when the cigars came, a tray of birthday gifts was placed before Mr. Williamson's plate, and birthday jingle was read in his honor. It was all merry and pleasant. Mrs. Holderman placed a rustic basket of green in the center of her table. From this peered an abundance of greenery and dozens of pink blooms. About the base graceful greenery made mat effect while candles burned under pink hoods. Roses decked the plate cards, and tiny art roses, very tiny, as holder to a wee candle, was on each confection cake, to accompany the ice. Within this merry party were, the Mesdames Lister of New Hampshire and William Breustedt, Miss Kate Friend with the Messrs. and Mesdames Williamson, Plo Crespi, Frank Forman, C. W. Wilson, Walter Gregg, Asbury Lambdin, L. F. Cowan.

Society Notes

Miss Marian Duncan is still guest of Mrs. Lurline Mosley Harvey in Philadelphia. On Monday, Mrs. Harvey and Miss Duncan went over to New Jersey for a little visit with Miss Esther Cornwall. From there, they enjoy the excitement of New York City for a few days. Returning Miss Duncan visits several former school friends in Pennsylvania. She is not due at home before early March.

Mrs W. H. Jones is mentioned as luncheon hostess at early date. This is compliment to the debutantes.

Now, really was it a Waco woman who, seeing on her New York hotel menu that meals in rooms were extra, ordered, thinking she would have something more tempting than in the grill? Furthermore, was it a Waco woman who complained that when her order came it was not only no better but they charged more for it. Now, surely, this was not Waco, although they claim up in New York that it was.

Mrs. William Neale has been elected from the Henry Downs Chapter to the national session of Daughters of the Revolution which meets in Washington City in the spring.

Miss Jimmie Horne leaves within the next few days for Galveston. She will be the guest of Mrs. G. H. Mensing for the Artillery Ball, the most pretentious society event of the winter with Galveston society.

Within the arriving week Mrs. Charles Langhorne of Virginia with the Misses Minnie Killough and Nell Symes go for a few days with Mrs. Norma Conger McDonald in Cleburne.

Mrs. John W. Davis is now matron in her new home just built out on Sanger avenue. The move from the Kyle was made on Friday.

Is it not true that anything one does is appreciated by some people, and nothing one does is appreciated by some other people?

Several prominent Waco women are having papers prepared for admission into the Colonial Dames of Texas. When these are entered, Waco will have as many if not more as Austin and Dallas.

If our merchants put on the Spring Style Show, the pleasant query comes who will be their queen?

Following detention at Providence sanitarium for a few days, Mrs. S. E. Shelton is again at home.

By the way, Ash Wednesday is coming, the most propitious season of the entire year for Dan Cupid's pranks, and in late April, Easter is coming. This means are there to be any Easter brides?

It can not be impressed too strongly that acceptance to dinner makes presence imperative. There used to be a saying at the card table that nothing short of sudden illness excused a return lead of trumps. That remark applies to the dinner invitation literally.

Hostess for the Lily Auction Bridge has been changed. Mrs. E. A. Sturgis will entertain the club at the Kyle on Tuesday.

We are not telling who just yet, but a popular Waco matron is reported as making plans for a fifty thousand dollar addition to Waco's handsome homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Symes of Lubbock with Miss Nell Symes were one of the small dinner parties out at the Huaco club on Friday evening. John Fort and Miss Pauline McLendon were also out for dinner.

There is intimation of another large bridge matinee in private home at an early date.

Miss Nellson Gillespie is rehearsing sixty of her pupils for demonstration of correct and attractive dancing, to be given as a public entertainment on February 11.

Mrs. Kate Downs Hamilton of Fayetteville, Ark., is in Texas paying several visits to her Texas relatives. She is due here within a few days to be the guest of Mrs. Susan Lyle Downs, Austin avenue.

In giving her invitations, if a hostess announces a tea, her guests are permitted their call in street attire. The idea is, just dropping in from down town for the pleasing cup and chat. But if there is an at home or a reception, only light afternoon dress is the correct thing.

As note among the mid-year graduates, Frank Trau is exempt from all examinations and has unusual record for attendance during his high school years.

From art circles of New York it is heard that no less than fifty, all meritorious, exhibitions of art are now holding. And we can not scare up a single one. Surely, there is a wonderful work here for the Art League and the Palette and Brush.

Miss Johnnie Tilley, North Sixteenth street, is at Providence sanitarium, the result of operation on Saturday, for appendicitis.

Winter Camping.

The site chosen should be sheltered so far as possible from prevailing winds—behind a bit of woods or a bank—it may be a snow bank—or a dense growth of underbrush. Any protection of this nature fill add degrees to the atmosphere of the tent interior.

But more important than shelter is the condition of the ground underneath. Make careful observations to be certain that the ground is high and dry—of a porous nature if possible. Bedding also presents its problems. The pneumatic mattresses are very useful since the air chamber insulates the sleeper against the dampness and cold of the ground. These are made by nearly all manufacturers of camping and hunting supplies.—Alfred Russell, in "Good Health."

REPORT OF LIBRARIAN SHOWS GOOD INCREASE

CIRCULATION OF ALL CLASSES FOR DECEMBER, 1915, GREATER THAN MONTH IN 1914.

Registrations Show Decrease—Report Contains Review of Activities of Library for Last Month 1915.

With slight decreases in the number of registrations of both adults and juveniles, the circulation of the Waco public library during the month of December, 1915, showed considerable increases in both classes, according to figures contained in the monthly report to the board of directors of the library by Miss Pauline McCauley, librarian. Miss McCauley's report, which was a survey of the activities of the library organization for the month, is as follows:

Circulation—

	Adult.	Juvenile.	Total.
1915	4,536	3,302	6,828
1914	4,431	2,618	6,449
	105	284	389
Registrations—
1915	92	44	136
	51	26	87

The library was open to the public 26 days and for the circulation of books 25 days, Christmas Day being a holiday. There were circulated from the library desk 6,828 volumes, 4,536 of which were adult and 2,302 children's books. In addition to the juvenile books borrowed from the library desk, 1,717 were loaned from the collections in the schools and the Evangelia Settlement. Collections were placed in the North Fourth Street and the South Waco schools in December. The library now has eight deposit stations from which books go into the homes, of the Waco people who live too far from the central library to visit it as often as they would like.

Library Activities.

One hundred and thirty-six applications were made for readers' cards during the month, 87 less than were made in December, 1914. However, due to registrations of old applications, there were 69 renewals in 1914 and only 27 in 1915.

The story hours for the month were attended by 227 children. During the absence of Miss Ingram and Mr. Crouch for Christmas holidays, Miss Pharr kindly told one story and Miss Nellie Lee Hill another.

Two hundred and ninety-four readers visited the reading rooms on the four Sundays of the month. The largest number for one Sunday was 93, of which 60 were men.

During the month 36 volumes were added to the shelves, most of which were gifts from the following: Catholic Study club, Catholic Bible; Federal Council of Churches, material on social service; superintendent of documents, government documents; Mrs. Joseph Eikel, subscription to "Fatherland," a German newspaper.

For floral decorations during the Christmas season, the library is indebted to Mrs. O. L. Stribling, Mrs. W. E. Darden, Wolfe the Florist and Mohan Bros. Mrs. Flora Cameron followed her annual custom of making a Christmas present of money to the library. This generous gift is always appreciated and used to the best advantage.

"Juvenile Book Week" was observed by the library with a display of books suitable for children. This exhibit was inspected by a greater number of parents than in 1914, but not by as large a number as we hoped.

The librarian attended a meeting of the combined Parent-Teachers' associations at the high school December 3, and spoke to the members of the facilities of the library, and particularly of the books which would be a help to them in their study of the child.

Miss Grace Stone, who has been on the staff since January 1, 1915, resigned on the 31st of December. Miss Ruth Norman, who has been serving an apprenticeship, was elected to fill Miss Stone's place.

Respectfully submitted,
PAULINE McCAULEY, Librarian.

It was all merry and pleasant. Mrs. Holderman placed a rustic basket of green in the center of her table. From this peered an abundance of greenery and dozens of pink blooms. About the base graceful greenery made mat effect while candles burned under pink noods. Roses decked the plate cards, and tiny art roses, very tiny, as holder to a wee candle, was on each confection cake, to accompany the ice. Within this merry party were, the Mesdames Lister of New Hampshire and William Breustedt, Miss Kate Friend with the Messrs. and Mesdames Williamson, Pio Crespi, Frank Forman, C. W. Wilson, Walter Gregg, Asbury Lambdin, L. F. Cowan.

Society Notes

Miss Marian Duncan is still guest of Mrs. Lurline Mosley Harvey in Philadelphia. On Monday, Mrs. Harvey and Miss Duncan went over to New Jersey for a little visit with Miss Esther Cornwall. From there, they enjoy the excitement of New York City for a few days. Returning Miss Duncan visits several former school friends in Pennsylvania. She is not due at home before early March.

Mrs. W. H. Jones is mentioned as luncheon hostess at early date. This is compliment to the debutantes.

Now, really was it a Waco woman who, seeing on her New York hotel menu that meals in rooms were extra, ordered, thinking she would have something more tempting than in the grill? Furthermore, was it a Waco woman who complained that when her order came it was not only no better but they charged more for it. Now, surely, this was not Waco, although they claim up in New York that it was.

Mrs. William Neale has been elected from the Henry Downs Chapter to the national session of Daughters of the Revolution which meets in Washington City in the spring.

Miss Jimmie Horne leaves within the next few days for Galveston. She will be the guest of Mrs. G. H. Mensing for the Artillery Ball, the most pretentious society event of the winter with Galveston society.

Within the arriving week Mrs. Charles Langhorne of Virginia with the Misses Minnie Killough and Nell Symes go for a few days with Mrs. Norma Conger McDonald in Cleburne.

Mrs. John W. Davis is now matron in her new home just built out on Sanger avenue. The move from the Kyle was made on Friday.

Is it not true that anything one does is appreciated by some people, and nothing one does is appreciated by some other people?

Several prominent Waco women are having papers prepared for admission into the Colonial Dames of Texas. When these are entered, Waco will have as many if not more as Austin and Dallas.

If our merchants put on the Spring Style Show, the pleasant query comes who will be their queen?

Following detention at Providence sanitarium for a few days, Mrs. S. E. Shelton is again at home.

By the way, Ash Wednesday is coming, the most propitious season of the entire year for Dan Cupid's pranks, and in late April, Easter is coming. This means are there to be any Easter brides?

It can not be impressed too strongly that acceptance to dinner makes presence imperative. There used to be a saying at the card table that nothing short of sudden illness excused a return lead of trumps. That remark applies to the dinner invitation literally.

Hostess for the Lily Auction Bridge has been changed. Mrs. E. A. Sturgis will entertain the club at the Kyle on Tuesday.

We are not telling who just yet, but a popular Waco matron is reported as making plans for a fifty thousand dollar addition to Waco's handsome homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Symes of Lubbock with Miss Nell Symes were one of the small dinner parties out at the Huaco club on Friday evening. John Fort and Miss Pauline McLendon were also out for dinner.

There is intimation of another large bridge matinee in private home at an early date.

Miss Neilson Gillespie is rehearsing sixty of her pupils for demonstration of correct and attractive dancing, to be given as a public entertainment on February 11.

Mrs. Kate Downs Hamilton of Fayetteville, Ark., is in Texas paying several visits to her Texas relatives. She is due here within a few days to be the guest of Mrs. Susan Lyle Downs, Austin avenue.

In giving her invitations, if a hostess announces a tea, her guests are permitted their call in street attire. The idea is, just dropping in from down town for the pleasing cup and chat. But if there is an at home or a reception, only light afternoon dress is the correct thing.

As note among the mid-year graduates, Frank Trau is exempt from all examinations and has unusual record for attendance during his high school years.

From art circles of New York it is heard that no less than fifty, all meritorious, exhibitions of art are now holding. And we can not scare up a single one. Surely, there is a wonderful work here for the Art League and the Palette and Brush.

Miss Johnnie Tilley, North Sixteenth street, is at Providence sanitarium, the result of operation on Saturday, for appendicitis.

Early within the coming week, Miss Louise Baker of Jackbillou leaves to be the guest of Miss Mary Alice Cochran, in Houston.

Among early week departures will be that of Miss Ruth Evens of West Columbus, to visit in Paris. She will be the guest of Miss Julia Smith.

Mrs. R. L. Leonard of Memphis, Tennessee, arrived on Saturday for a few days among her friends here.

The Mesdames J. E. Horne, J. M. McCelvey of Temple, and Erwin Clark who were a week end party to Dallas, have returned.

Mrs. William Carroll of Thirteenth and Clay is at home from a visit in Fort Worth.

After several weeks with relatives in St. Louis, Mrs. Jesse Penix, Twelfth and Columbus, is at home.

Mrs. J. M. McCelvey, who had spent the week here and in Dallas left for her home in Temple on Saturday.

Mrs. T. Brooks Pearson, Mitchell street, has for her week end guests the Misses Katherine Owen and Louise Sullenberger, from Amarillo.

Mrs. H. F. Speer from St. Louis is guest of her sister, Mrs. H. A. Cochran, at the Savoy.

Mrs. J. Allen Meyers of Bryan is guest of Mrs. Holt on West Austin.

Among Saturday departures was that of Miss Margaret Griffith of Lexington, who has visited her sister, Mrs. Harry Baine, West Washington. Miss Griffith will be in Fort Worth until early spring.

Miss Lena Aaronson of Marlin is with Mrs. Wood, North Thirteenth, an out of town guest for the Progress club leap year ball.

Miss Grace Galloway of Gorman street is spending the next few weeks in Cisco and Ranger.

Mrs. J. L. Brockenborough of Columbus street is with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Holmes, in Houston.

Winter Camping.

The site chosen should be sheltered so far as possible from prevailing winds—behind a bit of woods or a bank—it may be a snow bank—or a dense growth of underbrush. Any protection of this nature fill add degrees to the atmosphere of the tent interior.

But more important than shelter is the condition of the ground underneath. Make careful observations to be certain that the ground is high and dry—of a porous nature if possible.

Bedding also presents its problems. The pneumatic mattresses are very useful, since the air chamber ingulates the sleeper against the dampness and cold of the ground. These are made by nearly all manufacturers of camping and hunting supplies.—Alfred Russell, in "Good Health."

The Great Dane.

The exigencies of fashion, that automatic swayer of destiny in human likes and dislikes, has placed the Great Dane on a pedestal the observed of all observers, and above the rank and file of its fellows. As a model for the painter or the sculptor, his grandly-shaped body and erectly-carried head, with its large and gracefully curved neck, set on strong, sloping shoulders, and his powerful legs and feet, at once single the Great Dane out conspicuously. The Great Dane comes from an ancient and probably pure bred race and from his appearance a race of considerable size. As its name indicates, the country of its origin is undoubtedly Denmark, although it is said that under various names a similar breed was to be found throughout the northern portion of the European continent, more especially in Germany. All who know the Great Dane, and he has made many a stanch admirer, have discovered his worth and honesty as a trusty friend and companion. Of all the larger breeds of dogs he seems to be the one best fitted to be at once the adornment and safeguard of the home, and for his size it is wonderful with what ease he can accommodate himself to a limited space.—New York Sun.

The Great Dane.

The exigencies of fashion, that automatic swayer of destiny in human likes and dislikes, has placed the Great Dane on a pedestal the observed of all observers, and above the rank and file of its fellows. As a model for the painter or the sculptor, his grandly-shaped body and erectly-carried head, with its large and gracefully curved neck, set on strong, sloping shoulders, and his powerful legs and feet, at once single the Great Dane out conspicuously. The Great Dane comes from an ancient and probably pure bred race and from his appearance a race of considerable size. As its name indicates, the country of its origin is undoubtedly Denmark, although it is said that under various names a similar breed was to be found throughout the northern portion of the European continent, more especially in Germany. All who know the Great Dane, and he has made many a stanch admirer, have discovered his worth and honesty as a trusty friend and companion. Of all the larger breeds of dogs he seems to be the one best fitted to be at once the adornment and safeguard of the home, and for his size it is wondrful with what ease he can accommodate himself to a limited space.—New York Sun.

T. M. GAUNTT NEW SANTA FE T. P. A. IN THIS TERRITORY

OTHER PROMOTIONS ANNOUNCED IN OFFICIAL CIRCULAR ARE OF INTEREST TO WACOANS.

T. M. Gauntt, local city passenger agent of the Santa Fe, was called to Galveston during the latter part of the week by W. S. Keenan, general passenger agent of that road and was there informed that he was due a promotion by the road to take effect on February 1. The promotion comes as a recognition of the services of Mr. Gauntt during the five years he has been connected with the Santa Fe. During these five years Mr. Gauntt has received promotions three different times and the last one makes him traveling passenger agent.

Entering the service at Houston, Mr. Gauntt was acting as assistant city passenger agent, and was transferred from there to city passenger agent at Beaumont. After two years' service at that place the city passenger agency at Waco was given him. The Waco station is one point higher in the service than is Beaumont. After just one year's service here he now goes to the higher position as traveling passenger agent. The headquarters for the traveling agent is at Temple and Mr. Gauntt will remove there shortly after February 1 from his present home at 900 North Twelfth street.

Mr. Gauntt will be succeeded here by Ashley Poynor, who is now city passenger agent at Beaumont.

In the list of changes to be made by the Santa Fe company effective on the first of the month is also J. J. Abernathy, formerly city passenger agent here, but now traveling passenger agent from New Orleans. He is transferred to the same position at Atlanta, Ga.

Other changes to be made in personnel of the road as contained in the official circular, are as follows:

W. L. McWhirter, general freight agent, New Orleans, is transferred to Fort Worth, with title of division freight agent.

S. G. Dickson, commercial agent, Fort Worth, is transferred to New Orleans, with title of general agent, representing both freight and passenger departments.

E. H. Dallas, district passenger agent, San Antonio, is promoted to the position of general agent passenger department, Santa Fe system lines, at Atlanta.

H. Y. Williams, traveling passenger agent, Temple, is transferred to San Antonio, same title, vice E. H. Dallas, transferred.

J. J. Abernathy, traveling passenger agent, New Orleans, is transferred to Atlanta, same title, reporting to the general agent passenger department.

T. M. Gauntt, city passenger agent, Waco, is transferred to Temple, with title, traveling passenger agent, vice H. Y. Williams, transferred.

Ashley Poynor, city agent, Beaumont, is transferred to Waco, same title, vice T. M. Gauntt, transferred.

Richard Hancock is appointed city passenger agent, Beaumont, vice Ashley Poynor, transferred.

E. M. Sherwood is appointed passenger and freight solicitor, New Orleans, reporting to the gentral agent.

CHARTER COMMITTEE TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING THIS WEEK

Several matters of importance will be brought before the charter revision committee at the next regular weekly meeting Friday night and a large attendance is requested. Considerable business was transacted by the committee last Friday night but several items were held over a week. Probably one of the most important discussions that will come up will be the revising of the city's boundary limit. It is believed by members of the committee that there is certain property now included in the city limits which should be excluded and also certain parts of the city that should be included that are at present out of the city limits.

The sub-committee which was appointed last week to investigate the city commission's request for the committee to draft an amendment calling for a cemetery commission will report at the next meeting. This sub-committee is composed of R. H. Rogers, Judge J. N. Gallagher, J. R. Spencer, Sr., R. A. Word and W. A. Poage. A report will also be heard from the sub-committee representing the various wards which was appointed to further investigate the amendment to the charter, which, if passed, would call for seven city commissioners instead of four, and would give the city commission power to select all city officers and employes with the exception of the public education department and the waterworks department. This sub-committee is composed of C. D. Carley, first ward; Judge Marshall Surratt, second ward; Dr. J. T. Harrington, third ward; R. H. Rogers, fourth ward, chairman; W. T. Moore, fifth ward, and Frank T. West, sixth ward.

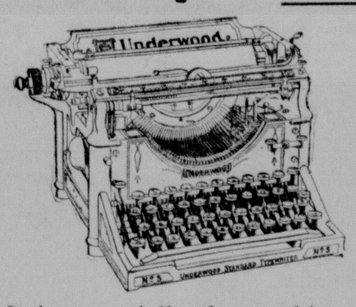

Ad Club to Discuss Three Materials of Printed Advertising

The committee which was appointed last week to investigate a permanent location for the home of the Waco Ad Club will report Thursday at the regular club meeting to be held at 12:15 p. m. at the State House hotel. This committee is composed of Dick Smith, W. P. Killingsworth and Louis Crow.

One of the regular lessons in the advertising course the club is pursuing will be held, the subject being "The Most Effective Use of Type, Ink and Paper in Preparing Forms of Printed Advertising." The speaker to discuss this subject has not been selected.

BARTON DISAPPROVES Y. M. B. L. CAMPAIGN

HE TELLS WHY COMMUNICATION WAS NOT READ AT RECENT WET-DRY DEBATE HERE.

Organization Departing from Legitimate Sphere in Poll Tax Matter, Says Anti-Saloon League Head.

The Morning News has received the following copy of a letter addressed by Dr. A. J. Barton, superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon League, to W. H. Hoffmann, W. L. Edmond and W. T. Wheeler, composing the poll tax payment campaign committee of the Young Men's Business League:

"Dear Sirs:

"Your letter of January 15, addressed to the 'Chairman of Wet-Dry-Dialogue-Debate-Meeting Waco, Texas,' was handed to me last Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist church as I presided over the meeting. You ask that the chairman of the meeting urge upon the audience that each individual pay his poll tax.

"I had already seen your letter as published in the Waco papers, with the explanation that it would be sent to the chairman of each meeting. It would be a great pleasure to do anything that you gentlemen might request, so far as I could do so consistently with my conviction of right and duty. I regret to have to advise that I did not make the announcement which you requested, nor could I do so without what I regarded as a violation of right principles.

"I have been a member of the Young Men's Business League for quite a while and rejoice in all its good work, as I rejoice in everything that makes for the prosperity of our city without bringing harm. I regard that the function of the Young Men's Business League is purely commercial and whenever it turns aside to engage in anything social or political it seems to me it departs from its legitimate sphere. I very much regret that it has done this in several instances.

Upholds Attorney General.

"Not having been able to attend the meetings regularly and not knowing the inside workings of the organization, I do not know the full merits of the controversy between the Y. M. B. L. and the attorney general's department at Austin. It may possibly be that the Y. M. B. L. and its managers have not meant at all to be used in behalf of any special interest or any phase of political thought and action. Even though this be true, it is quite possible that by the shrewd manipulations of the liquor interests they have enlisted the activities of the Y. M. B. L. in the so-called 'poll tax campaign.' I know of a certainty that the general movement on the part of commercial organizations in Texas to secure the payment of poll taxes has been backed by the liquor interests of Texas, but, altogether aside from that phase of the question, I find myself unable to approve the entrance of commercial organizations into the political realm. As you know, I am thoroughly opposed to the licensed liquor traffic and stand for its speedy abolition, but if the Y. M. B. L. were to seek the payment of poll taxes for the express purpose of forwarding the prohibition cause my judgment would as heartily disapprove its course as now. The poll tax matter is a political matter, whatever else may be said of it and no commercial organization, in my judgment, has any right to enter the political field. Again, aside from my personal judgment at this point, the attorney general's department of the state of Texas has given its opinion on this subject in terms unmistakable. Judge Keeling, one of the assistants in that department, made a special visit to Waco to look into the methods used by the Y. M. B. L. I do not know his findings but I do know that the attorney general believes it is a violation of the spirit if not of the letter of the law for commercial organizations to interest themselves in these political matters. I have always sought to be a law-abiding citizen and I could not put myself against the attorney general, as I would have had to do if I had made any announcement in response to the request of you gentlemen representing the Y. M. B. L.

"As you had in advance through the press made your letter public, I could make no announcement or request about the payment of poll taxes without seeming to thus represent the Y. M. B. L. fhich, for the reasons herein stated, I could not do. You need no assurance that I regret my inability to comply with your request and that my failure to do so is due in no sense to lack of personal esteem. As your letter had been made public through the press and as questions may have been raised why the announcement and request concerning the payment of poll taxes was not made at the meeting I deem it proper to give this letter to the Waco papers for Sunday morning.

"Very truly yours,
"A. J. BARTON."

Upstairs Clothing Store for Women Is New Idea for Waco

J. A. Goldberg, who for the last year and a half has been buying manager of the millinery department of the Goldstein-Migel company, will open an exclusive ready-to-wear clothing establishment for women about February 1, at 507½ Austin avenue, across the hall from Segall's upstairs shoe parlor.

Mr. Goldberg came to Waco about eighteen months ago from the north where he had been connected with several large clothing establishments in the capacity of buying manager during which time he became very familiar with the clothing business and is recognized as an authority on the latest in ready-to-wear goods. While in Waco, Mr. Goldberg has made a large number of friends. Mr. Goldberg believes there is a demand for an upstairs clothing house such as he intends to open.

The building which will be occupied by the new firm is being renovated and remodeled and will be in excellent condition for the opening.

BAPTISTS DISCUSS SANITARIUM PLANS AT MONDAY MEETING

The meeting of the general committee in charge of the arrangements for the proposed $100,000 Baptist sanitarium which was to have been held last week but postponed because of the absence from the city of two of the members of the committee, will be held Monday afternoon in the office of John F. Rowe, in the Amicable building. Rev. Dr. J. M. Dawson, chairman of the general committee, and Rev. Dr. E. S. Groner, chairman of the executive committee, were the members of the committee who were absent last week as they were assisting in a revival meeting which is now in progress at the University of Texas under the general supervision of Dr. Raymond Robinson.

Rev. Dr. Groner returned from Austin yesterday afternoon and Rev. Dr. Dawson is expected to return this morning. At the committee meeting Monday a campaign chairman who will direct a campaign to raise funds for the sanitarium will be selected by the board in order that the project can be pushed as soon as possible. An ideal site for the sanitarium was purchased January 7.

T. M. GAUNTT NEW SANTA FE T. P. A. IN THIS TERRITORY

OTHER PROMOTIONS ANNOUNCED IN OFFICIAL CIRCULAR ARE OF INTEREST TO WACOANS.

T. M. Gauntt, local city passenger agent of the Santa Fe, was called to Galveston during the latter part of the week by W. S. Keenan, general passenger agent of that road and was there informed that he was due a promotion by the road to take effect on February 1. The promotion comes as a recognition of the services of Mr. Gauntt during the five years he has been connected with the Santa Fe. During these five years Mr. Gauntt has received promotions three different times and the last one makes him traveling passenger agent.

Entering the service at Houston, Mr. Gauntt was acting as assistant city passenger agent, and was transferred from there to city passenger agent at Beaumont. After two years' service at that place the city passenger agency at Waco was given him. The Waco station is one point higher in the service than is Beaumont. After just one year's service here he now goes to the higher position as traveling passenger agent. The headquarters for the traveling agent is at Temple and Mr. Gauntt will remove there shortly after February 1 from his present home at 900 North Twelfth street.

Mr. Gauntt will be succeeded here by Ashley Poynor, who is now city passenger agent at Beaumont.

In the list of changes to be made by the Santa Fe company effective on the first of the month is also J. J. Abernathy, formerly city passenger agent here, but now traveling passenger agent from New Orleans. He is transferred to the same position at Atlanta, Ga.

Other changes to be made in personnel of the road as contained in the official circular, are as follows:

W. L. McWhirter, general freight agent, New Orleans, is transferred to Fort Worth, with title of division freight agent.

S. G. Dickson, commercial agent, Fort Worth, is transferred to New Orleans, with title of general agent, representing both freight and passenger departments.

E. H. Dallas, district passenger agent, San Antonio, is promoted to the position of general agent passenger department, Santa Fe system lines, at Atlanta.

H. Y. Williams, traveling passenger agent, Temple, is transferred to San Antonio, same title, vice E. H. Dallas, transferred.

J. J. Abernathy, traveling passenger agent, New Orleans, is transferred to Atlanta, same title, reporting to the general agent passenger department.

T. M. Gauntt, city passenger agent, Waco, is transferred to Temple, with title, traveling passenger agent, vice H. Y. Williams, transferred.

Ashley Poynor, city agent, Beaumont, is transferred to Waco, same title, vice T. M. Gauntt, transferred.

Richard Hancock is appointed city passenger agent, Beaumont, vice Ashley Poynor, transferred.

E. M. Sherwood is appointed passenger and freight solicitor, New Orleans, reporting to the gentral agent.

CHARTER COMMITTEE TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING THIS WEEK

Several matters of importance will be brought before the charter revision committee at the next regular weekly meeting Friday night and a large attendance is requested. Considerable business was transacted by the committee last Friday night but several items were held over a week. Probably one of the most important discussions that will come up will be the revising of the city's boundary limit. It is believed by members of the committee that there is certain property now included in the city limits which should be excluded and also certain parts of the city that should be included that are at present out of the city limits.

The sub-committee which was appointed last week to investigate the city commission's request for the committee to draft an amendment calling for a cemetery commission will report at the next meeting. This sub-committee is composed of R. H. Rogers, Judge J. N. Gallagher, J. R. Spencer, Sr., R. A. Word and W. A. Poage. A report will also be heard from the sub-committee representing the various wards which was appointed to further investigate the amendment to the charter, which, if passed, would call for seven city commissioners instead of four, and would give the city commission power to select all city officers and employes with the exception of the public education department and the waterworks department. This sub-committee is composed of C. D. Carley, first ward; Judge Marshall Surratt, second ward; Dr. J. T. Harrington, third ward; R. H. Rogers, fourth ward, chairman; W. T. Moore, fifth ward, and Frank T. West, sixth ward.

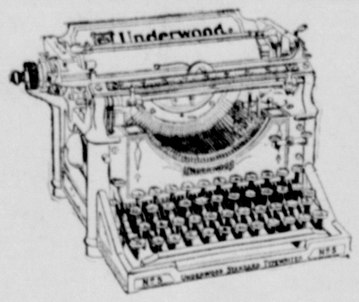

Ad Club to Discuss Three Materials of Printed Advertising

The committee which was appointed last week to investigate a permanent location for the home of the Waco Ad Club will report Thursday at the regular club meeting to be held at 12:15 p. m. at the State House hotel. This committee is composed of Dick Smith, W. P. Killingsworth and Louis Crow.

One of the regular lessons in the advertising course the club is pursuing will be held, the subject being "The Most Effective Use of Type, Ink and Paper in Preparing Forms of Printed Advertising." The speaker to discuss this subject has not been selected.

BARTON DISAPPROVES Y. M. B. L. CAMPAIGN

HE TELLS WHY COMMUNICATION WAS NOT READ AT RECENT WET-DRY DEBATE HERE.

Organization Departing from Legitimate Sphere in Poll Tax Matter, Says Anti-Saloon League Head.

The Morning News has received the following copy of a letter addressed by Dr. A. J. Barton, superintendent of the Texas Anti-Saloon League, to W. H. Hoffmann, W. L. Edmond and W. T. Wheeler, composing the poll tax payment campaign committee of the Young Men's Business League:

"Dear Sirs:

"Your letter of January 15, addressed to the 'Chairman of Wet-Dry-Dialogue-Debate-Meeting Waco, Texas,' was handed to me last Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist church as I presided over the meeting. You ask that the chairman of the meeting urge upon the audience that each individual pay his poll tax.

"I had already seen your letter as published in the Waco papers, with the explanation that it would be sent to the chairman of each meeting. It would be a great pleasure to do anything that you gentlemen might request, so far as I could do so consistently with my conviction of right and duty. I regret to have to advise that I did not make the announcement which you requested, nor could I do so without what I regarded as a violation of right principles.

"I have been a member of the Young Men's Business League for quite a while and rejoice in all its good work, as I rejoice in everything that makes for the prosperity of our city without bringing harm. I regard that the function of the Young Men's Business League is purely commercial and whenever it turns aside to engage in anything social or political it seems to me it departs from its legitimate sphere. I very much regret that it has done this in several instances.

Upholds Attorney General.

"Not having been able to attend the meetings regularly and not knowing the inside workings of the organization, I do not know the full merits of the controversy between the Y. M. B. L. and the attorney general's department at Austin. It may possibly be that the Y. M. B. L. and its managers have not meant at all to be used in behalf of any special interest or any phase of political thought and action. Even though this be true, it is quite possible that by the shrewd manipulations of the liquor interests they have enlisted the activities of the Y. M. B. L. in the so-called 'poll tax campaign.' I know of a certainty that the general movement on the part of commercial organizations in Texas to secure the payment of poll taxes has been backed by the liquor interests of Texas, but, altogether aside from that phase of the question, I find myself unable to approve the entrance of commercial organizations into the political realm. You need no assurance that I regret my inability to comply with your request and that my failure to do so is due in no sense to lack of personal esteem. As your letter had been made public through the press and as questions may have been raised why the announcement and request concerning the payment of poll taxes was not made at the meeting I deem it proper to give this letter to the Waco papers for Sunday morning.

GENERAL INSURANCE
Bankers Trust Co. Bldg. Waco, Texas

In the Democratic Primaries of 1916, Tom Connally of Marlin will be a candidate for the nomination for Congress from the Eleventh District, composed of McLennan, Bell, Falls, Coryell and Hamilton counties.

Mr. Connally was born August 19, 1877, in McLennan county, eight miles west of Waco, near the present site of Hewitt. He is the son of Jones Connally and Mary E. Connally. Jones Connally emigrated to Texas from Georgia in 1859 and settled in Brazos county. At the outbreak of the war between the states he joined the Confederate army and served throughout the war. After Lee's surrender he returned to his home in Texas and in the early seventies removed from Brazos county to McLennan county and engaged in farming. He resided in McLennan county until 1882. In the latter year he moved to Falls county and made his home near Eddy, where he lived until his death in 1903, and where his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Connally, still lives.

The subject of this sketch attended the public schools and later studied at Baylor University, where he graduated in 1896. After two years at the University of Texas he graduated in law in 1898.

When war was declared with Spain Mr. Connally left the university where he was a student and joined the Second Texas Regiment of Volunteer Infantry and served as an enlisted man until the regiment was mustered out of the service of the United States.

During 1896, for a time, Mr. Connally was connected with the old "Waco Evening Telephone," as a reporter.

For some time during 1899 Mr. Connally was in the law office of Jones & Sleeper at Waco. In 1899 he removed to Marlin and began the practice of law. He was elected to the Texas House of Representatives in 1900 and again in 1902 and served in the Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Legislatures. He served on the Judiciary and other committees in the Twenty-seventh Legislature and in the Twenty-eighth was chairman of Judiciary committee No. 2.

In the Twenty-eighth Legislature he and Hon. McDonald Meachum introduced and secured the passage of what was known as the "Connally-Meachum Anti-Trust Bill." This act was necessitated by the prior anti-trust law having been declared unconstitutional. The Connally-Meachum bill constitutes the present general anti-trust law of the state and its validity has been established in the Waters-Pierce cases and other anti-trust suits.

In 1904 he did not stand for re-election to the Legislature, but in 1906 was elected County Attorney of Falls county, and after serving four years, voluntarily retired. Immediately returning to the general practice of law, he has been successful as a practitioner and has built up a large general practice. As counsel he has been connected with some of the most important cases tried in Central Texas in recent years.

Mr. Connally is a member of the Marlin School Board and was recently selected as chairman of the Charter Commission elected to draft a new charter for the city of Marlin.

Mr. Connally has always been active in politics. When not a candidate himself, he has been interested in behalf of his friends, or the policies for which candidates have stood. He assisted in organizing the Wilson forces in Falls county prior to the county convention which resulted in sending a Wilson delegation to the state convention in 1912.

Mr. Connally's friends point out that McLennan county has had the Congressman in the person of Hon. R. L. Henry for twenty years, and that Bell county, prior to that time, enjoyed that distinction during the service in Congress of Hon. Geo. C. Pendleton. They aregue that this honor should now go to another county and point out that the fitness and qualifications of Falls county's candidate render him entirely capable of representing the best interests of the district.

He has a wide personal acquaintance over the district and expects to make an active and vigorous campaign. At a later date he will give publicity to his views on public questions and will outline his position with reference to those measures which probably will be presented to Congress for action.

Mass Meeting to Discuss Work Federal Commission

Local co-operation with the work of the federal industrial relations commission, of which Frank P. Walsh is chairman, and an expression which will assist in obtaining the passage by congress of a bill to publish reports of the findings of the commission, are expected to result from the mass meeting to be held in Labor Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The meeting is under the auspices of the Central Labor Council.

The list of speakers who will discuss the work of the federal relations commission include Dean J. L. Kesler of Baylor University; Postmaster Joe Coffey of Eddy, formerly legislator; Rev. P. H. Faulk, City Attorney John Maxwell and Frank Tirey.

Request will be made of the meeting for the appointment of a committee of non-union men to work with a similar committee from the Central Labor Council in co-operation with the federal committee. Local committees in cities of the state were advocated by Mr. Walsh in letters sent out several weeks ago. An expression of support for the bill now pending in congress to publish reports of the industrial relations commission will also be asked of the meeting.

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY BEAUTIFUL HAIR

DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR AND DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY AT ONCE.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

John T. Bonner Accepts Agency Southland Life

John T. Bonner, who for the past eleven years has been superintendent of the Pythian insurance department of the Knights of Pythias in Texas, has accepted the agency directorship of the Southland Life Insurance company, which is one of the largest companies in the state. Mr. Bonner will have offices in the Amicable building.

Since Mr. Bonner came to Waco sixteen months ago from Tyler he has been very active in the Rotary club and the Young Men's Business League. He was a member of the board of regents of the University of Texas during the time Thomas M. Campbell was governor. Since then he took charge of the Pythian insurance department of the Knights of Pythias, after retiring as grand chancellor, the highest office in the order in the state.

The new company with which Mr. Bonner is connected has made a splendid record in the state.

Steeplejack Will Climb Court House This Afternoon

The stunt of scaling the walls of the county court house will be repeated at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Grover C. Alldridge, professional steeplejack, of New York. Alldridge expects to climb the outside of the building from pavement to top of the dome. His former attempt to climb the dome after reaching the roof failed on account of the slippery condition of the tin covering, due to rain.

JUDGE CLARK DENIES WRIT OF MANDAMUS

HOLDS JURORS NOT ENTITLED TO FESS EXCEPT WHEN ATTENDING COURT.

Duty of Judicial Officers to Keep Expenses Down, Is Judge's Contention.

Whether or not a juror should be paid for days when he has been excused from service will have to be determined by the court of civil appeals, for Judge Erwin J. Clark yesterday declined to grant the writ of mandamus against R. V. McClain, as district clerk, requested by Sidney Haber. The action, which is unique, was brought by Attorney Nathan Patten. The case will be appealed.

In his answer to the application, Mr. McClain admits that Haber served as a juror over the time mentioned and that he was paid only for the days he was actually on duty, but says that instructions of the court were followed in payment of the fees.

Judge Clark not only bore Mr. McClain out in his statement that instructions had been given not to pay jury fees for days when the juror was not serving or attending, but stated his grounds for denying the writ in the following language:

"The acts of 1911, amending Art. 3232, Revised Statutes, reads as follows:

"'Each juror in civil cases shall receive two dollars and fifty cents for each day and for each fraction of a day he may serve or attend as such juror.'

"Relator herein was duly summoned and attended. He was excused morning of the week for which he was served and ordered to report back the following Wednesday morning, which he did, and thereupon he was actually in attendance for the period of time as stipulated in the petition for mandamus. Relator lived in Waco and during Tuesday was at his place of business following his usual vocation. It is my construction of the foregoing article that it was the intention of the legislature to allow a per diem of $2.50 for each and every day that a juror may serve or actually attend as such juror. If the juror be excused for any period of time covering a period of a day or more and returns to his home or place of business, he is not in attendance upon the court in the meaning of the statute. It has been my practice to allow jurors pay for any fraction of the day that they may attend or serve, and also for the fraction of the day consumed in returning to their homes or place of habitation, that is, if a juror is excused from Monday until Thursday and by reason of the distance he is compelled to travel he does not reach home until Tuesday, the day following, and would be required to leave his home Wednesday in order to report back at 9 o'clock the following Thursday, he should be paid for the days of Tuesday and Wednesday intervening by reason of the fact that those days or a fraction thereof was consumed in traveling.

"Art. 5169 of the Revised Civil Statutes reads as follows:

"'The court may adjourn the whole number of jurors for the week, or any part thereof, to any subsequent day of the term, but jurors shall not be paid for the time they may so stand adjourned.'

"This article seems to support the construction that I have placed upon the former article, and it is evident in my opinion that it was the intention of the legislature not to allow compensation to jurors for the time that they were not either serving or actually in physical attendance upon the court.

"The amounts paid yearly for jury fees in this county are considerable, and I consider it the duty of judicial officers to construe the statutes strictly, as the state, in the exercise of its sovereign powers, could enforce jury service without compensation, such obligation devolving upon the individual by virtue of his citizenship. All statutes providing compensation for service of like kind and character should, in my opinion, be construed literally and without qualification unless such qualification was as shown in the plain wording of the statute the intent of the legislature.

"For the reasons stated, the petition of Sidney Haber, relator, for mandamus against R. V. McClain, district clerk, is hereby refused."

Sem Nix, Public Weigher.

Sem Nix Announces for Public Weigher

If long and continued residence in McLennan county and Waco and experience in handling cotton are any recommendations, Public Weigher Sem Nix is well qualified for the office he is now holding. Mr. Nix has held the position through three cotton seasons and is now a candidate for re-election. His friends declare he is one of the best men in the business and predicts that the people of this precinct will honor him with another term.

Mr. Nix has only lived in McLennan county thirty-eight years, but that is about the best he could possibly do, seeing that he was born at Eddy just thirty-eight years ago. His father, L. B. Nix, settled at Eddy before the Civil war, and, for a time, was postmaster at Masterville, now known as Bruceville.

About the first thing Mr. Nix can remember is playing in a field of cotton. When he grew up he entered the cotton business and has had fifteen years experience in various phases of it. He has bought cotton, sold cotton and weighed cotton. In fact, if he had a middle name, nothing would fit except "Cotton."

When the public weighers of the state organized they elected a president unanimousiy, and Sem Nix was the man they picked. That shows what the public weighers think of him. It came time to re-elect officers again and Mr. Nix was chosen unanimously to succeed himself.

Waco wanted a warehouse in which to store cotton last fall. Co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce and the city government, Mr. Nix assumed the responsibility of handling the warehouse and there has not been a bale of cotton brought in this year to be stored but what there was a safe place for it with only a nominal charge.

The last two seasons have been lean ones for the public weighing business in Waco and Central Texas. Mr. Nix's friends think he ought to have a chance at the office again when there are prospects of the cotton crop coming back to normal.

Two More Sanger Buyers Leave for Eastern Markets

J. C. Daniel and Max Landman left yesterday for New York and other Eastern points on semi-annual buying trips, in connection with their respective departments of the Sanger store. Mr. Daniel is the buyer and manager of the ladies' hosiery, gloves, neckwear, handkerchiefs, jewelry, ribbons, laces, embroideries and dress trimmings departments, and Mr. Landman is buyer and manager of the wash goods, staple goods, linen, blanket and comfort departments. Both have been with Sanger Brothers, Waco, for a number of years, and both are experts in the buying and selling of merchandise handled in their respective departments.

This makes four buyers from the Sanger store now either in the markets or on the way to the markets to purchase new spring and summer merchandise. H. Taylor, buyer and manager of the silk and wool dress goods department, and Miss A. Hutmacher of the millinery department left for market last week. Other Sanger buyers will leave shortly on their semi-annual buying trips.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Compton mortuary chapel, with burial at Greenwood. Members of the Masonic order will act as pall bearers.

In the Democratic Primaries of 1916, Tom Connally of Marlin will be a candidate for the nomination for Congress from the Eleventh District, composed of McLennan, Bell, Falls, Coryell and Hamilton counties.

Mr. Connally was born August 19, 1877, in McLennan county, eight miles west of Waco, near the present site of Hewitt. He is the son of Jones Connally and Mary E. Connally. Jones Connally emigrated to Texas from Georgia in 1859 and settled in Brazos county. At the outbreak of the war between the states he joined the Confederate army and served throughout the war. After Lee's surrender he returned to his home in Texas and in the early seventies removed from Brazos county to McLennan county and engaged in farming. He resided in McLennan county until 1882. In the latter year he moved to Falls county and made his home near Eddy, where he lived until his death in 1903, and where his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Connally, still lives.

The subject of this sketch attended the public schools and later studied at Baylor University, where he graduated in 1896. After two years at the University of Texas he graduated in law in 1898.

When war was declared with Spain Mr. Connally left the university where he was a student and joined the Second Texas Regiment of Volunteer Infantry and served as an enlisted man until the regiment was mustered out of the service of the United States.

During 1896, for a time, Mr. Connally was connected with the old "Waco Evening Telephone," as a reporter.

For some time during 1899 Mr. Connally was in the law office of Jones & Sleeper at Waco. In 1899 he removed to Marlin and began the practice of law. He was elected to the Texas House of Representatives in 1900 and again in 1902 and served in the Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Legislatures. He served on the Judiciary and other committees in the Twenty-seventh Legislature and in the Twenty-eighth was chairman of Judiciary committee No. 2.

In the Twenty-eighth Legislature he and Hon. McDonald Meachum introduced and secured the passage of what was known as the "Connally-Meachum Anti-Trust Bill." This act was necessitated by the prior anti-trust law having been declared unconstitutional. The Connally-Meachum bill constitutes the present general anti-trust law of the state and its validity has been established in the Waters-Pierce cases and other anti-trust suits.

In 1904 he did not stand for re-election to the Legislature, but in 1906 was elected County Attorney of Falls county, and after serving four years, voluntarily retired. Immediately returning to the general practice of law, he has been successful as a practitioner and has built up a large general practice. As counsel he has been connected with some of the most important cases tried in Central Texas in recent years.

Mr. Connally is a member of the Marlin School Board and was recently selected as chairman of the Charter Commission elected to draft a new charter for the city of Marlin.

Mr. Connally has always been active in politics. When not a candidate himself, he has been interested in behalf of his friends, or the policies for which candidates have stood. He assisted in organizing the Wilson forces in Falls county prior to the county convention which resulted in sending a Wilson delegation to the state convention in 1912.

Mr. Connally's friends point out that McLennan county has had the Congressman in the person of Hon. R. L. Henry for twenty years, and that Bell county, prior to that time, enjoyed that distinction during the service in Congress of Hon. Geo. C. Pendleton. They aregue that this honor should now go to another county and point out that the fitness and qualifications of Falls county's candidate render him entirely capable of representing the best interests of the district.

He has a wide personal acquaintance over the district and expects to make an active and vigorous campaign. At a later date he will give publicity to his views on public questions and will outline his position with reference to those measures which probably will be presented to Congress for action.

About the first thing Mr. Nix can remember is playing in a field of cotton. When he grew up he entered the cotton business and has had fifteen years experience in various phases of it. He has bought cotton, sold cotton and weighed cotton. In fact, if he had a middle name, nothing would fit except "Cotton."

When the public weighers of the state organized they elected a president unanimousiy, and Sem Nix was the man they picked. That shows what the public weighers think of him. It came time to re-elect officers again and Mr. Nix was chosen unanimously to succeed himself.

Waco wanted a warehouse in which to store cotton last fall. Co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce and the city government, Mr. Nix assumed the responsibility of handling the warehouse and there has not been a bale of cotton brought in this year to be stored but what there was a safe place for it with only a nominal charge.

The last two seasons have been lean ones for the public weighing business in Waco and Central Texas. Mr. Nix's friends think he ought to have a chance at the office again when there are prospects of the cotton crop coming back to normal.

Two More Sanger Buyers Leave for Eastern Markets

J. C. Daniel and Max Landman left yesterday for New York and other Eastern points on semi-annual buying trips, in connection with their respective departments of the Sanger store. Mr. Daniel is the buyer and manager of the ladies' hosiery, gloves, neckwear, handkerchiefs, jewelry, ribbons, laces, embroideries and dress trimmings departments, and Mr. Landman is buyer and manager of the wash goods, staple goods, linen, blanket and comfort departments. Both have been with Sanger Brothers, Waco, for a number of years, and both are experts in the buying and selling of merchandise handled in their respective departments.

This makes four buyers from the Sanger store now either in the markets or on the way to the markets to purchase new spring and summer merchandise. H. Taylor, buyer and manager of the silk and wool dress goods department, and Miss A. Hutmacher of the millinery department left for market last week. Other Sanger buyers will leave shortly on their semi-annual buying trips.

Aged Resident of City Dies

Allen G. Davis, aged 81 years, a Confederate veteran of Robert E. Lee's army, who for the last twenty years had been a resident of Waco, died yesterday at 11:55 a. m. at his residence, 116 Preston street. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Compton mortuary chapel, with burial at Greenwood. Members of the Masonic order will act as pall bearers.

Prior to coming to Waco Mr. Davis lived in the eastern portion of the county. He was a native of Alabama. While a member of the Confederate army he received seven wounds. He is survived by his widow and son, Harry G. Davis of Mt. Calm. The body is at the mortuary chapel of F. M. Compton.

Mass Meeting to Discuss Work Federal Commission

Local co-operation with the work of the federal industrial relations commission, of which Frank P. Walsh is chairman, and an expression which will assist in obtaining the passage by congress of a bill to publish reports of the findings of the commission, are expected to result from the mass meeting to be held in Labor Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The meeting is under the auspices of the Central Labor Council.

The list of speakers who will discuss the work of the federal relations commission include Dean J. L. Kesler of Baylor University; Postmaster Joe Coffey of Eddy, formerly legislator; Rev. P. H. Faulk, City Attorney John Maxwell and Frank Tirey.

Request will be made of the meeting for the appointment of a committee of non-union men to work with a similar committee from the Central Labor Council in co-operation with the federal committee. Local committees in cities of the state were advocated by Mr. Walsh in letters sent out several weeks ago. An expression of support for the bill now pending in congress to publish reports of the industrial relations commission will also be asked of the meeting.

DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR AND DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY AT ONCE.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

STATE OF OAXACA IN DESPERATE PLIGHT

RETURNED MINER SAYS BANDITS ARE KILLING AMERICANS AT WILL.

In Affidavit Claim Is Made That Aguilar and Zapata Do About as They Please.

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 22.—The state of Oaxaca has been overrun with bandits who have been killing Americans while carrying on a program of murder and plunder despite every effort of Carranza authorities to preserve order, according to an affidavit made by Andrew J. Trumbo of Los Angeles, a mining man, who arrived here today from Oaxaca, the capital of that state.

In El Paso yesterday, Trumbo related an account of the blowing up recently of a passenger train near Puebla with a loss of twenty-three lives.

"Twenty miles southwest of Ejutla, I saw the bodies of six men hanging to trees and I was told by Mexicans that they were Americans."

Trumbo stated in his affidavit: "No one knew their names."

"About a quarter of a mile further on I saw two more badly decomposed bodies hanging to a tree. I was told they also were Americans, but I could not find out their names. The bodies all were too badly decomposed to attempt to identify any of them or to obtain even a general description."

Conditions became so unbearable that he could not remain in the Mexican state with his family, Trumbo declared in his statement, in explaining his departure from Mexico. He and his wife were mistreated and insulted, he said.

The affidavit of Trumbo, to which was appended his passports, letters and receipts to show that he had been in localities mentioned in the statement, says:

"Name is A. J. Trumbo and for eleven months I have been employed by the Indiana-Oaxaca Mining company with headquarters at Mina El Carmine. While the government of that state affords all possible protection to foreigners the country is overrun by bandits and dominated on the north by General Aguilar, a former federal commander, who exacts ransom from every foreigner passing through his stronghold at Talapa.

"He is fortified there by 300 ex-federal soldiers armed with cannon and machine guns. Their position is such that they entirely dominate that section of the country and they can easily stand off an army of 20,000 Carranza soldiers.

"Zapata bandits are camped within a half mile of the railway. They frequently dynamite trains and are robbing or killing foreigners at will.

British Submarine Does Unusual Stunt

By The Associated Press.

Rome, Jan. 22, Via Paris, Jan. 23, 12:15 a. m.—Reports of the destruction of an Austrian hydro-aeroplane by a British submarine which also sank a torpedo boat coming to its rescue, were received here today. The incident occurred near Grado. The submarine caught the seaplane after it had fallen into the sea as the result of engine trouble and captured two officers who were piloting it. The submarine then torpedoed the seaplane.

The torpedo boat which probably was escorting the seaplane appeared and the submarine by skilful maneuver fired a second torpedo. The torpedo boat sank instantly.

Panama Disturbance Being Investigated

By the Associated Press.

Panama, Jan. 22.—Action independent of diplomatic channels is to be taken by the canal government relative to a declared unprovoked attack recently upon Manager McEwen of the hotel Washington at Colon by members of the Porrista party, who were welcoming Dr. Ramon Valdez from his return from the United States, where he was a delegate to the Pan-American Scientific congress.

That action was to be taken was made clear today when Major General George W. Goethals, governor of the canal zone, ordered an exhaustive investigation into the affair, declaring that the Pan-American government must deal adequately with the members of the party, one of whom is said to be Julio Valdez, a cousin of Dr. Valdez.

It is said that the welcoming party gave a banquet for Dr. Valdez and later escorted him to the hotel, where they began a noisy demonstration, which Manager McEwen attempted to quell owing to the lateness of the hour. It is said McEwen was then attacked.

Dr. Valdez is the candidate of the Porrista party for president.

Willing Spencer, second secretary of the American legation, also is investigating the affair, preparatory to making a report to Secretary of State Lansing.

WOMAN'S INTERESTS AND FIELD OF ACTIVITY

To most people it seems altogether the right and natural thing that women are supposed to have very little concern about anything except clothes and problems of housekeeping. The average department in the newspaper devoted to women is usually filled with social events, doings of the "400," or else given up to cooking recipes and suggestions such as making napkins of the best parts of worn-out tablecloths. There are women who read the society news and long to arrive at the eminence of seeing their own names in its columns. There are other women who get help from the domestic items of the department, but the ones who really need this help do not belong to the reading class.

It is getting so that the society editor (unless he is a man) slips all kinds of information and suggestions into that column, so that the woman seeking a stone frequently gets hold of a fish. Some intelligent thought is stirred in her mind when she was merely expecting to revel in the imaginary lights and colors of social dissipation. In this way the society and the domestic columns may serve a most excellent purpose, leading the frivolous and conservative to broader knowledge and interests. If home-making and the rearing of children were occupations requiring no development of the very highest human endowments, it might be expedient to encourage women to grow up with the idea that their mental powers could find sufficient exercises in planning clothes, meals and social functions. One who has seen the woeful failure of a narrow, unsympathetic woman in home-making needs no argument to be convinced that the best mind and the best training are none too good for such a calling. A woman may be the most perfect of housekeepers, the most economical of managers, and a conscientious, good woman, yet fail utterly as a home-maker. Her horizon is limited by her own thoughts and experiences. She doesn't understand her husband's need of quiet and rest, nor her children's need of amusement and sympathy. She probably has a hard life and wears herself out nagging, and house-cleaning, and economizing, when with the same expense she might have a comfortable home and a cheerful family. She has been taught that a woman's duty was in her home, and she has strictly limited her activities to her home, possibly making an exception of "blessing out" the school teacher for trying to civilize one of her children whom she has neglected except as to food and clothes. It is usually these "home women" who make trouble for teachers. The woman who has taken the "world for her oyster" and all humanity as her concern, is a wise enough mother to study her children's weakness and to co-operate with the teacher in correcting them; but to be such a mother one must be born with the capacity and then have the opportunity and encouragement for becoming a real helpmeet to man and an inspiration to children. No study of cook books and fashion plates will do this. Any human being is in duty bound to present as good an appearance as possible, but no one can deny that too much emphasis has been placed on personal adornment for women. The girl who is taught to be useful and considerate at home will almost always make a good wife and mother so far as material things are concerned. When we come to the greater things which are spiritual and intellectual, a broader foundation is required. Ignorance and zeal may de infinite harm and in no one are they more harmful than in a wife and mother. She may infuse such prejudice and selfishness into her family that generations will show the effect. The greater her natural ability, the greater her power for injury. Some women who have brought up families of rough, selfish children who are honest from policy alone might have given the country the same number of cultured, public-spirited citizens, if these women had been taught that they were themselves citizens and owed the use of all their powers to the world outside of their homes as well as within them.

The old theory which the south held in common with the Turks that seclusion was best for women, may be very pretty but it is not reasonable. It denies to women the means of development which every human being needs. No woman can train her children for usefulness in a world of which she knows nothing. If she is content to give her life to material interests and frivolous pleasures, sin will lie at her door when her son becomes a drunkard or a menace to female virtue; or when her neglected young daughter goes from one indiscretion to another till she has gone too far to return to innocence.

The fact that so many women are indifferent to woman suffrage can be accounted for only on the theory that they have accepted this role of ignorance for the sex and do not realize how entirely all modern circumstances are controlled by politics. If white people at the north became frantic over negro slavery, surely women everywhere ought to be enthused with a burning zeal to liberate those members of their sex who are slaves to a bondage which shuts out all hope on earth or in Heaven. A clipping from the Toledo Blade says: "The unanswerable argument against woman suffrage is that women might vote men into a state of decency." A woman who knows of the terrible effects of the social evil as now tolerated by men cannot fail to long for the only weapon which can be used against it. Ignorance may be bliss, but it has some fearful sins to answer for. Our mothers and grandmothers were not so much to blame, but the women of this generation "have no cloak for their sin."

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD WRITES LETTER

When Employe Is Injured Insurance Should Be Paid Promptly Is Declared.

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Jan. 22.—Letters are being sent by the Texas industrial accident board to the 4000 subscribers to the workmen's compensation law, explaining the administration of the law. Co-operation is asked and attention is called to the sharp practices in some instances. The letter follows:

"Gentlemen:

"This board wishes you to assist it in bringing about a just, equitable and expeditious application of the act under which you are operating in carrying your compensation insurance.

"The purpose of this act is to, above all things, and as far as possible, eliminate accidents or reduce them to a minimum. This purpose is stimulated by the consciousness of the state, the insurance company and the employer that it much better not to injure a man than to attempt to compensate him should he be injured. Of course, the injured man would infinitely prefer to work in a safe place, and avoid being injured rather than to receive even double compensation for an injury and then undergo the pain and suffering consequent thereto, and perhaps be lame for life. And for a stronger reason the loved ones of the laboring man and who are dependent upon him for support and sustenance, would be much better cared for and infinitely happier if he was placed where he could work free from accident and injury than they would should they lose him and then receive many times the amount of money allowed by the act for compensation for their loss, which you and I know cannot be measured in money.

"This, then, is one of the underlying impulses for the existence of the compensation act. It is one of the fundamental reasons for its enforcement. It is this high purpose which invariably appeals to the spirit of altruism that ought to control, even in our business relations with one another. While the board feels that it could rest its appeal to you to adopt, with reference to your place of business and your employes, the motto, 'Safety First,' upon this proposition alone, yet there is a commercial idea also underlying this whole proposition which will not only justify, but recompense you for adopting and living up to this motto.

"Whenever the ratio of injuries, accidents and catastrophes with reference to employes is reduced to a minimum, the rate of your insurance will be automatically reduced to a minimum. It is a fundamental principle of this character of insurance that when accidents increase, cost of administration and amount of compensation increases; therefore it follows that the cost of the insurance to the employer increases, that is, the rate goes higher. That the converse of this is true is self-evident.

"Therefore, this board urges upon you in the interest of yourself, of the employe, of those dependent upon him, of the insurance company carrying these risks and of the state whose interest is aroused and active in this matter, that you apply to your business and your place of business, the highest degree of efficiency, vigilance and care to the end that safety shall be the rule, and its benefits will accrue to all.

"The other proposition that this board is anxious for you to consider along with them to the end that more desirable conditions may be brought about, is to assist the board in seeing that when an employe is injured that he is promptly and adequately compensated within the terms and scope of this act, by the insurance company carrying your policy. The subscriber, primarily, pays the insurance of his employe and owes him the moral and legal duty to see that when he is injured that compensation follows.

It is the theory of the compensation law that the product which the employer produces through the instrumentality of the employe should bear the burden of the accident incident to the production of that particular product. Therefore, the insurance is as much a part of your business as the raw material which you buy to manufacture. It is a charge against your business which is ultimately met and liquidated by the consumer of the products thereof. If you buy raw material for manufacture and you discover that you are given a bad and wholly unfit quality you very promptly and vigorously call your vendor to account and force him to make good so it should be with our insurance. If you pay good money to an insurance company to guarantee the safety of your employes and then you silently and knowingly permit that insurance company to rob that employe by deferring, postponing, diminishing or defeating the payment of his compensation when he becomes lame and crippled, you not only do him a gross wrong, but you have permitted the insurance to sell you worthless insurance, and you ought to do by them just as you would by your vendor, who sold you worthless raw material.

"You ought to make it your business to see that the insurance company pays to your employe that which under the statute becomes practically a liquidated demand upon the injury being inflicted on the temploye. When the employe realizes that the employer not only secures for him the best insurance in the market, but is also actively interested in his receiving his compensation, upon being injured, it strengthens the relation of good fellowship which modern business experience shows is essential to the success of any business and it follows then that it is the moral, legal and commercial obligation of the employer to see that his injured employe gets the full benefit of the insurance, which the employer bought for him as a commercial product, and which he has agreed to receive as compensation for any injury which he might sustain.

"Whatever tends to economy of production, to friendly relationship and good fellowship between employer and employe, to reduce accidents, lessen the liability of the employer or alleviate the suffering of the employe ought to meet and will meet the approval of the commercial and business conscience of the world.

"In addition to these reasons, when you accept the terms of the statute in question you become an active party to its enforcement and you are charged by the duties of good citizenship, called into action by your connection with the statute, to see that you get the insurance that you bought, and that the injured employe gets the compensation to which he is entitled.

"We want you to apply to the insurance companies of this state the rule and doctrine of a commercial square deal as between them and your injured employes.

"The way for you to do that is to report your accidents promptly to the board and to the insurance company, and then see if the insurance company does its duty, and if it does not, in your judgment, meet its obligation, then you kindly report fully and in detail to this board what you conceive to be its delinquencies in dealing with your employes, and the board will take necessary action against the companies. And if you, yourself, find that you have an insurance company whose policy is to defeat the claims of your injured employes, then we suggest that you cancel your policy with such insurance company and take your insurance with a company which is striving to comply with the law.

"Our reason for writing you this letter is that there are now a number of insurance companies in this state whose persistent policy is to procrastinate payments, defer investigations, "jew down" compensation, and do everything in their power to harass injured employes to the end that they may ultimately defeat the purpose of the act and defraud unfortunate men and women of the compensation they are justly entitled to.

"It is the determined purpose of this board to ascertain the policy of each insurance company in this regard and doing business in Texas, and if they persist in this unlawful purpose, to strike each insurance company from the list of those doing business before the board and then notify the subscribers thereof that they are not fit to carry insurance on the lives and limbs of the employes of this state.

"This is a drastic remedy, and, while it will, if necessary, be resorted to, we do not wish to invoke it if the desired results can be otherwise obtained. But they must pay the compensation and pay it with the expedition contemplated by the statute, for to permit it to be done otherwise, is robbery to the employer, an outrage to the employe and would be a disgrace to this board.

"We also ask you, in connection with the matters hereing suggested, not to be unmindful that you owe a commercial obligation to the insurance company and that it is your duty to see that it is not imposed upon by the fake claims of the magingerer.

"It is the desire of the board, and you can assist us to consummate this desire, that the insurance companies of this state should pay a dollar to any individual under this act unless it is liable therefor. For them to do so would not only be morally and legally wrong, but it increases the cost of operation, the expense or administering the law and ultimately falls as an unjust charge upon the consumer of the product produced. While its moral effect would not be so far reaching as in the case where the insurance company robbed the employe it would necessarily be in the same objectionable category, and for that reason we are exceedingly anxious that you assist us in a just, equitable and expeditious administration of this statute. This board invites any suggestions that you may deem advisable to make to it relative to the operation, effect or administration of this act."

The communication is signed by T. H. McGregor, chairman; J. H. Fricke and J. H. Fowler, members of the board, and attested by B. A. Cox Jr., secretary.

STATE OF OAXACA IN DESPERATE PLIGHT

RETURNED MINER SAYS BANDITS ARE KILLING AMERICANS AT WILL.

In Affidavit Claim Is Made That Aguilar and Zapata Do About as They Please.

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 22.—The state of Oaxaca has been overrun with bandits who have been killing Americans while carrying on a program of murder and plunder despite every effort of Carranza authorities to preserve order, according to an affidavit made by Andrew J. Trumbo of Los Angeles, a mining man, who arrived here today from Oaxaca, the capital of that state.

In El Paso yesterday, Trumbo related an account of the blowing up recently of a passenger train near Puebla with a loss of twenty-three lives.

"Twenty miles southwest of Ejutla, I saw the bodies of six men hanging to trees and I was told by Mexicans that they were Americans."

Trumbo stated in his affidavit: "No one knew their names."

"About a quarter of a mile further on I saw two more badly decomposed bodies hanging to a tree. I was told they also were Americans, but I could not find out their names. The bodies all were too badly decomposed to attempt to identify any of them or to obtain even a general description."

Conditions became so unbearable that he could not remain in the Mexican state with his family, Trumbo declared in his statement, in explaining his departure from Mexico. He and his wife were mistreated and insulted, he said.

The affidavit of Trumbo, to which was appended his passports, letters and receipts to show that he had been in localities mentioned in the statement, says:

"Name is A. J. Trumbo and for eleven months I have been employed by the Indiana-Oaxaca Mining company with headquarters at Mina El Carmine. While the government of that state affords all possible protection to foreigners the country is overrun by bandits and dominated on the north by General Aguilar, a former federal commander, who exacts ransom from every foreigner passing through his stronghold at Talapa.

"He is fortified there by 300 ex-federal soldiers armed with cannon and machine guns. Their position is such that they entirely dominate that section of the country and they can easily stand off an army of 20,000 Carranza soldiers.

"Zapata bandits are camped within a half mile of the railway. They frequently dynamite trains and are robbing or killing foreigners at will.

British Submarine Does Unusual Stunt

By The Associated Press.

Rome, Jan. 22, Via Paris, Jan. 23, 12:15 a. m.—Reports of the destruction of an Austrian hydro-aeroplane by a British submarine which also sank a torpedo boat coming to its rescue, were received here today. The incident occurred near Grado. The submarine caught the seaplane after it had fallen into the sea as the result of engine trouble and captured two officers who were piloting it. The submarine then torpedoed the seaplane.

The torpedo boat which probably was escorting the seaplane appeared and the submarine by skilful maneuver fired a second torpedo. The torpedo boat sank instantly.

Panama Disturbance Being Investigated

By the Associated Press.

Panama, Jan. 22.—Action independent of diplomatic channels is to be taken by the canal government relative to a declared unprovoked attack recently upon Manager McEwen of the hotel Washington at Colon by members of the Porrista party, who were welcoming Dr. Ramon Valdez from his return from the United States, where he was a delegate to the Pan-American Scientific congress.

That action was to be taken was made clear today when Major General George W. Goethals, governor of the canal zone, ordered an exhaustive investigation into the affair, declaring that the Pan-American government must deal adequately with the members of the party, one of whom is said to be Julio Valdez, a cousin of Dr. Valdez.

It is said that the welcoming party gave a banquet for Dr. Valdez and later escorted him to the hotel, where they began a noisy demonstration, which Manager McEwen attempted to quell owing to the lateness of the hour. It is said McEwen was then attacked.

Dr. Valdez is the candidate of the Porrista party for president.

Willing Spencer, second secretary of the American legation, also is investigating the affair, preparatory to making a report to Secretary of State Lansing.

To most people it seems altogether the right and natural thing that women are supposed to have very little concern about anything except clothes and problems of housekeeping. The average department in the newspaper devoted to women is usually filled with social events, doings of the "400," or else given up to cooking recipes and suggestions such as making napkins of the best parts of worn-out tablecloths. There are women who read the society news and long to arrive at the eminence of seeing their own names in its columns. There are other women who get help from the domestic items of the department, but the ones who really need this help do not belong to the reading class.

It is getting so that the society editor (unless he is a man) slips all kinds of information and suggestions into that column, so that the woman seeking a stone frequently gets hold of a fish. Some intelligent thought is stirred in her mind when she was merely expecting to revel in the imaginary lights and colors of social dissipation. In this way the society and the domestic columns may serve a most excellent purpose, leading the frivolous and conservative to broader knowledge and interests. If home-making and the rearing of children were occupations requiring no development of the very highest human endowments, it might be expedient to encourage women to grow up with the idea that their mental powers could find sufficient exercises in planning clothes, meals and social functions. One who has seen the woeful failure of a narrow, unsympathetic woman in home-making needs no argument to be convinced that the best mind and the best training are none too good for such a calling. A woman may be the most perfect of housekeepers, the most economical of managers, and a conscientious, good woman, yet fail utterly as a home-maker. Her horizon is limited by her own thoughts and experiences. She doesn't understand her husband's need of quiet and rest, nor her children's need of amusement and sympathy. She probably has a hard life and wears herself out nagging, and house-cleaning, and economizing, when with the same expense she might have a comfortable home and a cheerful family. She has been taught that a woman's duty was in her home, and she has strictly limited her activities to her home, possibly making an exception of "blessing out" the school teacher for trying to civilize one of her children whom she has neglected except as to food and clothes. It is usually these "home women" who make trouble for teachers. The woman who has taken the "world for her oyster" and all humanity as her concern, is a wise enough mother to study her children's weakness and to co-operate with the teacher in correcting them; but to be such a mother one must be born with the capacity and then have the opportunity and encouragement for becoming a real helpmeet to man and an inspiration to children. No study of cook books and fashion plates will do this. Any human being is in duty bound to present as good an appearance as possible, but no one can deny that too much emphasis has been placed on personal adornment for women. The girl who is taught to be useful and considerate at home will almost always make a good wife and mother so far as material things are concerned. When we come to the greater things which are spiritual and intellectual, a broader foundation is required. Ignorance and zeal may de infinite harm and in no one are they more harmful than in a wife and mother. She may infuse such prejudice and selfishness into her family that generations will show the effect. The greater her natural ability, the greater her power for injury. Some women who have brought up families of rough, selfish children who are honest from policy alone might have given the country the same number of cultured, public-spirited citizens, if these women had been taught that they were themselves citizens and owed the use of all their powers to the world outside of their homes as well as within them.

The old theory which the south held in common with the Turks that seclusion was best for women, may be very pretty but it is not reasonable. It denies to women the means of development which every human being needs. No woman can train her children for usefulness in a world of which she knows nothing. If she is content to give her life to material interests and frivolous pleasures, sin will lie at her door when her son becomes a drunkard or a menace to female virtue; or when her neglected young daughter goes from one indiscretion to another till she has gone too far to return to innocence.

The fact that so many women are indifferent to woman suffrage can be accounted for only on the theory that they have accepted this role of ignorance for the sex and do not realize how entirely all modern circumstances are controlled by politics. If white people at the north became frantic over negro slavery, surely women everywhere ought to be enthused with a burning zeal to liberate those members of their sex who are slaves to a bondage which shuts out all hope on earth or in Heaven. A clipping from the Toledo Blade says: "The unanswerable argument against woman suffrage is that women might vote men into a state of decency." A woman who knows of the terrible effects of the social evil as now tolerated by men cannot fail to long for the only weapon which can be used against it. Ignorance may be bliss, but it has some fearful sins to answer for. Our mothers and grandmothers were not so much to blame, but the women of this generation "have no cloak for their sin."

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD WRITES LETTER

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Jan. 22.—Letters are being sent by the Texas industrial accident board to the 4000 subscribers to the workmen's compensation law, explaining the administration of the law. Co-operation is asked and attention is called to the sharp practices in some instances. The letter follows:

"Gentlemen:

"This board wishes you to assist it in bringing about a just, equitable and expeditious application of the act under which you are operating in carrying your compensation insurance.

"The purpose of this act is to, above all things, and as far as possible, eliminate accidents or reduce them to a minimum. This purpose is stimulated by the consciousness of the state, the insurance company and the employer that it much better not to injure a man than to attempt to compensate him should he be injured. Of course, the injured man would infinitely prefer to work in a safe place, and avoid being injured rather than to receive even double compensation for an injury and then undergo the pain and suffering consequent thereto, and perhaps be lame for life. And for a stronger reason the loved ones of the laboring man and who are dependent upon him for support and sustenance, would be much better cared for and infinitely happier if he was placed where he could work free from accident and injury than they would should they lose him and then receive many times the amount of money allowed by the act for compensation for their loss, which you and I know cannot be measured in money.

"This, then, is one of the underlying impulses for the existence of the compensation act. It is one of the fundamental reasons for its enforcement. It is this high purpose which invariably appeals to the spirit of altruism that ought to control, even in our business relations with one another. While the board feels that it could rest its appeal to you to adopt, with reference to your place of business and your employes, the motto, 'Safety First,' upon this proposition alone, yet there is a commercial idea also underlying this whole proposition which will not only justify, but recompense you for adopting and living up to this motto.

"Whenever the ratio of injuries, accidents and catastrophes with reference to employes is reduced to a minimum, the rate of your insurance will be automatically reduced to a minimum. It is a fundamental principle of this character of insurance that when accidents increase, cost of administration and amount of compensation increases; therefore it follows that the cost of the insurance to the employer increases, that is, the rate goes higher. That the converse of this is true is self-evident.

"Therefore, this board urges upon you in the interest of yourself, of the employe, of those dependent upon him, of the insurance company carrying these risks and of the state whose interest is aroused and active in this matter, that you apply to your business and your place of business, the highest degree of efficiency, vigilance and care to the end that safety shall be the rule, and its benefits will accrue to all.

"The other proposition that this board is anxious for you to consider along with them to the end that more desirable conditions may be brought about, is to assist the board in seeing that when an employe is injured that he is promptly and adequately compensated within the terms and scope of this act, by the insurance company carrying your policy. The subscriber, primarily, pays the insurance of his employe and owes him the moral and legal duty to see that when he is injured that compensation follows.

It is the theory of the compensation law that the product which the employer produces through the instrumentality of the employe should bear the burden of the accident incident to the production of that particular product. Therefore, the insurance is as much a part of your business as the raw material which you buy to manufacture. It is a charge against your business which is ultimately met and liquidated by the consumer of the products thereof. If you buy raw material for manufacture and you discover that you are given a bad and wholly unfit quality you very promptly and vigorously call your vendor to account and force him to make good so it should be with our insurance. If you pay good money to an insurance company to guarantee the safety of your employes and then you silently and knowingly permit that insurance company to rob that employe by deferring, postponing, diminishing or defeating the payment of his compensation when he becomes lame and crippled, you not only do him a gross wrong, but you have permitted the insurance to sell you worthless insurance, and you ought to do by them just as you would by your vendor, who sold you worthless raw material.

"You ought to make it your business to see that the insurance company pays to your employe that which under the statute becomes practically a liquidated demand upon the injury being inflicted on the employe. When the employe realizes that the employer not only secures for him the best insurance in the market, but is also actively interested in his receiving his compensation, upon being injured, it strengthens the relation of good fellowship which modern business experience shows is essential to the success of any business and it follows then that it is the moral, legal and commercial obligation of the employer to see that his injured employe gets the full benefit of the insurance, which the employer bought for him as a commercial product, and which he has agreed to receive as compensation for any injury which he might sustain.

"Whatever tends to economy of production, to friendly relationship and good fellowship between employer and employe, to reduce accidents, lessen the liability of the employer or alleviate the suffering of the employe ought to meet and will meet the approval of the commercial and business conscience of the world.

"In addition to these reasons, when you accept the terms of the statute in question you become an active party to its enforcement and you are charged by the duties of good citizenship, called into action by your connection with the statute, to see that you get the insurance that you bought, and that the injured employe gets the compensation to which he is entitled.

"We want you to apply to the insurance companies of this state the rule and doctrine of a commercial square deal as between them and your injured employes.

"The way for you to do that is to report your accidents promptly to the board and to the insurance company, and then see if the insurance company does its duty, and if it does not, in your judgment, meet its obligation, then you kindly report fully and in detail to this board what you conceive to be its delinquencies in dealing with your employes, and the board will take necessary action against the companies. And if you, yourself, find that you have an insurance company whose policy is to defeat the claims of your injured employes, then we suggest that you cancel your policy with such insurance company and take your insurance with a company which is striving to comply with the law.

"Our reason for writing you this letter is that there are now a number of insurance companies in this state whose persistent policy is to procrastinate, payments, defer investigations, "jew down" compensation, and do everything in their power to harass injured employes to the end that they may ultimately defeat the purpose of the act and defraud unfortunate men and women of the compensation they are justly entitled to.

"It is the determined purpose of this board to ascertain the policy of each insurance company in this regard and doing business in Texas, and if they persist in this unlawful purpose, to strike each insurance company from the list of those doing business before the board and then notify the subscribers thereof that they are not fit to carry insurance on the lives and limbs of the employes of this state.

"This is a drastic remedy, and, while it will, if necessary, be resorted to, we do not wish to invoke it if the desired results can be otherwise obtained. But they must pay the compensation and pay it with the expedition contemplated by the statute, for to permit it to be done otherwise, is robbery to the employer, an outrage to the employe and would be a disgrace to this board.

"We also ask you, in connection with the matters hereing suggested, not to be unmindful that you owe a commercial obligation to the insurance company and that it is your duty to see that it is not imposed upon by the fake claims of the magingerer.

"It is the desire of the board, and you can assist us to consummate this desire, that the insurance companies of this state should pay a dollar to any individual under this act unless it is liable therefor. For them to do so would not only be morally and legally wrong, but it increases the cost of operation, the expense or administering the law and ultimately falls as an unjust charge upon the consumer of the product produced. While its moral effect would not be so far reaching as in the case where the insurance company robbed the employe it would necessarily be in the same objectionable category, and for that reason we are exceedingly anxious that you assist us in a just, equitable and expeditious administration of this statute. This board invites any suggestions that you may deem advisable to make to it relative to the operation, effect or administration of this act."

The communication is signed by T. H. McGregor, chairman; J. H. Fricke and J. H. Fowler, members of the board, and attested by B. A. Cox Jr., secretary.

GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When Peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-aches, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

SOCCER IS NEWEST SPORT AT BAYLOR

EXTENSIVE SCHEDULE MADE FOR BEARS—SQUAD RECEIVING GOOD TRAINING.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS

Green and Gold Quintet Being Groomed for Initial Game With Texas. Baseball Practice Monday.

The old English game of Soccer has become one of the leading sports at Baylor, as well as other schools in Texas. Under the direction of Coach E. W. Provence, who is a thorough student of the game, and who is acquainted with the best scientific methods, the team has made great progress since the Dallas game. The Dallas Soccer club is one of the fastest teams in the south and gave Baylor a defeat in the first contest of the year. This made the Bears pick up and do some hard work.

The Roach brothers from McGregor, known over Texas as members of the Bears' championship football team and for their ability as baseball players, have been showing excellent form in this new sport. Lucian Roach, the fast halfback of the football team, is playing the same position in soccer and according to reports is as fast as any man in the game in Texas. George Roach is keeping goal, a position that requires quick action and plenty of headwork. Coach Provence says these men will make soccer players that will make the other teams take notice.

Nelville, the steady forward of the 1914 team, and who was such a star against the Longhorn team of that year, has been shifted from forward to center half, where he is doing brilliant work. He is fast, heady and keeps the opponents on the jump for a kick at the little round bubble.

Naturally all eyes watch A. O. Bernado, captain of the team, for he is a native Brazilian and has the experience that is required to make a good man in any position. He has been switched from half to forward and is doing brilliant work all over his area.

Have Extensive Schedule.

Soccer is a game that is comparatively new in Texas and has gradually been introduced by the men who have been where it is played and studied the benefits derived from the playing thereof. In England, it is the greatest sport and each year there is a great game between the English team and the Scotch team. The last game, played before the war, was witnessed by over 200,000 people.

The schedule arranged for the Bears by Manager Gantt is as follows:

Jan. 29—Baylor vs. Athletics (Dallas), at Waco.
Feb. 5—Baylor vs. S. M. U. at Dallas.
Feb. 10.—Baylor vs. Texas, at Waco.
Feb. 12.—Baylor vs. Nomads (Dallas), at Waco.
Feb. 19—Baylor vs. Cleburne, at Cleburne.
Feb. 23—Baylor vs. Texas, at Austin.
March 4—Baylor vs. Athletics at Dallas.
March 11—Baylor vs. S. M. U., at Dallas.
March 18—Baylor vs. Nomads at Dallas.
March 25—Baylor vs. Cleburne, at Waco.

All the games above scheduled except the two with State University are under the rules of the North Texas Soccer league of which Baylor is a member.

All games played in Waco will be on Carroll Field.

Mosley Getting Ready for Texas.

Coach Mosley is busy getting his basketball quintette in readiness for Texas next Wednesday. The Longhorns are going to invade the Bear's territory with the expectation of winning by an easy score. Their fast team that has played together for four years, is still intact and these men, with the assistance of such men as Baker Duncan and other new men, will undoubtedly be the strongest aggregation in the state.

However, Mosley is likely to spring a little surprise and keep them from having such a walkover as is expected. He has been working on the big men of the squad and has a team that will make it intersting for the best of them. Thompson, Wilson, Griffith, Cox, Tinsley and Mansell are the men who have been coming out regularly that will be available in case a little bulk is needed on the court.

Captain Schulkey and ex-Captain Harrell are the fastest men on the court when it comes to ringing baskets.

Thompson and Wilson, both of the championship football team, both are consistent guards and make it hard for a man to make a goal around them. Thompson is especially useful as a utility man, playing center with Kellogg and at times going forward to serve as a big man for the guards to handle. Kellog is a good man at center and has the advantage of being a taller man than some of those trying for the position. He not only is a good jumper, but when he is in ringing distance of the goal, he is a sure basket maker. In the game with the Waco Y. M. C. A. he made the greater number of points and played a good game at center as well.

Baseball Practice Monday.

Griffith, a man from the fast Decatur team of last seasen is playing a good game at forward and has the size that will help him in competing against such men as Littlefield and Blaine. Cox, an old Baylor man who has been showing excellent form. He is a big fellow and will likely start in the contest against the Longhorns on account of his strength and endurance.

Coach Mosley issued a call to the baseball men to appear on Carroll Field on Monday at 3 o'clock. Manager Mitchell will be in the athletic building during the early part of the day to give out uniforms.

There is a great bunch of material here and it is expected that a team the, equal of the famous 1912 team will be the result of the year's work.

The big revival meeting which Dr. C. B. Williams has been holding at Baylor for the last two weeks was closed Friday night. There were several conversions.

Miss Jewel Ingram in Recital.

On next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Jewel Ingram, a graduate of the department of expression, will give for her graduating recital, the original arrangement of Jean Webster's "Daddy Long Legs." Miss Ingram has been a student in Baylor for the past two years in the class of Miss Thompson, the head of the department of expression, and has won the friendship of every student of the university and of every member of the faculty. Her readings have attracted much attention since she first came here and for two seasons she was the reader with the university glee club. Both years her readings were among the most popular numbers on the program.

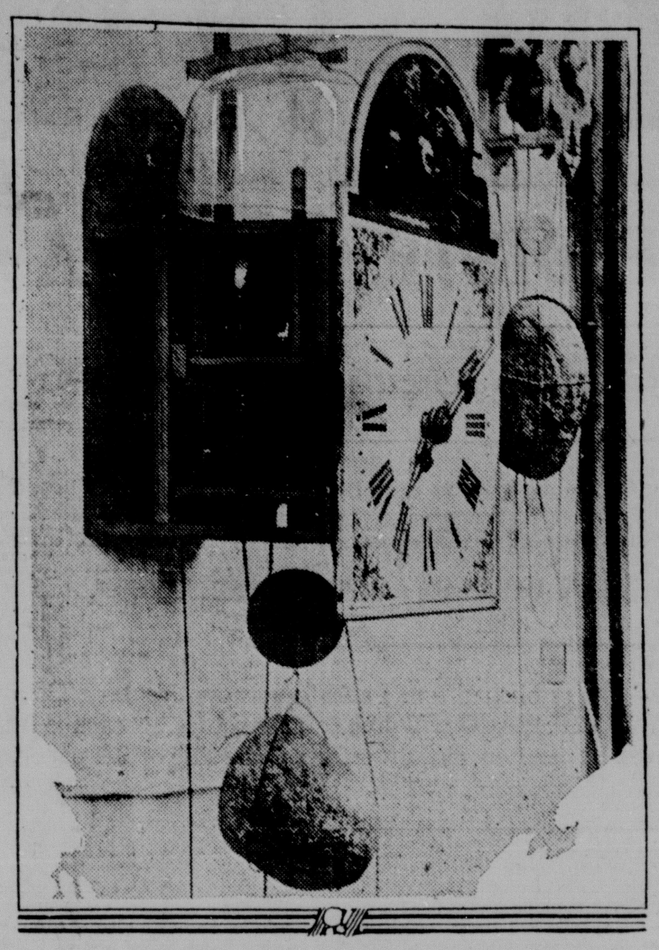

Before coming to Baylor, Miss Ingram had been a studen at Decatur Baptist college, having finished there in 1913. In the same year she was winner of the Dr. Boyd medal in elocution, a distinction which is ranked very high among the students of expression. She finished in expression, violin, art and the literary course there in the same year.

During her stay here she has won a host of friends among the people of Waco and on account of her charming ways and congenial manners, she was unanimously chosen as the most popular young woman in Baylor by a voluntary vote of the student body. She is a member of the Rufus C. Burleson society, and is very active in all the activities of the Christian life around the university.

The recital was to have been given last June, but owing to illness Miss Ingram was compelled to postpone it till a later date, and owing t the fact that the calendar was full during the fall term she has returned to give her recital on Saturday, after which she will return to her home.

The recital will begin promptly at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, Jan. 29, and every one is cordially invited.

Belton Dog Wins National Field Title

By the Associated Press.

Grand Junction, Tenn., Jan. 22.—The pointer, John Proctor, owned by A. L. Curtis of Belton, Texas, won the title of National champion in the final heat of the field trials of the National Championship association here today.

The runner-up was the setter Medford Eugene entered by Dr. E. J. Haines of Medford, N. J.

In the start off the pointer was slow of action because of his heavy work of yesterday, giving Medford Eugene, with a day's rest to his credit, a little the advantage. Proctor soon recovered, however, and within thirty minutes was running up to his usual form. The champion found five bevies, which he handled perfectly, while the New Jersey dog was able to locate only four.

The feature of the race was the great speed and wide range showed by the Texas dog.

Haynes Manufacturers Want to Swap Newest for Oldest Automobile

"A new Haynes 'Twin Six' awaits the owner of the oldest Haynes automobile in America. The Haynes Automobile company, the builders of the first automobile to be built in this country, want to find their oldest car now in service. They are going to give away one of their newest models, a twelve-cylinder car, for the Haynes automobile of the earliest type which can be found," stated a distributor for the Haynes "Light Six."

"This will be an even trade. To the owner of the earliest Haynes car will be given one of the new "Light Twelves" in exchange for his relic. It is a well known fact that there are a number of the older models still doing service.

"Owners of old Haynes cars are requested to send in their names to the factory at Kokomo, Ind., together with complete description of the cars, so that the oldest car may be found as quickly as possible. Send in yours—you may be the lucky one.

"The chances are the offer will uncover types of Haynes cars that were popular in the early days. The automobile built in the late nineties and the first years of the following decade had two-cylinder motors, machines with large bore cylinders and short piston stroke. In 1905 the builders of 'America's First Car' put a four-cylinder motor car on the market, which was followed by the first of the six-cylinder type seven years later.

"It is possible that one of the oldest cars of the one-cylinder type may arise phoenix-like from the ashes and scrap heaps of the motor car industry and lay claim to the Haynes 'Light Twelve.' The Haynes company built cars of this model, prototypes of 'America's First Car,' during the first four years of its existence, and the home-coming of one of these automobile pioneers would be an occasion for festivity.

"Whatever model the offer to trade returns, it will make a striking demonstration of the motor progress that has transpired at the factory. The new twelve-cylinder motor, cast en bloc in two sets of six each, weighs only a trifle more than the older two and four-cylinder engines. The powerful twelve-cylinder engine practically eliminates gear shifting and the whole considered, the new car that waits the owner of the oldest Haynes car marks the last word in convenience and beauty.

IT MAY WORRY JESS TO BEAT MORAN IN TEN-ROUND BATTLE

Though Jess Willard would have nearly thirty pounds in weight to the good over Frank Moran if the bout proposed for New York this spring comes to pass, it's no certainty that the big champion wouldn't have his hands full. Willard has improved tremendously in the last two years, but he isn't as fast as Moran, nor is he as clever. And Moran proved in the two Coffey bouts that he can punch.

PLAYERS' FRATERNITY FOR PROHIBITION

Personal Habits of Men Making National Game Famous Usually Exemplary, Is Declared.

The Players' Fraternity is an organization of professional baseball players. The fraternity seeks to represent the players in matters involving playing conditions, contract relations, etc., with baseball managements. David L. Fultz, an attorney of New York City, a graduate of Brown university and for several years a big league player, is president of the fraternity, while Edward Reulbach, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, and also a college graduate, is secretary.

The fraternity has a large membership among the leading players.

An interesting story concerning the fraternity's stand for prohibition is published in last week's St. Louis Sporting News. It is as follows:

The Players' Fraternity, having accomplished much of what it set out to do in the way of improving the material conditions of the ball player, now plans to look after his moral welfare. It was announced during the past week that the fraternity had been sounding its membership on the suggestion of adopting a rule under which each member must sign a pledge to abstain from all intoxicating drinks at all times, or at least during the playing season. If a strict pledge cannot be exacted, the fraternity at least hopes to enforce a rule against drinking intoxicants except, say, at meal times and after the day's work is done. Whether agents are to be named to keep tab on players or whether the fraternity membership is to be put on honor is not stated. The details of enforcing the rule doubtless will come up for consideration later.

The moving spirit in this reform is Ed Reulbach, secretary of the fraternity. Reulbach doesn't wish to take a high and mighty attitude on the temperance question, nor does he want any title like "Hit-the-Trail" placed before his name. What he has done, however, is a lot of missionary work among the ball players in the cause of the white ribbon.

Secretary Reulbach had three years of study in the medical school of the University of Chicago and knows whereof he speaks when he talks about the ill effects of drinking on ball players. Many a muffed fly in a championship game and many a booted grounder or a little stupidity on the bases, may be traced to what the ball player was doing the night before, according to the view of the fraternity secretary takes of it, and he thinks adoption of his idea would mean better ball playing and higher fielding and batting averages, and therefore should gain in popularity with player and fan.

Reulbach has interviewed many of the members of the fraternity and the majority of them are in favor of the action which he has suggested. Many baseball players are in such good physical condition all the times that they can stand late hours and more or less brew. However, Secretary Reulbach has pointed out to many of the delinquent players that it consumes much time, energy and a great deal of money. It lessens the player's efficiency and takes many years off his playing career.

"The ball players," says Secretary Reulbach, "took a sensible attitude on this question when I approached them. They realized that it would be well for themselves and a great thing for baseball if they retire earlier and omit beer drinking. Of late years there has been a decided change in the behavior of the ball player. Years ago it was taken for granted that he spent his money like a sailor and cared little about his physical welfare.

"There is a decided change in the discipline of the sensible player today. He is a book reader, a sightseer, goes to bed early and doesn't play poker far into the night as he did years ago. This thing has come on gradually. On the spring training trips in the South nowadays one will find iron-clad rules against card playing and cigarette smoking.

"Branch Rickey, the former University of Michigan player and coach, and who the last few years was manager of the St. Louis Browns, took a decided stand on the question two seasons ago and the scheme worked out well for the betterment of the members of his club.

"The question of beer drinking, however," he continued, "is a singular subject to take up with the players. The influence of the many temperate players has brought many of the careless performers into line, and I would not be surprised if at the next meeting of the fraternity a rule was passed either suggesting temperance or proniblting drinking among the players entirely.

"We have seen many stars of the diamond who had short careers because of intemperate habits. The high-salaried ball player of long ago spent his money freely. It is different now. He invests it profitably. The standard and the personnel are getting higher each season, and the fraternity is now in a position to take a decided stand on the question of such great moment to the players' welfare.

Beer at Meals Only.

"While some of the best men in the game may object to total abstinence, they are, nevertheless, in favor of passing a rule curtailing the use of beer or ale except with meals. This plan works out well with the college athletes, the football players, for instance, who are permitted to have a bottle of ale with their dinner. With the ball player it is drinking at night and the long sessions about the jovial board that work against his best interests."

"After a ball game," continued Reulbach, "the player rushes to the club house, jumps into the shower bath, hustles through his dinner and in the hurry and bustle pays too little attention to his physical welfare. A cold glass of beer after a game, when the player is still heated from his energy on the ball field, is a bad thing for his health, and today he is beginning to realize this.

"Indigestion and low spirit invariably follow the ball player's careless habits. At best, the player's career is short. Conserved energy is the only thing, the player now realizes, which will prolong his diamond career.

"Nearly every man I have talked to is heartily in favor of this campaign against drinking and I would not be surprised if the fraternity voluntarily took a decided stand on the total abstinence question before another season begins.

"Now that the baseball controversy is settled, I believe that the player and the club owner will reach a better understanding. There is no reason why there should not be more co-operation and harmony. I look for highly improved conditions in baseball next season."

Sharpening Himself.

When the train, stopped at the little southern station, the tourist from the North sauntered out and gazed curiously at a lean animal with scraggy bristles, which was rubbing itself against a scrub oak.

"What do you call that?" he asked curiously of a native.

"Razorback hawg, suh."

"What is he doing rubbing himself against that tree?"

WACO HIGH BOYS FIND TEMPLE EASY VICTIM

LOCAL BASKETBALL PLAYERS PILE UP SCORE OF 47 TO 3 ON BELL COUNTY LADS.

Very Few Features to Game on Account of One-sidedness—Second Team Gets Chance.

Endless stretches of desultory, half-hearted play and mechanical, lifeless shooting by the Waco Hi team, which resulted in a 47-to-3 win over the Temple Hi, were the only features of the basketball game staged last night at the Y, that the spectators had to enjoy. Maybe it was the heat, maybe the recent damp weather; certainly something was the matter, for both teams played as if the exercise hurt them. But there's a reasen.

Temple brought an obviously inexperienced five to town, who seemed to relapse into stage fright when handed the ball. And as a result the clever Waco quintette was not forced to extend itself to hang up a victory; if the players had displayed a little pep, the score would have mounted up like the mercury on a hot day.

Coach Smith sent his second-string men on the floor during the second half, and while they aroused a little enthusiasm of their own and also a few points, quite frequently the only sound heard in the big gymnasium was the incessant patter of twenty lagging feet. But that was all. It was just one of those affairs in which the stronger team, realizing its superiority, determines to rest on its laurels for a period—that is, until the score gets close, and then start its monotonous scoring-machine into action.

Elliott played a hard game for the visitors and with any kind of support would have been responsible for a few goals. But his mates did not handle themselves as if they knew the game. The forwards were never able to break loose from the Waco guards, and when they did touch the ball, seemed unable to locate a friendly jersey. The men played fiercely and fought stubbornly against the inevitable, but it was soon seen that they were woefully lacking in the game's fundamentals. Irvin, at center, jumped his best against Captain Knebel, and followed the ball more tenaciously than some of the Templeites, but he passed wildly. Temple seemed to have no semblance of teamwork, except in the last half, and although Irvin sometimes got the tap on Roberts, the men could not follow up the advantage. They got only three chances in the second half and all went for naught. Outclassed is the word that expresses it.

From the whistle's first toot, the Waco plays went through without opposition. A slap, a toss and the ball was under the local's basket. But toward the last of the first half that was as high as it mounted. The sphere rolled through the basket with regularity and even grace in the first few moments of play, but after that it balanced playfully around the hoop and refused to be enticed through the netting. Boynton, who played his first game this year, contributed some clever shots, as did also Megarrity and Knebel. The latter tapped a couple in from scrimmage.

Waco Hi's passing was excellent, because there was nothing to stop it. Plays from out of bounds, short passes and quick dodging worked the ball down to Waco's basket on every toss-up; in fact, practically the whole game was reeled off on that portion of the flood, for Temple never got a chance to score unless some bold visitr accidentally grabbed the ball and made a mighty heave across the court and thos kind of heaves seldom count.

The sudden losing of their basket-eyes cannot be accounted for by the members of the team; certain it is that if half their close shots had entered the score would have been——(?) Even D. Hill had time to saunter up from his heavy duties down at the opposite end and ring three.

Second Team Gets to Play.

The second team flashed onto the court in the second half and marked up nearly as many points as their mates. L. Wohlberg, who has only recently gained a position on the scrubs, lived up to a reputation set by his illustrious brother and played a style all his own during the time he was in.

The serseys of the second team and of Temple were alike and naturally this handicap to both sides made accurate passing somewhat difficult. Meyer, Stinson, Roberts and M. Knebel also played the ball as much as possible and helped to swell the count. By this time the referee was blowing his whistle weakly, the spectators were indulging in yawns, and the combatants seemed to be waiting for something. It came soon, for the "time-up" whistle suddenly tooted and the game was no more.

Waco could have treated the fans to some fast work had she had the proper incentive; plainly Temple was no incentive. Too much class; too little pep. That's the story.

Austin meets the locals on the Y court some time in February and from present indications the contest promises to be exciting. The Capital City boys are sure to furnish Waco with something to whet their claws on.

The line-up and score of the Temple game:

Boynton	Right forward	Charlton
Megarrity	Left forward	Richards
W. Knebel	Center	Irvin
D. Hill	Right guard	Elliott

Substitutions—Waco, Meyer for Boynton, Stinson for Megarrity, Roberts for W. Knebel, L. Wohlberg for D. Hill, M. Knebel for Prinzing; Temple, Steele for Irvin, Russell for Steel.

Officials: Stotter (Indiana), referee; Moseley (Waco Y), umpire.

Time of quarters, 20 minutes first half; 15 minutes, second half.

Americans Defeat Brazilians in Soccer on Carroll Field

There are fourteen Brazilians attending Baylor, out of which a soccer team was picked to play the Americans on the squad. In a fast and snappy game Saturday afternoon on Carroll Field the Americans defeated the Brazilians by a score of 2 to 0.

It was a game full of action and the interest never lagged from start to finish. It was an exhibition game, staged for the benefit of the sport-loving fans at the University. There was no admission, but on account of many other activities going on at the time there was a small crowd.

For the Americans, Moreau, Derrick, the Roach brothers and Frank Godsoe were the stars. The ball was kept in Brazilian territory for the greater part of the game, and the only thing that kept the Americans from making a larger number of points was the excellent goal keeper Courrillo. He was sure of the stops and never failed to get the ball out of danger except that two times that scores were made.

Captain Bernado was the chief figure on the field for the Brazilians and had it not been for the fact that some of the Brazilians have not been practicing this term he would without a doubt have led his team to a big victory. He is fast, cool and never forgets where the ball is and where it ought to be. D. Perreirra, E. Perreirra and Freyre were the others who showed up well on the side of the South Americans.

Mosley Getting Ready for Texas.

Coach Mosley is busy getting his basketball quintette in readiness for Texas next Wednesday. The Longhorns are going to invade the Bear's territory with the expectation of winning by an easy score. Their fast team that has played together for four years, is still intact and these men, with the assistance of such men as Baker Duncan and other new men, will undoubtedly be the strongest aggregation in the state.

However, Mosley is likely to spring a little surprise and keep them from having such a walkover as is expected. He has been working on the big men of the squad and has a team that will make it intersting for the best of them. Thompson, Wilson, Griffith, Cox, Tinsley and Mansell are the men who have been coming out regularly that will be available in case a little bulk is needed on the court.

Captain Schulkey and ex-Captain Harrell are the fastest men on the court when it comes to ringing baskets.

Thompson and Wilson, both of the championship football team, both are consistent guards and make it hard for a man to make a goal around them. Thompson is especially useful as a utility man, playing center with Kellogg and at times going forward to serve as a big man for the guards to handle. Kellog is a good man at center and has the advantage of being a taller man than some of those trying for the position. He not only is a good jumper, but when he is in ringing distance of the goal, he is a sure basket maker. In the game with the Waco Y. M. C. A. he made the greater number of points and played a good game at center as well.

Baseball Practice Monday.

Griffith, a man from the fast Decatur team of last season is playing a good game at forward and has the size that will help him in competing against such men as Littlefield and Blaine. Cox, an old Baylor man who has been showing excellent form. He is a big fellow and will likely start in the contest against the Longhorns on account of his strength and endurance.

Coach Mosley issued a call to the baseball men to appear on Carroll Field on Monday at 3 o'clock. Manager Mitchell will be in the athletic building during the early part of the day to give out uniforms.

There is a great bunch of material here and it is expected that a team the equal of the famous 1912 team will be the result of the year's work.

The big revival meeting which Dr. C. B. Williams has been holding at Baylor for the last two weeks was closed Friday night. There were several conversions.

Miss Jewel Ingram in Recital.

On next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Jewel Ingram, a graduate of the department of expression, will give for her graduating recital, the original arrangement of Jean Webster's "Daddy Long Legs." Miss Ingram has been a student in Baylor for the past two years in the class of Miss Thompson, the head of the department of expression, and has won the friendship of every student of the university and of every member of the faculty. Her readings have attracted much attention since she first came here and for two seasons she was the reader with the university glee club. Both years her readings were among the most popular numbers on the program.

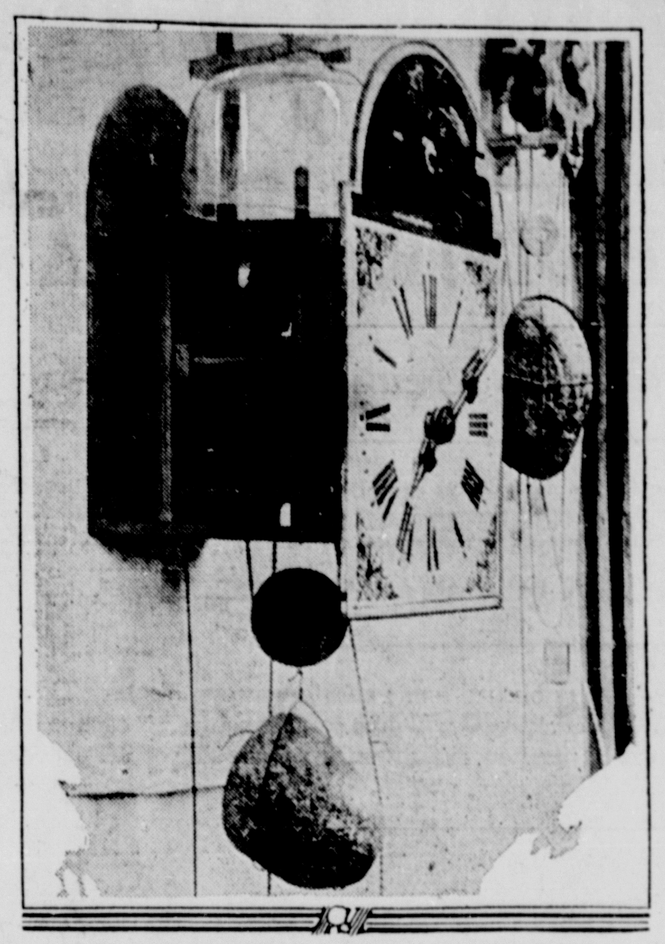

Before coming to Baylor, Miss Ingram had been a studen at Decatur Baptist college, having finished there in 1913. In the same year she was winner of the Dr. Boyd medal in elocution, a distinction which is ranked very high among the students of expression. She finished in expression, violin, art and the literary course there in the same year.

During her stay here she has won a host of friends among the people of Waco and on account of her charming ways and congenial manners, she was unanimously chosen as the most popular young woman in Baylor by a voluntary vote of the student body. She is a member of the Rufus C. Burleson society, and is very active in all the activities of the Christian life around the university.

The recital was to have been given last June, but owing to illness Miss Ingram was compelled to postpone it till a later date, and owing t the fact that the calendar was full during the fall term she has returned to give her recital on Saturday, after which she will return to her home.

The recital will begin promptly at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, Jan. 29, and every one is cordially invited.

COPPER CLOCK WEIGHTS TURNED INTO GERMAN BULLETS, REPLACED BY STONES

German clock with stones as weights.

The shortage of copper throughout the German Empire is marked to such a degree that not only have the copper cooking utensils, the pride of the thrifty German hausfrau, been converted into food for rifle and gun, but even the ancient clocks with heavy pendulums of copper have been made to add to the war contributions, their place being taken by stones.

Belton Dog Wins National Field Title

By the Associated Press.

Grand Junction, Tenn., Jan. 22.—The pointer, John Proctor, owned by A. L. Curtis of Belton, Texas, won the title of National champion in the final heat of the field trials of the National Championship association here today.

The runner-up was the setter Medford Eugene entered by Dr. E. J. Haines of Medford, N. J.

In the start off the pointer was slow of action because of his heavy work of yesterday, giving Medford Eugene, with a day's rest to his credit, a little the advantage. Proctor soon recovered, however, and within thirty minutes was running up to his usual form. The champion found five bevies, which he handled perfectly, while the New Jersey dog was able to locate only four.

The feature of the race was the great speed and wide range showed by the Texas dog.

Haynes Manufacturers Want to Swap Newest for Oldest Automobile

"A new Haynes 'Twin Six' awaits the owner of the oldest Haynes automobile in America. The Haynes Automobile company, the builders of the first automobile to be built in this country, want to find their oldest car now in service. They are going to give away one of their newest models, a twelve-cylinder car, for the Haynes automobile of the earliest type which can be found," stated a distributor for the Haynes "Light Six."

"This will be an even trade. To the owner of the earliest Haynes car will be given one of the new "Light Twelves" in exchange for his relic. It is a well known fact that there are a number of the older models still doing service.

"Owners of old Haynes cars are requested to send in their names to the factory at Kokomo, Ind., together with complete description of the cars, so that the oldest car may be found as quickly as possible. Send in yours—you may be the lucky one.

"The chances are the offer will uncover types of Haynes cars that were popular in the early days. The automobile built in the late nineties and the first years of the following decade had two-cylinder motors, machines with large bore cylinders and short piston stroke. In 1905 the builders of 'America's First Car' put a four-cylinder motor car on the market, which was followed by the first of the six-cylinder type seven years later.

"It is possible that one of the oldest cars of the one-cylinder type may arise phoenix-like from the ashes and scrap heaps of the motor car industry and lay claim to the Haynes 'Light Twelve.' The Haynes company built cars of this model, prototypes of 'America's First Car,' during the first four years of its existence, and the home-coming of one of these automobile pioneers would be an occasion for festivity.

"Whatever model the offer to trade returns, it will make a striking demonstration of the motor progress that has transpired at the factory. The new twelve-cylinder motor, cast en bloc in two sets of six each, weighs only a trifle more than the older two and four-cylinder engines. The powerful twelve-cylinder engine practically eliminates gear shifting and the whole considered, the new car that waits the owner of the oldest Haynes car marks the last word in convenience and beauty.

IT MAY WORRY JESS TO BEAT MORAN IN TEN-ROUND BATTLE

Jess Willard (top) and Frank Moran.

Though Jess Willard would have nearly thirty pounds in weight to the good over Frank Moran if the bout proposed for New York this spring comes to pass, it's no certainty that the big champion wouldn't have his hands full. Willard has improved tremendously in the last two years, but he isn't as fast as Moran, nor is he as clever. And Moran proved in the two Coffey bouts that he can punch.

PLAYERS' FRATERNITY FOR PROHIBITION

Personal Habits of Men Making National Game Famous Usually Exemplary, Is Declared.

The Players' Fraternity is an organization of professional baseball players. The fraternity seeks to represent the players in matters involving playing conditions, contract relations, etc., with baseball managements. David L. Fultz, an attorney of New York City, a graduate of Brown university and for several years a big league player, is president of the fraternity, while Edward Reulbach, formerly of the Chicago Cubs, and also a college graduate, is secretary.

The fraternity has a large membership among the leading players.

An interesting story concerning the fraternity's stand for prohibition is published in last week's St. Louis Sporting News. It is as follows:

The Players' Fraternity, having accomplished much of what it set out to do in the way of improving the material conditions of the ball player, now plans to look after his moral welfare. It was announced during the past week that the fraternity had been sounding its membership on the suggestion of adopting a rule under which each member must sign a pledge to abstain from all intoxicating drinks at all times, or at least during the playing season. If a strict pledge cannot be exacted, the fraternity at least hopes to enforce a rule against drinking intoxicants except, say, at meal times and after the day's work is done. Whether agents are to be named to keep tab on players or whether the fraternity membership is to be put on honor is not stated. The details of enforcing the rule doubtless will come up for consideration later.

The moving spirit in this reform is Ed Reulbach, secretary of the fraternity. Reulbach doesn't wish to take a high and mighty attitude on the temperance question, nor does he want any title like "Hit-the-Trail" placed before his name. What he has done, however, is a lot of missionary work among the ball players in the cause of the white ribbon.

Secretary Reulbach had three years of study in the medical school of the University of Chicago and knows whereof he speaks when he talks about the ill effects of drinking on ball players. Many a muffed fly in a championship game and many a booted grounder or a little stupidity on the bases, may be traced to what the ball player was doing the night before, according to the view of the fraternity secretary takes of it, and he thinks adoption of his idea would mean better ball playing and higher fielding and batting averages, and therefore should gain in popularity with player and fan.

Reulbach has interviewed many of the members of the fraternity and the majority of them are in favor of the action which he has suggested. Many baseball players are in such good physical condition all the times that they can stand late hours and more or less brew. However, Secretary Reulbach has pointed out to many of the delinquent players that it consumes much time, energy and a great deal of money. It lessens the player's efficiency and takes many years off his playing career.

"The ball players," says Secretary Reulbach, "took a sensible attitude on this question when I approached them. They realized that it would be well for themselves and a great thing for baseball if they retire earlier and omit beer drinking. Of late years there has been a decided change in the behavior of the ball player. Years ago it was taken for granted that he spent his money like a sailor and cared little about his physical welfare.

"There is a decided change in the discipline of the sensible player today. He is a book reader, a sightseer, goes to bed early and doesn't play poker far into the night as he did years ago. This thing has come on gradually. On the spring training trips in the South nowadays one will find iron-clad rules against card playing and cigarette smoking.

"Branch Rickey, the former University of Michigan player and coach, and who the last few years was manager of the St. Louis Browns, took a decided stand on the question two seasons ago and the scheme worked out well for the betterment of the members of his club.

"The question of beer drinking, however," he continued, "is a singular subject to take up with the players. The influence of the many temperate players has brought many of the careless performers into line, and it would not be surprised if at the next meeting of the fraternity a rule was passed either suggesting temperance or pronibiting drinking among the players entirely.

"We have seen many stars of the diamond who had short careers because of intemperate habits. The high-salaried ball player of long ago spent his money freely. It is different now. He invests it profitably. The standard and the personnel are getting higher each season, and the fraternity is now in a position to take a decided stand on the question of such great moment to the players' welfare.

Beer at Meals Only.

"While some of the best men in the game may object to total abstinence, they are, nevertheless, in favor of passing a rule curtailing the use of beer or ale except with meals. This plan works out well with the college athletes, the football players, for instance, who are permitted to have a bottle of ale with their dinner. With the ball player it is drinking at night and the long sessions about the jovial board that work against his best interests."

"After a ball game," continued Reulbach, "the player rushes to the club house, jumps into the shower bath, hustles through his dinner and in the hurry and bustle pays too little attention to his physical welfare. A cold glass of beer after a game, when the player is still heated from his energy on the ball field, is a bad thing for his health, and today he is beginning to realize this.

"Indigestion and low spirit invariably follow the ball player's careless habits. At best, the player's career is short. Conserved energy is the only thing, the player now realizes, which will prolong his diamond career.

"Nearly every man I have talked to is heartily in favor of this campaign against drinking and I would not be surprised if the fraternity voluntarily took a decided stand on the total abstinence question before another season begins.

"Now that the baseball controversy is settled, I believe that the player and the club owner will reach a better understanding. There is no reason why there should not be more co-operation and harmony. I look for highly improved conditions in baseball next season."

Sharpening Himself.

When the train, stopped at the little southern station, the tourist from the North sauntered out and gazed curiously at a lean animal with scraggy bristles, which was rubbing itself against a scrub oak.

"What do you call that?" he asked curiously of a native.

"Razorback hawg, suh."

"What is he doing rubbing himself against that tree?"

"He's stropping hisself, suh, just stropping hisself." — Ladies' Home Journal.

WACO HIGH BOYS FIND TEMPLE EASY VICTIM

Very Few Features to Game on Account of One-sidedness—Second Team Gets Chance.

Endless stretches of desultory, half-hearted play and mechanical, lifeless shooting by the Waco Hi team, which resulted in a 47-to-3 win over the Temple Hi, were the only features of the basketball game staged last night at the Y, that the spectators had to enjoy. Maybe it was the heat, maybe the recent damp weather; certainly something was the matter, for both teams played as if the exercise hurt them. But there's a reason.

Temple brought an obviously inexperienced five to town, who seemed to relapse into stage fright when handed the ball. And as a result the clever Waco quintette was not forced to extend itself to hang up a victory; if the players had displayed a little pep, the score would have mounted up like the mercury on a hot day.

Coach Smith sent his second-string men on the floor during the second half, and while they aroused a little enthusiasm of their own and also a few points, quite frequently the only sound heard in the big gymnasium was the incessant patter of twenty lagging feet. But that was all. It was just one of those affairs in which the stronger team, realizing its superiority, determines to rest on its laurels for a period—that is, until the score gets close, and then start its monotonous scoring-machine into action.

Elliott played a hard game for the visitors, and with any kind of support would have been responsible for a few goals. But his mates did not handle themselves as if they knew the game. The forwards were never able to break loose from the Waco guards, and when they did touch the ball, seemed unable to locate a friendly jersey. The men played fiercely and fought stubbornly against the inevitable, but it was soon seen that they were woefully lacking in the game's fundamentals. Irvin, at center, jumped his best against Captain Knebel, and followed the ball more tenaciously than some of the Templeites, but he passed wildly. Temple seemed to have no semblance of teamwork, except in the last half, and although Irvin sometimes got the tap on Roberts, the men could not follow up the advantage. They got only three chances in the second half and all went for naught. Outclassed is the word that expresses it.

From the whistle's first toot, the Waco plays went through without opposition. A slap, a toss and the ball was under the local's basket. But toward the last of the first half that was as high as it mounted. The sphere rolled through the basket with regularity and even grace in the first few moments of play, but after that it balanced playfully around the hoop and refused to be enticed through the netting. Boynton, who played his first game this year, contributed some clever shots, as did also Megarrity and Knebel. The latter tapped a couple in from scrimmage.

Waco Hi's passing was excellent, because there was nothing to stop it. Plays from out of bounds, short passes and quick dodging worked the ball down to Waco's basket on every toss-up; in fact, practically the whole game was reeled off on that portion of the floor, for Temple never got a chance to score unless some bold visitr accidentally grabbed the ball and made a mighty heave acrss the court and thos kind of heaves seldom count.

The sudden losing of their basket-eyes cannot be accounted for by the members of the team; certain it is that if half their close shots had entered the score would have been——(?) Even D. Hill had time to saunter up from his heavy duties down at the opposite end and ring three.

Second Team Gets to Play.

The second team flashed onto the court in the second half and marked up nearly as many points as their mates. L. Wohlberg, who has only recently gained a position on the scrubs, lived up to a reputation set by his illustrious brother and played a style all his own during the time he was in.

The serseys of the second team and of Temple were alike and naturally this handicap to both sides made accurate passing somewhat difficult. Meyer, Stinson, Roberts and M. Knebel also played the ball as much as possible and helped to swell the count. By this time the referee was blowing his whistle weakly, the spectators were indulging in yawns, and the combatants seemed to be waiting for something. It came soon, for the "time-up" whistle suddenly tooted and the game was no more.

Waco could have treated the fans to some fast work had she had the proper incentive; plainly Temple was no incentive. Too much class; too little pep. That's the story.

Austin meets the locals on the Y court some time in February and from present indications the contest promises to be exciting. The Capital City boys are sure to furnish Waco with something to whet their claws on.

The line-up and score of the Temple game:

Boynton	Right forward	Charlton
Megarrity	Left forward	Richards
W. Knebel	Center	Irvin

Substitutions—Waco, Meyer for Boynton, Stinson for Megarrity, Roberts for W. Knebel, L. Wohlberg for D. Hill, M. Knebel for Prinzing; Temple, Steele for Irvin, Russell for Steel.

Officials: Stotter (Indiana), referee; Moseley (Waco Y), umpire.

Time of quarters, 20 minutes first half; 15 minutes, second half.

Americans Defeat Brazilians in Soccer on Carroll Field

There are fourteen Brazilians attending Baylor, out of which a soccer team was picked to play the Americans on the squad. In a fast and snappy game Saturday afternoon on Carroll Field the Americans defeated the Brazilians by a score of 2 to 0.

It was a game full of action and the interest never lagged from start to finish. It was an exhibition game, staged for the benefit of the sport-loving fans at the University. There was no admission, but on account of many other activities going on at the time there was a small crowd.

For the Americans, Moreau, Derrick, the Roach brothers and Frank Godsoe were the stars. The ball was kept in Brazilian territory for the greater part of the game, and the only thing that kept the Americans from making a larger number of points was the excellent goal keeper Courrillo. He was sure of the stops and never failed to get the ball out of danger except that two times that scores were made.

Captain Bernado was the chief figure on the field for the Brazilians and had it not been for the fact that some of the Brazilians have not been practicing this term he would without a doubt have led his team to a big victory. He is fast, cool and never forgets where the ball is and where it ought to be. D. Perreirra, P. Perreirra and Freyre were the others who showed up well on the side of the South Americans.

There came to Waco some years ago a man, born and reared on the farm, in an adjoining county, near the McLennan county line. He served Waco as city attorney for two years, voluntarily retired and enjoyed a lucrative law practice for ten years. He was urged by friends to submit his name for the county judge, was elected and gave the county, with the assistance of the commissioners' court, a most efficient and economical administration. The tax rate was reduced from 33 1-3c to 25c on the $100. In the meantime, the large sum of $145,000 bonded indebtedness was paid off. His conspicuous success as county judge was rewarded by his election to district judge for a term of four years. He has shown wonderful patience, skill and ability in handling the most difficult and important civil litigation of McLennan county before the creation of the new court. He has been called upon frequently to construe new statutes and decide constitutional questions of large import, and his friends have been much gratified with his success as a judicial officer. Judge ——— is a democrat; was an original Wilson supporter; favors tariff for revenue only; regards currency legislation of the last congress the most helpful enacted for a quarter of a century; favors rural credits; favors a practical system of farm demonstration work, extension of the rural postal delivery, and is a warm advocate of Brazos navigation; favors peace and international law of arbitration. Until the treaty of nations can be signed he is in favor of fortifying our forts and defending our coast lines with an adequate army and navy. There came to Waco some years ago a man, born and reared on the farm, in an adjoining county, near the McLennan county line. He served Waco as city attorney for two years, voluntarily retired and enjoyed a lucrative law practice for ten years. He was urged by friends to submit his name for the county judge, was elected and gave the county, with the assistance of the commissioners' court, a most efficient and economical administration. The tax rate was reduced from 33 1-3c to 25c on the $100. In the meantime, the large sum of $145,000 bonded indebtedness was paid off. His conspicuous success as county judge was rewarded by his election to district judge for a term of four years. He has shown wonderful patience, skill and ability in handling the most difficult and important civil litigation of McLennan county before the creation of the new court. He has been called upon frequently to construe new statutes and decide constitutional questions of large import, and his friends have been much gratified with his success as a judicial officer. Judge ——— is a democrat; was an original Wilson supporter; favors tariff for revenue only; regards currency legislation of the last congress the most helpful enacted for a quarter of a century; favors rural credits; favors a practical system of farm demonstration work, extension of the rural postal delivery, and is a warm advocate of Brazos navigation; favors peace and international law of arbitration. Until the treaty of nations can be signed he is in favor of fortifying our forts and defending our coast lines with an adequate army and navy. He is the McLennan county candidate for congress in the July primaries.

PARAGUAY BEGINS TO MAKE PROGRESS

Contract for New Dock and Part Facilities Will Help in Commerce With World.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Away down in South America, almost in the very heart of the continent, sandwiched in between Bolivia and Brazil on the north and east and Argentina on the south and west, is located the heroic little country known as Paraguay. The adjective, "heroic," is used advisedly, for when it comes to patriotic fighting the world must doff its hat to this little republic. If there ever was a nation that fought "to the last ditch" it is Paraguay, and if there is another instance in history—modern, mediaeval or ancient—where a people fought so completely to the point of utter exhaustion, almost to extinction, before they ran up the white flag, it has been rather carefully concealed. In this particular Paraguay may be said to be about sui generis.

It is so far away and so little visited by people of the United States that perhaps few citizens of the great northern republic know much more about this very interesting country than its mere geographical location. Of late, however, it is coming more and more into prominence and people are beginning to hear something of and to want to know more about it and its brave inhabitants and of the struggle they are making to advance and take their place among the progressive nations of the earth. In the development of its fine natural resources the country has doubtless lagged behind some of its sister republics, but when you know something of its history that lagging is easily accounted for. An article in a recent number of the Bulletin of the Pan-American Union, Washington, D. C., throws light upon the subject in the following manner:

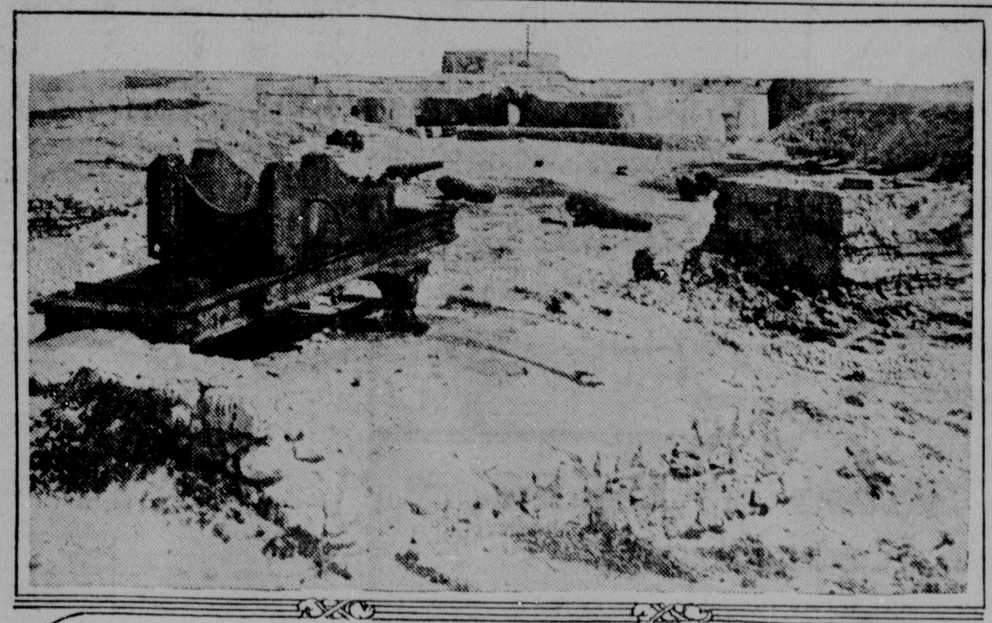

"Economically, Paraguay is at the very beginning of things. It might have been discovered but yesterday. * * * Its immense possibilities as a food producer, both animal and vegetable, are practically unknown and undeveloped. Yet Paraguayan civilization, except from its economic side, is modern and up-to-date. Paraguayan imports are, generally speaking, of the same kind as the imports of other South American countries. The Paraguayan is much the same kind of man and lives in much the same way as his neighbor in Argentina, Uruguay or Brazil. With all this, his country is the least developed of any. Why? Not because it was the latest known. As a matter of fact, it was among the first known. The reason for the economic unprogressiveness of Paraguay is a long story, but may be summed up briefly.

"During all the colonial period and down to its independence, in 1811, Paraguay was looked upon merely as a half-way house to the rich Peruvian and Bolivian mines. Agriculture, and even stock raising, was unconsidered in this era. Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay were all neglected. For much of this period in Paraguay the Jesuits were conducting an experiment in civilizing the Guarani Indians, which involved non-communication with the rest of the world. Soon after independence came the Francia dictatorship, ending in 1841. Almost immediately following Francia came the dictatorship of the town Lopez, that of Carlos Antonio Lopez ending in 1862, and of Francisco Solano Lopez in 1870. The policy of these dictators was similar (but for a very different reason) to that of the Jesuits, viz., to maintain Paraguay as a hermit country and unknown to the outside world. So far as the outside world was concerned, the result was the same—that for almost a century and a half Paraguay was a closed and unknown book.

"At the final defeat and death of Francisco Lopez, in 1870, Paraguay was left prostrate as no other country in the world for a thousand years has been prostrated. For six years Lopez had kept up the unequal struggle against Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay. This was war to the last ditch and beyond. The Paraguayans died almost to a man. The final levies included men almost too old to walk and little boys just out of pinafores. They all died, and many thousands of women and girls fighting by their sides. At the close of the war Paraguay was almost a country of women alone. In 1863 the population numbered 1,337,489; in 1871 the returns showed only 221,079 persons resident in the republic. With such a history, is it a wonder that Paraguay has remained undeveloped? Rather it is a wonder that it has made the progress that it has, for after all Paraguay is intellectually and socially by no means backward, and even in industrial improvement it has much to show for the 45 years that have elapsed.

"The spirit of the country has never weakened. No sacrifice for the country is too great for any Paraguayan and no dream of future grandeur and progress is too unreal. To attain this ideal the country needs outside help. It must have capital. It must have development, and it must be better known. At the basis of this development there must be railway and fluvial improvement. The great Paraguay river is there, with its fine port, Asuncion, the capital of the country, but its docking facilities are grossly inadequate. On October 18, 1915, the Paraguayan congress enacted the final legislation which closed a contract with an American corporation, MacArthur, Perks & Co., Ltd., to construct new docks and port facilities which will accommodate the larger steamers and incidentally reclaim a large area of land now partially submerged and useless. The new warehouses will have a capacity of something like 50,000 cubic feet and will have all modern equipment. Paraguay is thus getting ready for its constantly growing commerce, and this is but one phase of its progress."

MARKET REPORTS

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 2.—The cotton market was quiet but steady today, with May contracts fluctuating between 12.55 and 12.60c and closing at 12.57c. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 1 to 5 points.

Liverpool did not fully meet yesterday's local advance and the opening here was somewhat irregular, with March contracts a point higher while other months were unchanged to 2 points lower. March contracts worked up from 12.29 to 12.36c, while July advanced from 12.65 to 12.74 and October from 12.64 to 12.73.

The buying was not active or aggressive, however, and later fluctuations were somewhat irregular, with last prices showing slight reactions from the best.

The amount of cotton on shipboard showed a moderate increase for the week, being estimated at 188,933 bales against 164,568 last week and 430,347 for the same week last year. There appeared to be no change of sentiment with reference to the probable showing of the census report on Monday.

This report will give the amount of cotton ginned prior to Jan. 16 and is the last report which will be issued before the final figures on March 20.

New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

New Orleans, Jan. 22.—Underlying steadiness featured the cotton market here on the week-end session. No great buying power was in evidence, and the bulls were not aggressive, yet the market recovered from its initial decline and then rose to a net advance of 4 to 8 points, closing 1 to 6 points over yesterday's last quotations.

Around the opening, offerings were liberal and prices went down 3 to 4 points. Disappointment was shown over the small sales in Liverpool and there was much talk of large stocks and small shipments on this side. Following receipt of telegrams from the interior, telling of a better spot demand, especially in Texas, and reports that exporters were in the local market after hours yesterday, contracts did better. The decline quickly was made up and after that the market held steady at a net advance.

A feature of the morning were accounts from mill centers stating that many yarn and underwear mills were sold up for the year and that cloth mills easily could sell their output for six months ahead. This led to predictions of larger American mill takings.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Futures ranged as follows:

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Highest prices yet for the 1915 crop were reached here today in wheat, largely because of assertions from Liverpool that the maximum advance there was still to come. Under heavy profit taking sales, however, the close was unsettled, ¼c off to ⅜c up, with May at $1.32⅝ to $1.32¾, and July at $1.25⅝. Corn showed a net loss of ⅛@⅝ to ⅝@¾c and oats of ¼@¼ to ½c. Provisions finished irregular, carying varying from 15 cents decline to a rise of 35 cents.

Talk that the cold wave would diminish offerings in the northwest and perhaps do serious damage to winter wheat was current, but the effect on prices was more than offset in the last half hour by a rush of sales to realize profits before the week-end. The outcome was a small net loss in the July option, whereas May wound up at a little advance.

Oats sympathized with corn, but held up better.

PRESS DAY PLANNED FOR MARCH 13 AT FORT WORTH SHOW

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, Jan. 22.—Press day at the National Feeders and Breeders' show, which will be held here March 11-18, has been set for Monday, March 13, and a general committee of Fort Worth newspaper men has been appointed to make arrangements for the annual dinner that will be held at the Saddle and Sirloin club on East Exchange avenue. The committee consists of Ray H. McKay, chairman; Claude Callan, J. Montgomery Brown, W. A. Abbey, A. L. Chapman, W. A. Bowan, Raymond Leslie, Ben V. Grant, Heppner Blackman, Frank Chapman, Roy C. Murphy, Frank Anderson, I. J. Newton Jr., Aaron Smith, H. Barnhill, J. Garfield Crawford, C. W. Woodman, John Sneed and Grady Triplett.

The management of the show decided to appoint the committee early in order that plenty of time be given for the arrangement of a more pleasing program than ever before. The National Feeders and Breeders' show has been holding a press day dinner for several years to demonstrate to the newspaper men its appreciation of their work in exploiting the exposition.

Chairman McKinley announces that he will call an early meeting of the general committee and appoint various subcommittees to handle the various parts of the work.

At It Again.

The art of prevarication, vulgarly known as lying, is, when once well cultivated, a most difficult accomplishment to drop.

It was so that a young fellow who was pushed into a business, to keep him out of mischief, had found it.

His employer also found it out, and he was severely admonishing him as to the evils which resulted from such wickedness as lying.

"It is very bad," he was concluding, "You are always lying."

"Sir," said the young man, indignantly, "I would have you known that I am a gentleman."

"'Pon my soul, I never knew such a chap. There you go again."—Tit-Bits.

PARAGUAY BEGINS TO MAKE PROGRESS

Contract for New Dock and Part Facilities Will Help in Commerce With World.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Away down in South America, almost in the very heart of the continent, sandwiched in between Bolivia and Brazil on the north and east and Argentina on the south and west, is located the heroic little country known as Paraguay. The adjective, "heroic," is used advisedly, for when it comes to patriotic fighting the world must doff its hat to this little republic. If there ever was a nation that fought "to the last ditch" it is Paraguay, and if there is another instance in history—modern, mediaeval or ancient—where a people fought so completely to the point of utter exhaustion, almost to extinction, before they ran up the white flag, it has been rather carefully concealed. In this particular Paraguay may be said to be about sui generis.

It is so far away and so little visited by people of the United States that perhaps few citizens of the great northern republic know much more about this very interesting country than its mere geographical location. Of late, however, it is coming more and more into prominence and people are beginning to hear something of and to want to know more about it and its brave inhabitants and of the struggle they are making to advance and take their place among the progressive nations of the earth. In the development of its fine natural resources the country has doubtless lagged behind some of its sister republics, but when you know something of its history that lagging is easily accounted for. An article in a recent number of the Bulletin of the Pan-American Union, Washington, D. C., throws light upon the subject in the following manner:

"Economically, Paraguay is at the very beginning of things. It might have been discovered but yesterday. * * * Its immense possibilities as a food producer, both animal and vegetable, are practically unknown and undeveloped. Yet Paraguayan civilization, except from its economic side, is modern and up-to-date. Paraguayan imports are, generally speaking, of the same kind as the imports of other South American countries. The Paraguayan is much the same kind of man and lives in much the same way as his neighbor in Argentina, Uruguay or Brazil. With all this, his country is the least developed of any. Why? Not because it was the latest known. As a matter of fact, it was among the first known. The reason for the economic unprogressiveness of Paraguay is a long story, but may be summed up briefly.

"During all the colonial period and down to its independence, in 1811, Paraguay was looked upon merely as a half-way house to the rich Peruvian and Bolivian mines. Agriculture, and even stock raising, was unconsidered in this era. Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay were all neglected. For much of this period in Paraguay the Jesuits were conducting an experiment in civilizing the Guarani Indians, which involved non-communication with the rest of the world. Soon after independence came the Francia dictatorship, ending in 1841. Almost immediately following Francia came the dictatorship of the town Lopez, that of Carlos Antonio Lopez ending in 1862, and of Francisco Solano Lopez in 1870. The policy of these dictators was similar (but for a very different reason) to that of the Jesuits, viz., to maintain Paraguay as a hermit country and unknown to the outside world. So far as the outside world was concerned, the result was the same—that for almost a century and a half Paraguay was a closed and unknown book.

"At the final defeat and death of Francisco Lopez, in 1870, Paraguay was left prostrate as no other country in the world for a thousand years has been prostrated. For six years Lopez had kept up the unequal struggle against Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay. This was war to the last ditch and beyond. The Paraguayans died almost to a man. The final levies included men almost too old to walk and little boys just out of pinafores. They all died, and many thousands of women and girls fighting by their sides. At the close of the war Paraguay was almost a country of women alone. In 1863 the population numbered 1,337,489; in 1871 the returns showed only 221,079 persons resident in the republic. With such a history, is it a wonder that Paraguay has remained undeveloped? Rather it is a wonder that it has made the progress that it has, for after all Paraguay is intellectually and socially by no means backward, and even in industrial improvement it has much to show for the 45 years that have elapsed.

"The spirit of the country has never weakened. No sacrifice for the country is too great for any Paraguayan and no dream of future grandeur and progress is too unreal. To attain this ideal the country needs outside help. It must have capital. It must have development, and it must be better known. At the basis of this development there must be railway and fluvial improvement. The great Paraguay river is there, with its fine port, Asuncion, the capital of the country, but its docking facilities are grossly inadequate. On October 18, 1915, the Paraguayan congress enacted the final legislation which closed a contract with an American corporation, MacArthur, Perks & Co., Ltd., to construct new docks and port facilities which will accommodate the larger steamers and incidentally reclaim a large area of land now partially submerged and useless. The new warehouses will have a capacity of something like 50,000 cubic feet and will have all modern equipment. Paraguay is thus getting ready for its constantly growing commerce, and this is but one phase of its progress."

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 2.—The cotton market was quiet but steady today, with May contracts fluctuating between 12.55 and 12.60c and closing at 12.57c. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 1 to 5 points.

Liverpool did not fully meet yesterday's local advance and the opening here was somewhat irregular, with March contracts a point higher while other months were unchanged to 2 points lower. March contracts worked up from 12.29 to 12.36c, while July advanced from 12.65 to 12.74 and October from 12.64 to 12.73.

The buying was not active or aggressive, however, and later fluctuations were somewhat irregular, with last prices showing slight reactions from the best.

Bullish views of the market emphasized the continued activity of the domestic goods trade and the failure of southern spot holders to weaken during the progress of the recent decline in futures.

The amount of cotton on shipboard showed a moderate increase for the week, being estimated at 188,933 bales against 164,568 last week and 430,347 for the same week last year. There appeared to be no change of sentiment with reference to the probable showing of the census report on Monday.

This report will give the amount of cotton ginned prior to Jan. 16 and is the last report which will be issued before the final figures on March 20.

New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

New Orleans, Jan. 22.—Underlying steadiness featured the cotton market here on the week-end session. No great buying power was in evidence, and the bulls were not aggressive, yet the market recovered from its initial decline and then rose to a net advance of 4 to 8 points, closing 1 to 6 points over yesterday's last quotations.

Around the opening, offerings were liberal and prices went down 3 to 4 points. Disappointment was shown over the small sales in Liverpool and there was much talk of large stocks and small shipments on this side. Following receipt of telegrams from the interior, telling of a better spot demand, especially in Texas, and reports that exporters were in the local market after hours yesterday, contracts did better. The decline quickly was made up and after that the market held steady at a net advance.

A feature of the morning were accounts from mill centers stating that many yarn and underwear mills were sold up for the year and that cloth mills easily could sell their output for six months ahead. This led to predictions of larger American mill takings.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Futures ranged as follows:

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Highest prices yet for the 1915 crop were reached here today in wheat, largely because of assertions from Liverpool that the maximum advance there was still to come. Under heavy profit taking sales, however, the close was unsettled, ¼c off to ⅝c up, with May at $1.32⅝ to $1.32¾, and July at $1.25⅝. Corn showed a net loss of ⅛@⅜ to ⅝@¾c and oats of ⅛@¼ to ½c. Provisions finished irregular, carying varying from 15 cents decline to a rise of 35 cents.

Talk that the cold wave would diminish offerings in the northwest and perhaps do serious damage to winter wheat was current, but the effect on prices was more than offset in the last half hour by a rush of sales to realize profits before the week-end. The outcome was a small net loss in the July option, whereas May wound up at a little advance.

Expected large arrivals had a depressing influence on corn.

Oats sympathized with corn, but held up better.

PRESS DAY PLANNED FOR MARCH 13 AT FORT WORTH SHOW

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, Jan. 22.—Press day at the National Feeders and Breeders' show, which will be held here March 11-18, has been set for Monday, March 13, and a general committee of Fort Worth newspaper men has been appointed to make arrangements for the annual dinner that will be held at the Saddle and Sirloin club on East Exchange avenue.

The committee consists of Ray H. McKey, chairman; Claude Callan, J. Edgomery Brown, W. A. Abbey, A. L. Chapman, W. A. Bowan, Raymond Leslie, Will V. Grant, Heppner Blackman, Frank Chapman, Roy C. Murphy, Frank Anderson, I. J. Newton Jr., Aaron Smith, H. Barnhill, J. Garfield Crawford, C. W. Woodman, John Sneed and Grady Triplett.

The management of the show decided to appoint the committee early in order that plenty of time be given for the arrangement of a more pleasing program than ever before. The National Feeders and Breeders' show has been holding a press day dinner for several years to demonstrate to the newspaper men its appreciation of their work in exploiting the exposition.

Chairman McKinley announces that he will call an early meeting of the general committee and appoint various subcommittees to handle the various parts of the work.

At It Again.

The art of prevarication, vulgarly known as lying, is, when once well cultivated, a most difficult accomplishment to drop.

It was so that a young fellow who was pushed into a business, to keep him out of mischief, had found it.

His employer also found it out, and he was severely admonishing him as to the evils which resulted from such wickedness as lying.

"It is very bad," he was concluding, "You are always lying."

"Sir," said the young man, indignantly, "I would have you known that I am a gentleman."

"'Pon my soul, I never knew such a chap. There you go again."—Tit-Bits.
